SOCIAL ARBITER OF CAPITAL DIES AT BAR HARBOR

Mrs. Henderson, Author and Reform Leader, Fought Tobacco.

OFFERED HOME HERE TO VICE PRESIDENTS

Widow of Missouri Senator Surprised District by Destroying Liquor.

The last of a trio of grande dames of Washington society who have died this year passed last night with the death at Bar Harbor, Me., of Mrs. John B. Henderson, widow of the late Senator John B. Henderson, of Missouri, who also served as a Union general during the Civil War.

The death of this nonogenarian leader of the exclusive inner circle of Washington leaves no claimant to this title since the deaths earlier in the year of Mrs. George Dewey, widow of the admiral, and Mrs. Richard T. Townsend, widow of the railroad magnate.

Mrs. Henderson, however, was noted for more than her social achievements, outstanding as they were, for she was an author of note, a builder of beautiful residences, a leader in several reform movements, and a world known vegetarian whose theories in this line were unique and interesting.

Offered Vice President Home.

Lately Mrs. Henderson had been prominent in the news through her offer to the United States Senate of a palatial home on upper Sixteenth street northwest for the occupancy of Vice Presidents of the United States. Before the Senate had a chance to express itself in the matter Mrs. Henderson's granddaughter, Mrs. Beatrice Wholean, filed suit for an injunction to prevent the gift.

Washington society was startled when in reply to Mrs. Wholean's suit Mrs. Henderson revealed a long cherished secret that Mrs. Wholean was not the daughter of her only son, John B. Henderson, jr., who died six or seven years ago, but had been adopted by him and his wife while in infancy. Later it was also divulged by Mrs. Henderson that she had formally filed papers of adoption of Mrs. Wholean in the District Supreme Court which had been sealed and had not become public.

Court action which followed is said to have weakened Mrs. Henderson to such an extent that her last illness ensued, although she had been in failing health for years.

During former President Coolidge's term as Vice President of the United States Mrs. Henderson offered him a free home in one of her Sixteenth street mansions, but Mr. Coolidge declined with the laconic remark that a hotel suite was sufficient for his needs.

Social Figure for Half Century.

For more than 50 years Mrs. Henderson has been a leading figure in Washington society. Her romance with Senator Henderson attracted great notice. She was Miss Mary Foote, daughter of the Commissioner of Patents in post Civil War days. She was born in Saratoga Springs, N. Y. One of the belles of Washington society, accomplished and known even then for her writing, Miss Foote captured the doughty general and senator almost at first sight. During the impeachment trial of Andrew Johnson in March, 1868, Miss Foote, then engaged to Senator Henderson, was one of the ladies who sat in the gallery and followed the course of the trial with breathless interest. She must have been present on that final day when Senator Henderson's ringing vote "Not guilty," was one of the deciding factors which released a President of the United States from the ignominy of being impeached for high treason.

Marriage Brilliant Event.

Shortly after this trial, Miss Foote and Senator Henderson were married, with a brilliant attendance of officials and social celebrities.

Upon the completion of Senator Henderson's terms in the United States Senate, and when he was through with political life in his own State, where he was a close friend of the late Speaker Champ Clark, although they were of different political faith, Senator and Mrs. Henderson decided to make their permanent home in Washington. They had one son only, John B. Henderson, jr.

So about 40 years ago they built what was then one of the architectural marvels of the National Capital, Boundary Castle, at Sixteenth street and Florida avenue, a brown stone building in imitation of Schloss Rheinstein or some other German castle. It is situated on a hill, terraced steeply to the street, with a toy lodge at the gateway. In it are many objects of art, including one of the choicest collections of Lucien Powell's paintings anywhere. Rare old tapestries, antique furniture, armor, and a library of priceless value make this one of the really unique mansions of Washington. There Senator and Mrs. Henderson held court, as it were. All Washington came to them there and Mrs. Henderson was an undoubted leader.

Writes Political Papers.

Here her talent for writing was developed to a higher point. During Benjamin Harrison's campaign for the Presidency she was writing political papers. One of them, "Protection and the Tariff," had quite a vogue. Then followed "Decadence of the Nations,"

2 BUILDINGS TO COST $6,250,000 PLANNED

Pepco Assembles Property for Its Power Station; Oil Company Gets Site.

Two private building projects with an estimated valuation of $6,250,000 were revealed yesterday in the assembly of a large tract of property in the Southwest section for the proposed $5,000,000 auxiliary power plant of the Potomac Electric Power Co., and the filing with the District building inspector's office of plans by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey for a $1,250,000 office and service building at 201-227 B street northwest.

Land assembled in what Potomac Electric Power Co. officials referred to as a "tentative site" for its projected power station includes approximately 400,000 square feet and embraces 75 parcels abutting T, U and V streets southwest in the salient formed by the junction of James Creek Canal with the Potomac River, near Buzzards Point. The property assemblage, one of the largest in years, was handled by E. Whyland Shafer, of the office of McKeever & Goss, Inc.

Plans for the building of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, forced to move from its present location at Pennsylvania avenue and Third street northwest by the District building program, show a six-story building of concrete, stone, steel and brick, containing 186 rooms and a total cubic content of 2,330,000 feet.

James Stewart Co., Inc., is the builder, and Clyde N. and Nelson Friz, of Baltimore, the architects. The building will have a width of approximately 337 feet, a depth of approximately 80 feet and will be 94 feet high. Razing of fifteen structures on the site already has begun.

Man Held in $125 Theft Tries to Hang Himself

Rirchard E. Bell, arrested in connection with the entry of a downtown clothing store Wednesday night, when $125 in merchandise was reported stolen, attempted to hang himself with his shirt in a cell at the Third Precinct Station late yesterday. He was cut down by Policeman C. F. Lowery.

Another man is being sought for questioning in the robbery for which Bell is held for investigation. He is 38 years old and lives in Brentwood, Md.

Student Training Corps Lads Will Visit Hoover

A party of 850 youths from the District of Columbia, Virginia and Maryland, in training at C. M. T. C. camps near the Capital, will be received by President Hoover on the White House grounds Monday.

Following the reception by the President, the citizen soldiers will march to Keith's theater where they will be guests of Isaac Gans, of the C. M. T. C. committee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Vertical Drinking Jets Hit by Woman's Bureau

(Associated Press.)

The vertical jet drinking fountain was under indictment yesterday by the United States Woman's Bureau.

The slant stream fountain or individual paper drinking cup was urged in its stead.

Fifteen specific diseases were traced to the vertical bubbler in the bureau's just-issued bulletin, "Sanitary Drinking Facilities." Tabulation of 1,506 places of employment in 21 States showed only 49 using the recommended angle jets. Forty per cent used bubbling fountains, 25 per cent the common drinking cup, 30 per cent made no provisions.

Miss Agnes L. Peterson, acting chief, stressed the study as most important to the health of women workers.

Boat of Henry du Pont Badly Damaged by Fire

Wilmington, Del., July 16 (A.P.).—The yacht Tequilla, owned by Henry B. du Pont and said to be valued at $150,000, was badly damaged by fire today while it was anchored at the New Castle Yacht Club basin at New Castle.

The fire started from an explosion of gasoline, the cause of which has not been determined. Paul Holton, chef, the only person on the vessel, was slightly burned

BOARD SELLS WHEAT DESPITE FARM PLEA

Holdings Reduced 1,000,000 Bushels in Two Weeks, Stone Admits.

(United Press.)

The Federal Farm Board has disposed of something more than 1,000,000 bushels of its surplus wheat holdings in the last two weeks, notwithstanding pleas of farm belt political leaders and others that the board hold all of the surplus.

Chairman James C. Stone, announcing yesterday that such sales had been made in the Northwest, described them as "emergency" transactions and declared they had no effect upon wheat prices. Other Government wheat, aggregating "possibly several million bushels," has been sold in the Southwest, Stone said, but it has been replaced bushel for bushel.

Thus the Southwest sales are not to be counted in the 5,000,000-bushel monthly maximum to which the board has restricted itself, but the Northwest sales are to be deducted from that figure. Stone said he did not have the exact figures for the latter, but that they amounted to between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 bushels.

Stone frowned on the idea of any Government cooperation in suggestions from the farm belt for a debt moratorium as between farmers and those to whom the farmers are indebted.

Such arrangements would have to be strictly private matters arranged between individual debtors and creditors, he said, and the possibility of a moratorium on Farm Board loans to cooperatives was dismissed with the comment that a large portion of these loans do not mature for two or three years.

The Farm Board chairman declared he is uninformed as to the mysterious new plan to solve the wheat situation said to be in process of formulation by Vice President Curtis and Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas. Chairman Stone's recent conference with Mr. Curtis, he said, was merely a discussion of the "general situation" and "about possible reduction of acreage," which is the solution consistently advocated by the board.

From a well-informed source a hint was dropped yesterday that the new Curtis-Capper plan may develop into a compromise involving an acreage reduction agreement on the part of producers in return for a pledge from the board to withhold its surplus holdings from the market.

Stone served emphatic notice yesterday that under no circumstances would the board be induced to resume market stabilization operations. He said it would be necessary "to buy all the surplus," and he added, "You can't do that on $500,000,000."

The board's available funds just now are far below $200,000,000, it was learned, the balance of the $500,-

RAIL HEAD JUSTIFIES HIGHER RATES STAND

New Haven President Says Agriculture Can Pay More, Despite Low Prices.

(Associated Press.)

The Interstate Commerce Commission was told yesterday that despite low prices agriculture can stand an increase in freight rates. This statement was made by J. J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, testifying in hearings on the carrier's petition for a 15 per cent increase.

Shortly before, William Wolf Bikle, chief attorney for the roads, had said they found it impossible to fix a date on which the proposed increase might be abandoned. He suggested that the commission keep the case open, if an increase is granted, for any future action that might be warranted.

Mr. Pelley was questioned at length after reading his prepared statement, by Commissioner Eastman, sitting as an observer, and State Commissioners Hugh H. White, of Alabama, and Paul A. Walker, of Oklahoma. To many of their questions he answered that he did not know, or that traffic departments had asked the increases.

C. E. Elmquist, a Minneapolis attorney, questioned the railroad president after the commissioners had finished.

"Do you know farm products are as low as 30 years ago?" asked Mr. Elmquist. "And do you think it is good business to impose the highest freight rates ever known at this time? Do you think it is good policy?"

"Yes. It is our policy," Mr. Pelley replied.

"Do you believe a 15 per cent increase in rates on cotton to New England would enable them to compete with the South? Were you advised that the textile industry could bear it?"

"It was recommended to me."

"Can wheat at its present low price stand the increase?"

"In my opinion, yes."

Mr. Pelley followed Roy S. Kern, Pittsburgh rate expert, who finished his testimony regarding coal rates begun yesterday.

Mr. Kern explained how specific rates embodying the increase would be applied to the various coal and coke producing districts so as to retain unchanged present rate differentials. Coal and coke rates are being considered separately from other commodities.

It developed during a barrage of questions from attorneys scattered throughout the hearing room that application of the method outlined by Mr. Kern would result in an increase of more than 15 per cent in the Ohio rate-making section of the great Eastern coal fields.

H. A. Scandrett, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, followed Mr. Pelley on the stand, and read a prepared statement intended to show the railroads had been forced to drop important improvement projects. He expressed the belief increased rates "would be most helpful in relief of unemployment."

Mr. Scandrett, representing Western carriers, said the railroad heads had carefully considered what could be done and decided a uniform increase presented the only solution.

He said the carriers were only asking such an increase as would enable them to operate their property safely and added: "It would also be highly desirable, in this period of lowered costs, to resume in volume programs

Helene Snubbed by Carol In Edict of Her Departure

Bucharest, July 16 (U. P.).—The unhappy romance of Queen Helene and King Carol of Roumania appeared tonight to have been brought definitely to an end by the Queen.

Helene notified the government that she would go abroad for medical treatment and to visit her family, with the consent of the King. Her sudden departure, it was believed in court circles, was due to the fact that she was not invited to the coming wedding of Princess Ileana, sister of the King, and Count Anton von Hapsburg.

Carol took the opportunity to embarrass his estranged wife further in the official communique announcing her intention to leave Roumania. Helene was referred to not as "Her Majesty," the title accorded a queen, but as "Her Highness," to which Helene is entitled by virtue of her birth as a princess.

It was understood Helene would leave for Germany tomorrow.

TANKS EMPTY, FLIERS GROUND NEAR BUDAPEST

Hungarians Miss Goal by 14 Miles on Ocean Hop of 3,200 Miles.

HUGE CROWD LEAVES AFTER PATIENT WAIT

Plane, Battered by Storm Over Sea, Damaged in Rough Landing.

Budapest, Hungary, July 16 (A.P.). Failing by only a few miles to reach the goal of their approximately 3,200-mile nonstop flight from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to Budapest, Capt. Alexander Magyar and Capt. George Endres were forced to land their transatlantic monoplane Justice For Hungary near the little village of Bicke, 14 miles from here, tonight.

The last drop of gasoline exhausted, they landed the ship in rough ground along a railway track at 7:40 p. m. (1:40 p. m., E. S. T.). They had covered approximately 3,200 miles over land and sea in a little over 26 hours and were almost in sight of the goal when the gasoline tank ran dry.

Ship Slightly Damaged.

The propeller was broken in landing, and one of the wings of the plane was damaged, but the fliers themselves were uninjured. They crawled out of the plane, grinning broadly.

Capt. Magyar walked to a railroad signal box immediately after landing and phoned the news of their mishap to the Matyasfold Airdrome.

An airplane had just arrived at the field from Vienna when Capt. Magyar's message arrived and the plane was sent immediately to Biacke to pick up the weary heroes of the air.

In this plane they were taken to the airfield. The huge crowd which had waited long and patiently for their arrival had dispersed in the meantime and the members of the Hungarian Cabinet, who had interrupted a meeting to rush to the airdrome when they learned that the transatlantic plane had been sighted in the vicinity, had resumed their sessions.

Greeted at Premier's Home.

The premier, Count Bethlen, had expressed an earnest desire to see the aviators as soon as they arrived, however, and they were driven immediately to his home in an automobile where they were welcomed by the count and other members of the cabinet.

Although from the popular point of view the arrival of the aviators came somewhat as an anticlimax to all the hopes and expectations that had been built upon it, formal ceremonies to celebrate the exploit were being planned tonight for tomorrow. Among the ceremonies will be the laying of a wreath on the grave of Hungary's Unknown Soldier.

The fliers took off from Harbor Grace, N. F., at 11:18 a. m. E. S. T. yesterday.

The first report received from them last night came from the steamship Stavangerfjord, which picked up their radio signals and indicated they had covered approximately half the distance across the Atlantic.

Plane Battered by Storm.

Draining well-filled tankards of beer at the Matyasfold Airdrome after their arrival tonight, the airmen said their take-off at Harbor Grace was made difficult owing to the weight of the machine.

They noticed a hole near the top of their fuel tank, they said, and had to pour out part of the precious gasoline supply to prevent greater leakage.

"We hardly saw anything of the ocean during the trip," they said. "It was wrapped in dense blankets of fog. We were overtaken by a severe storm toward midnight last night. The storm lasted three hours and shook the plane very badly.

"The visibility improved toward morning. As we were flying over France we lost our direction and had to dip as near as possible to the ground to read the names on some of the railroad stations.

"When we first reached Hungarian territory our fuel had nearly given out, and in the neighborhood of Biacke we could not keep the motor running any longer and were forced to come down.

Neither Slept on Flight.

"Neither of us slept a wink during the flight, but our friendship carried through our difficulties. It was a sad decision we had to make before landing, but there was nothing else for it."

The fliers left Harbor Grace expecting to meet some bad weather. Dr. James H. Kimball, New York Weather Bureau meteorologist, telegraphed them that they might expect to have to do much blind-flying because of low lying cloud areas along much of the route.

The Justice for Hungary had a radio receiving set and a transmitter that sent on a 600-meter wavelength.

Early this morning the steamship Maya reported it had received a radio

U. S. TO JOIN SIX OTHER COUNTRIES AT PARLEY ON PLIGHT OF EUROPE

MacDonald and Henderson Cancel Plans to Go to Berlin.

BRUENING, CURTIUS WILL BE AT SESSION

Pound Sterling Improves on Exchanges; Better Tone in Stock Market.

London, July 16 (A.P.).—Arrangements moved forward rapidly tonight for the extraordinary conference here Monday evening among the ministers of Great Britain, France, the United States, Germany, Belgium, Italy and Japan to seek a formula by which Central Europe may be eased of its economic travail.

Meanwhile, directors of the Bank of England considered the money market strong enough, despite its stringencies, for the bank rate to remain at 2½ per cent.

The pound sterling improved on the exchanges, and a better tone prevailed in the stock market.

Plans for the Monday conference, the greatest gathering of statesmen of the great powers since the post-war treaty days, forced an eleventh-hour abandonment of the much advertised goodwill visit of Prime Minister Mac Donald and foreign Secretary Henderson to Berlin.

Bruening, Curtis to Confer.

Instead, Chancellor Bruening and foreign Minister Curtis, of Germany, are coming to London, stopping on the way at Paris for conferences with Premier Laval and foreign Minister Briand. Foreign Secretary Henderson, now in Paris, will return to London instead of continuing to Berlin.

The United States is expected to be represented at the Monday conference by Secretary of State Stimson, who is in Paris. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, now on the Riviera, and Hugh Gibson, American Ambassador to Belgium, who arrived from Brussels last night to participate in the meeting of Young plan experts which convenes tomorrow.

Mr. Mac Donald, Mr. Henderson and Philip Snowden, chancellor of the Exchequer, will be the British representatives. Mr. Mac Donald probably will preside.

Foreign Minister Hymans and Premier Renkin will represent Belgium, and the French participants are expected to be Premier Laval, N. Briand and Finance Minister Flandin.

Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, it is believed here, will speak for Italy.

Semiofficially, it was stated the conference would deal principally with economic matters and was made necessary by the growing seriousness of the German crisis. Emphasis would be placed, it was said, on measures to prevent difficulties similar to those of Germany from spreading over the rest of Europe.

Political Phase Airing.

In authoritative quarters it also was learned the political phases of the crisis would be discussed. There was widespread expectation that Germany might come perpared to make certain political concessions in order to get credit to stabilize her economic position.

Final decisions about the conference were made last night and early this morning. As illustrative of the urgency of the situation, it was

Streets Torn Up and Stores Plundered as Police Fire on Mobs.

Gelsenkirchen, Germany (Friday), July 17 (A.P.).—Police and Communists rioters were intrenched against each other here early this morning waiting for daylight after a night of rioting in which streets were torn up, windows smashed, stores plundered, volleys fired and barricades thrown up.

The outbreak began shortly before midnight, after smouldering all day. Police heads called out all their men and sent calls to nearby towns for help.

Communists smashed all lights in the Olga Bismarck, main thoroughfare, and tore up pavements behind which they intrenched themselves. Police finally threw a cordon around the rioters and decided to wait until daylight.

The town was practically in darkness and it was impossible to ascertain the casualties.

The rioters began under cover of darkness after they had smashed all street lights. They were met with a volley of pistol shots from the police and the rioters then threw up barricades in the streets.

Riots broke out here Wednesday night also and were suppressed by the police. Although there were threatenings earlier yesterday, police believed they had the situation in hand until the lights were smashed last night.

Duesseldorf, Germany, July 16 (A. P.).—Police were pelted with stones here late tonight when they attempted to put down an unemployment demonstration. The officers opened fire with their pistols and quickly gained the upper hand. No casualties were reported.

Coblenz, Germany (Friday), July 17 (A.P.).—A mob of Communists which smashed street lights here early this morning, tore up pavements and attempted to erect barricades in the Castorstrasse was put down by police.

Hoover Asks Mellon to Join Stimson in London Monday.

MEETING EXPECTED TO RESCUE GERMANY

President Indicates America Will Refrain From Discussing Young Plan.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

President Hoover announced late yesterday that he had asked Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon to attend the seven-power conference that is to be held in London next Monday. The fact that Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson had been directed to attend the London conference was announced earlier in the day.

The conference, called by the British government, is a sequel to President Hoover's debt moratorium proposal and out of it is expected to come a plan that will save Germany from economic collapse.

President Hoover and his advisers, Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle and Acting Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, had two talks with Secretary of State Stimson over the transatlantic telephone yesterday.

President's Statement.

The message to Secretary Mellon asking him to take part in the London conference was sent through the American Embassy in Paris. Mr. Mellon is now on a vacation in southern France.

Shortly after 4 o'clock, President Hoover issued the following statement:

"As has already been announced, Secretary Stimson will attend the conference in London, which has been called by the British government for Monday to consider the present emergency problems in Central Europe.

"I have asked Secretary Mellon, if consistent with his plans, also to attend in order that we may have the benefit of his advice as well.

"It is our understanding that the conference is limited entirely to questions of the present emergency."

To Avoid Young Plan Talk.

This last paragraph was taken to mean that the American Government does not expect to become embroiled in a discussion over revision of the Young reparations plan or revision of the allied war debt settlements with this country.

That there will be such a discussion, however, seems certain here, and Secretary Stimson and Secretary Mellon will be exposed to it even if they don't actually take a part in it.

So far as is known here, no specific agenda has been drawn up for Monday's conference. The expectation here is that, once the conference opens, it will be impossible to limit the range of discussion.

American Bankers Ready.

France—or, at least, a large section of the French press—has been demanding that Germany, before she be given any further financial relief, agree to abandon her proposed customs union with Austria, agree to abandon all cruiser construction and give certain political guarantees.

The Washington Government feels that if France and Germany could reach some sort of rapprochement, a solution of the crisis in Germany would quickly follow.

Chancellor Bruening of Germany is scheduled to arrive in Paris today for a conference with Premier Laval of France. It may be that they will work out an understanding in advance of the London meeting.

American bankers stand ready to go to the rescue of Germany. First, however, they want something tangible in the way of assurances that their loans will be well secured. Such assurances may come from the London conference.

Significance of Meeting.

The London conference no doubt will be regarded as a historic one, not alone because of the vital problems that are to be discussed, but because of the presence therein of two of America's leading statesmen—Secretary Stimson and Secretary Mellon.

When President Hoover made his proposal for a one-year holiday on

Mrs. Minnie Kennedy Sues To Annul Recent Marriage

Complaint Says Husband of 3 Weeks Has Wife With Prior Claims.

Los Angeles, July 16 (U.P.).—Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy, who went through a marriage ceremony with the Rev. Guy Edward Hudson three weeks ago, filed suit late today for annulment of any tie that may bind her.

In her single-page complaint, the mother of Aimee Semple McPherson said that at the time she married the Rev. Hudson he had another wife. She gave the other woman's name as L. Margaret Newton Hudson.

Mrs. Kennedy sought relief from the court, after two other women had claimed that newspaper photographs led them to believe that the Rev. Hudson was the man they had married.

One of the women was Mrs. Margaret Newton Hudson, of Los Angeles, the Mrs. L. Margaret Newton Hudson of the complaint. The other woman was said to be a Mrs. Guy Edward Hudson, of Denver, Colo., but she was not mentioned in the annulment suit.

In the hours just before the legal paper was filed, Mrs. Kennedy received newspaper reporters in her hotel room, and protested her firm confidence in the man she had married under a romantic moon at midnight on June 28, 1931. The ceremony occurred beside an artificial lake at Longview, Wash.

Later in the day, however, Mrs. Kennedy revealed her intention to file suit and modified her remarks about the Rev. Hudson when she said:

"I still love him and he still loves me. However, there was nothing else we could do except part."

Shortly after being "tipped" that an annulment suit would be filed at 4:55 p. m.—five minutes before the county clerk's office closed—reporters walked into the law office of Frank Lober, attorney for Mrs. Kennedy. There they found the Rev. Hudson.

Hudson visibly was embarrassed, and Lober hastily crammed some official looking papers into his pocket.

"Mr. Hudson, we understand that you are going to consent to a suit for annulment," said one reporter.

Hudson nodded affirmatively.

"Also, we understand that you want to prevent possible bigamy charges," he was told.

The Rev. Hudson became angry and left the office. Outside, however, he consented to talk briefly, and said:

"I still love Mrs. Kennedy, and I always will."

He would not indicate definitely at that time whether they planned remarriage later.

reparations and debts, Europe hailed his move as a definite indication that the United States was abandoning her policy of political aloofness. With Secretary Stimson and Secretary Mellon sitting in at a conference with the representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Japan, Germany and Austria, Europe probably sees a fulfillment of that prophecy.

Six months ago it seemed that about as far as the United States would go in participating in European affairs would be to have "observers" present at conferences such as the one that is to be held in London.

Secretary Stimson and Secretary Mellon, however, are going to London in an official capacity.

The American representatives are expected to have a large staff of assistants at the London conference. Hugh S. Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium, who has been detailed to attend a conference of financial experts in connection with the Hoover holiday plan, will be on hand, and likewise Frederick Livesey, State Department reparations expert, who is now on his way to Europe. In addition, the two Cabinet officers will be surrounded by attaches from the Paris and London embassies.

Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader of the Senate, last night sought to head off any talk about the United States becoming involved in European entanglements. Watson was a bitter foe of American participation in the League of Nations and in American adherence to the World Court.

"It is my understanding," he said last night, "that only financial problems are to come up at the meeting. I have no idea that our representatives will be drawn into any discussions relating to the political problems of Europe. I think any involvement in European political affairs would be a mistake."

In connection with the new role that the United States is now playing in world affairs, significance was attached to a radio address which President Hoover delivered yesterday to the fiftieth anniversary convention of the International Christian Endeavor Societies in San Francisco. In praising the organization, President Hoover said:

"It recognizes that national independence and international understanding are not incompatible."

That, in the opinion of observers here, might very well sum up the President's creed with regard to the United States and its relationship with the other nations of the world.

Reichsbank to Resume Exchange Quotations

Berlin, July 16 (A.P.).—For the first time since last Saturday foreign exchange rates, authorized by the Reichsbank, will appear in tomorrow's papers. This step, the Reichsbank explained, was taken "in the interests of business."

Readers will see the mark quoted, officially at least, where it was July 11. The dollar will be shown at 4.209 cash and 4.217 for checks, the same as on July 11. Sterling and franc values also will remain unchanged.

pointed out that not until nearly dawn today did the government conclude it would be necessary to give up the projected MacDonald-Henderson visit to Berlin.

Invitations to the nations which will participate in the conference were issued at 1 a. m. today. By tonight Japan was the only one to accept formally, but other acceptances were expected immediately.

Until late today it was uncertain whether th experts, called to reconcile the Hoover proposal with the Young plan, would meet tomorrow as scheduled. It finally was decided, however, that they would convene in the morning and discuss preliminary matters, and would hold themselves ready to act when the ministers get together.

Premier Declares Chile Moratorium

New Government Also Reduces Pay of All Employes.

Santiago, Chile, July 16 (A.P.).—Premier Planquier today declared a moratorium on the foreign debt until August 1, and straightway set in motion a thoroughgoing governmental housecleaning to effect economies.

The premier, whose government is only two days old, announced that for the rest of July interest and service charges on foreign obligations, estimated to be about $2,040,000, would be deposited locally and held in trust. After August 1 a decision will be made about future payments.

This action ties up interest expected by holders of Chilean bonds, most of whom are residents of the United States and England.

As an earnest that the government was doing its best to cope with the economic situation caused by the world depression and the disorganized mineral and nitrate markets, the premier immediately decreed large salary reductions. The reductions hit all the way from ministers to office boys, affecting also the army and navy.

WORKMEN'S ERROR ALARMS EXCHANGE

Repairer's Oversight Makes London Market Believe Bank Rate Hiked.

London, July 16 (A.P.).—Two engineers working in the stock exchange got mixed up in their gadgets today, and thereby gave the financial world a thrill.

As a result of their error, it was announced that the bank rate had been boosted 1½ per cent to 4 per cent. The engineers' mistake was rectified in a hurry—otherwise the financial world would have had something more than a mere thrill.

The men had been testing the sign of the electric apparatus on which bank rate changes are indicated at the stock exchange and, after cleaning it, had left an indicator in the wrong place.

The result was that when the directors of the Bank of England decided not to change the rate, and pressed a button which should have flashed their decision on the signboard, the device registered an increase to 4 per cent.

While many financiers had expected a slightly upward revision of the rate, an increase of 1½ per cent shocked the stock exchange, and members stood about talking in whispers, accepting the news as an indication that the situation brought about by the withdrawal of gold from England and the German crisis was more serious than had been thought.

In about ten minutes, after some frantic telephone calls, the mistake was discovered and a large blackboard, on which was chalked the message, "Bank rate unchanged," was taken on the exchange floor.

The members cheered lustily and there was much running about to correct cables which had been dispatched to every part of the world.

As a consequence of the unchanged rate, which was taken as an indication that conditions were better than might have been supposed, the exchange bettered somewhat. The pound sterling was quoted at just under 4.85.

Newspapers commented that the unchanged rate showed England was keeping her head in the financial crisis.

A number of shots were fired, but no police were wounded. Whether there were casualties among the rioters has not been determined.

Berlin Trip Cancelled By British Statesmen

Berlin, July 16 (A.P.).—Extraordinary diplomatic developments in Paris and London today snarled the week-end program of Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius, making it necessary for them to leave Germany during the height of the financial crisis.

Telephone lines linking Berlin, London and Paris buzzed unceasingly all day, with the upshot that the visit of Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson to the German capital was called off.

Herr Bruening and Dr. Curtius instead ordered their grips packed for Paris, and Frau Curtius hastily cancelled the catering arrangements for a "German chequers" week-end.

Meanwhile Germany was cheered by one factor and depressed by another. Arrangements to meet tomorrow's pay rolls were completed and the nation's banks, closed for two days by President von Hindenburg's decree, were reopened. But they turned away large crowds of sullen and money-hungry depositors, for they were not permitted to pay out funds held in savings accounts.

The cabinet busied itself with the preparation of new decrees, which were expected to be made public late tonight.

Police chiefs throughout the nation took measures to prevent a repetition of Communist riots.

Executives of the big industrial and shipping concerns took their own emergency measures made necessary by the abnormal situation.

Among these was the Ford Motor Co. of Cologne, which announced suspension of production "for a few days," but at the same time denied any intention of wholesale dismissal of employes.

On the other hand, the German Lufthansa, facing complete paralysis of air-passenger traffic, announced that all agents had been instructed to accept checks on German banks in payment of fares and freight charges. Many retail firms adopted similar measures, which were the more noteworthy in view of the fact that bank checks never have been widely accepted by merchants here—spot cash or duly opened credit being the rule.

The fact that pay rolls were met was considered of the greatest importance.

In front of some savings banks in Berlin crowds began collecting as early as 6 a. m. Among them were many elderly women—too old to hope again if this trouble should turn out as did the post-war inflation period, and mark the end of their savings.

Many depositors grumbled loudly and there were cries of "How are we going to eat?" But for the most part there was no tendency to disorder.

In Breslau, however, depositors stormed the Municipal Savings Bank and became so menacing a large force of police was called out.

Watson Continues Outside Job Fight

May Try Moral Suasion to Induce Firemen "To Cooperate."

Despite the ruling of Justice Jennings Bailey that the District Commissioners have not authority to prevent firemen from holding extra jobs, Fire Chief George S. Watson intends to try again to put an end to the practice, he said yesterday.

"Even if we do not have the right to issue an order, we might try moral suasion," he commented. "On the efficiency rating of each firemen there is a blank for cooperation. I take it that a fireman who will not put himself in line with the expressed desires of the Commissioners can not get a very high rating for cooperation."

Chief Watson said he intended to have a conference with Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, and the corporation counsel just as soon as he obtained a copy of the court's opinion.

Cornwallis Is Outdone By Modern Surrender

By JACK DALY

LIKE Banquo's ghost, the spectre of Lord Cornwallis rises to rebuke the Yorktown sesquicentennial commission.

It may be remembered—if this isn't going back too far—that the good Lord Cornwallis, Charlie to his friends, came over from the Old Country for some hunting and shooting on England's colonial preserves. In vernacular phraseology, the going was not so good. His lordship gave it up as a bad job on October 19, 1781.

Come this harvest time, that will have been 150 years ago, as time flies.

A native Virginian, George Washington, who was quite active around these parts, and whose 200th birthday anniversary soon will be celebrated, had the honor of receiving the proffered sword from the surrendering—pardon the word — Cornwallis, at Yorktown. Corny's mother had taught him, "Come back with your sword, or without it, but come back!"

Well, Corny went back empty-handed. Naturally, this surrender was an important event. It meant a good deal in the old days—still does. The Americans want it celebrated. The State of Virginia plans a pageant to be staged shortly after the first full moon in October. For fear of wounding British sensibilities, however, Senator Swanson and Representative Bland—both of the Old Dominion—advocate the suppression of the main event, viz, the laying down of British arms. It is a gracious thought. The senator is a good Democrat. He recalls the adage of the Republican foes—the Old Guard dies but never surrenders. In this light, Cornwallis was no Old Guard. Believe it or not, he did surrender. But Senator Swanson and Representative Bland would soft-pedal Washington's victory at Yorktown.

As Homer sings, two urns stood by the throne of Jove and alternately he gave out good and bad gifts to men. So it was when Gen. Washington received the sword of Cornwallis, by Jove.

* * * *

THINGS happen, and there is no getting away from the memory of them. There was, for instance, Waterloo, a village in Brabant Province, where Wellington and Blucher defeated Napoleon on a holy Sabbath, June 18, 1815. It took two men to do the job—two good men and true—but, nevertheless, the British are mighty proud of that rout and the colloquialism that came of it. Waterloo, wherever the word is spoken, will always mean an utter defeat, an empire's annihilation. Imagine a pageant of Waterloo and no Napoleon! Without Cornwallis there would have been no Yorktown.

It isn't as if the British can not stage a celebration or two of their own—Poitiers and Agincourt. Or, take the twelfth year of Edward III, A. D., 1338, when they won the victory at Cressy. Edward and his valiant son drove the hosts of France clear back to the Towers of Paris. Then, there was the seige of Orleans, in 1429, when the British, under the Duke of Bedford, faced the French noblemen—Xaintraille, Lahire, De La Tour de Chavigny. If the Mother Country, as some sobbingly call it, regrets the activities of Lafayette in the American Revolution, she can recall with greater glow the Chevalier de Lafayette, an ancestor of our Revolutionary companion-at-arms. The Chevalier was overwhelmingly defeated at Orleans, trying to capture a supply wagon. Also, there was the battle of Hastings, which gave to the Norman conquerors the island from which sprang Cornwallis, who quickly sprang back again.

So long as we are going to teach the Young Idea how to shoot, they might as well be straight shooters.

To the victor belongs the soil.

* * * *

CORNWALLIS' surrender was overshadowed by George Washington's victory and the learned Theban, Bland, puts it rather delicately. Says he:

"We are depicting something bigger than Cornwallis' surrender. We are depicting an idea and what it meant to the world. My own thought is that this is a bigger idea."

Depicted in that light, it is. The idea was to get the British out of the country by Christmas, so they could go home and see Santa Claus come down their own chimneys.

Mr. Bland cites one more objection to dragging in Cornwallis and his cohorts. An exact reproduction of the scene would require the training of several thousand American Army men. Tush! Put in a requisition for a detachment of British Tommies, clad in their ragged regimentals—"nothin' much before, an' rather less than 'arf o' that be'ind." This would be the final touch in the clasping of hands across the sea. Let by-gones be by-gones.

Yorktown without the surrender, the ecclesiastical year without Lent, the Schmeling-Stribling fight without Ma and Pa, the American League without Boston.

Much as it grieves the old folk in the Mother-in-law Country, we must have Cornwallis.

PLAN TO GIVE CREDIT ABROAD IS ATTACKED

Federal Reserve Bank Lacks Authority for Such Loans, Glass Says.

Lynchburg, Va., July 16 (A.P.).—United States Senator Carter Glass, a member of the Senate banking and currency committee and chairman of the Senate subcommittee charged with recommending changes in the Federal reserve act, today severely criticized a proposal to have the Federal Reserve banks grant large financial credits to foreign banks.

Commenting on a statement by Undersecretary Mills in which the latter asserted that "it is well known that the Government has no control over the foreign credit policies of the Federal Reserve banks and under well-established and sound public policy, they have been kept free from executive influence or interference, Senator Glass said:

"Mr. Mills is both technically and fundamentally right, except that the State Department at Washington, without any sanction of law, has sought to control private credits, and to interfere with the Federal Reserve System.

Mills' Discretion Praised.

"I am glad to note, as I inferred anyhow, that Undersecretary Mills has more sense and greater discretion."

"Nevertheless," continued Senator Glass, "it is announced in the press dispatches that the Federal Reserve banks are to be drawn into the European financial debacle, and, without one semblance of statutory warrant, will 'join other central banks' in guaranteeing tremendous credits to foreign governments.

In short, it is stated, the trust funds and credits of the Federal Reserve banking system are to be hazarded in the maelstrom of this European financial panic. Should this utterly lawless thing be done, it will dishonor every responsible official of the system and give color and credence to the increasingly violent attacks of ignorant demagogues.

President Without Authority.

Senator Glass commented that it had been suggested in some quarters that the President of the United States, in conjunction with the "dominating figures" of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, should coerce the Federal Reserve Board at Washington to engage in this financial venture.

"The President of the United States," he said, "has not and never was intended to have any authority whatsoever over Federal Reserve banking policies, which are definitely fixed by statute, both affirmatively and negatively.

"The proposal to have the Federal Reserve system thrust into the vortex of European financial operations in the guise of buying prime commercial short-time bills is a discreditable proposition. These would be purely financial bills, without one particle of reference to any commercial transaction of any description."

Rome, July 16 (A.P.).—The Italian government has sequestrated an anti-papal pamphlet "Away With the Vatican" and ordered the arrest of its four authors.

One of the authors is Emilio Settimelli, who was editor of the recently-defunct Rome newspaper Impelo, which carried the banner line, "Mussolini is always right."

CORNWALLIS SCENE RULING DUE JULY 27

Yorktown Sesquicentennial Group Will Decide on Pageant Issue.

Final decision on inclusion of the Lord Cornwallis surrender scene in a pageant to be held at Yorktown in October will be made at a called meeting of the Yorktown Sesquicentennial Commission July 27.

A committee of the commission ruled the surrender scene from the pageant several weeks ago on the ground that it might offend British officials and guests invited to attend the affair. This ruling is understood to have been approved by the State Department. When the ruling came to light commission officials said all plans for the celebration were purely tentative.

Bloom Protests Deletion.

Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, protested against the deletion when he heard of it, and continued his attack on the decision yesterday.

He said elimination of the scene was a reflection on patriotic pageants and motion pictures he has scattered through the country.

"The surrender scene was most dignified, most pleasant, most courteous in every respect. Nothing could be gained by its deletion, and to run a pageant without it would be like having a motion picture without an ending," he declared.

Bland Plans Meeting.

Represetnative S. Otis Bland, of Virginia, secretary of the Yorktown Commission, said yesterday in Richmond that he was calling a meeting o fthe commission as a whole in the next week or two for a final decision in the matter.

Senator John G. Townsend, jr., a member of the commission, said he had received a telegram from Representative Bland advising him of a meeting of the commission on July 27.

Other members of the Yorktown Sesquicentennial Commission are Senator Swanson, of Virginia, its head; Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania; Senator Bingham, of Connecticut; Senator Wagner, of New York; Representative Bacon, of New York; Representative Fitzgerald, of Ohio; Representative Stobbs, of Massachusetts; Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, and Representative Crisp, of Georgia.

Total collections for the fiscal year 1931 amounted to $35,892,830.04, while receipts for the fiscal year 1930 were $34,864,276.25. The largest item, as usual, was real estate taxes, which reached $20,660,394.25. Other principal collections were:

Tangible personal taxes, $3,512,440.26; intangible, $2,661,069.44; automobile, $440,180.86; insurance, $304,029.35; interest and penalties, $476,529.15; gasoline, $1,659,264.98; miscellaneous, $2,258,577.57. PARIS DEBT PARLEY SLATED TOMORROW

Bruening and Curtius Will Attend Conference; Import Attached.

Paris, July 16 (A.P.).—A conference of major statesmen, which will include Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius of Germany, will be held here Saturday to discuss Germany's financial situation, it was announced tonight by Premier Laval.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson of the United States and Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson of Great Britain will participate in the conference which, according to Premier Laval's announcement, will discuss the question of financial guarantees for credit to be extended to Germany and also "measures of political achievement."

The announcement that the conference would be held Saturday was made by Premier Laval through a communique issued after a session of the French cabinet this afternoon. The cabinet meeting lasted three hours and followed an earlier conference this morning which Secretary Stimson and Mr. Henderson attended.

Premier Laval made it clear the plan for financial aid to Germany which will be discussed is a "French plan" and it was understood this accords with the views of Secretary Stimson and Mr. Henderson, who went over it during the two hours of this morning's meeting.

One phrase in the communique which the French premier issued tonight aroused intense interest. The phrase was "measures of political appeasement." This was reported to refer to a formula which was evolved by the premier at the cabinet meeting in order to bring together the opinions of the members.

It was understood that at the morning session, which Secretary Stimson and Secretary Henderson attended, political questions were ruled out whenever they came up. Surprise was expressed in some quarters, therefore, to find in the communique a phrase which might be interpreted to mean that all the political questions between France and Germany would be brought into the financial discussions.

Up to the time the comunique was issued, interest in the "French plan" centered around the question of the financial guarantees, which were reported after the morning meeting to involve same kind of control over Germany's finances.

Other Sessions Slated.

What this control would be was expected to come up for further discussion at other meetings of the "Big Three" tomorrow. It was evident that there was a desire not to impose a form of supervision which it would be impossible politically for Chancellor Bruening to accept.

At the end of this morning's meeting it was reported the Paris conference would confine itself to questions of principle, and the meeting would then adjourn to London next week, in answer to the British government's invitation, where details of the Hoover plan as worked out by experts would be gone over.

Stimson Cooperates Closely.

It was learned from reliable sources that Secretary Stimson, cooperated closely in all the discussions for the financial salvation of Germany, but it was made clear that he could not take part in negotiations over political questions, as the United States is exclusively interested in the economics of the situation.

It was believed Mr. Stimson was not in position to act as spokesman for American banks, but did suggest that banks of the United States would be glad to participate in a general credit for Germany if an agreement were reached among the powers.

The setting up of some form of international control over German finances was recognized as a difficult measure for Germany to accept. It was not made clear whether such control would affect all Germany's finances or merely credits that had been advanced.

International supervision is not new to the Reich, as surveillance of her disarmament, formerly in the hands of an interallied commission, was given over to the League of Nations, which has the right to inquire into the state of Germany's arms in case any nation charges she is exceeding the limits of the Versailles Treaty.

The reparations committee of the cabinet was in session during the afternoon and this evening, discussing measures to combat the flight of capital, but adjourned without reaching any decision. New emergency decrees dealing with this problem, which had been expected tonight, were not forthcoming.

MAN THOUGHT DEAD RECOGNIZED IN PARK

Son and Daughter Here for Funeral Find Father Fanning Self.

Any lingering doubt as to advisability of proceeding with plans for funeral of John Raymond Walter, whose obsequies were to have been held Wednesday, was dispelled when a son and daughter found him sitting on a bench in Judiciary Square fanning himself.

Service had been called off Wednesday when his wife had reversed identification of the victim of a hit-and-run driver as Mr. Walter, but at the W. W. Chambers funeral parlor, where the body was held, it was said that some members of the family were still in doubt as to whether the dead man was Mr. Walters.

Mr. Walters disappeared from his home three months ago. When his son, John R. Walter, jr., and his daughter, Mrs. Hilda McKay, who had come to Washington from Atlanta to attend his funeral, discovered him on the park bench, he explained that he had been working on a carpentering job in Frederick, Md., and planned to continue doing so.

The victim of the hit-and-run accident was struck by an automobile just outside of Laurel, Md., Sunday night. He died a short time after he was taken to Casualty Hospital and his body lay in the District Morgue for 48 hours. Then Mrs. Walter identified it as that of her missing husband.

She ordered the body removed to the W. W. Chambers Co. and prepared for burial. Then she returned to the funeral home after the body had been cleansed and shaved, and was startled to find she had made an error in her identification.

Meanwhile the accident victim is still unidentified at the funeral home. Officials of the firm said his body would be held for a few days in hope that it would eventually be identified, but if no one claims it, they would bury the man at their own expense.

BOARD SELLS WHEAT DESPITE FARM PLEAS

000,000 revolving fund being tied up in advances or commitments already made.

To questions as to possible political reactions from the board's refusal to pledge itself to withhold its present holdings, Mr. Stone returned the answer that he is not in politics. In connection with references to agitation in Kansas and other Southwest wheat States, he was asked:

"Aren't they threatening political revolt against the Republican party if they don't get up to 85 cents?"

"Upon advice of counsel I refuse to answer," Stone said. "I am not in politics."

Stone said he thought the best thing for the wheat farmers would be to withhold their wheat from the market as much as possible this year, reduce acreage for next year, and where feasible use part of this year's crop as feed for livestock.

A new appeal to President Hoover to intervene and ask the board to withhold its present surplus from the market was made yesterday by Representative Louis Ludlow (Democrat), Indiana. Representative Ludlow, in a letter to the President, suggested:

"While you are proceeding so nobly and so well in your efforts to solve foreign economic problems, let me venture respectfully to suggest, as one of your supporters in your efforts, that you also do this for the American farmer."

Representative Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, in a statement, cited reports of a Texas county's plans to burn wheat as fuel in the schools, and advice given to Illinois farmers to feed wheat to livestock, as replies to the statement of Senator James E. Watson (Republican), Indiana, who contended that the tariff helped farm prices.

Commenting on Senator Watson's challenge to the Democrats to reduce wheat tariffs, Representative Cannon said the farmer would be "delighted" to do this, if Congress reduces rates at the same time on steel, aluminum, sisal, fertilizer and other farm materials.

Liquor Warehouse Alarm Laid to Rat

Police, Hurrying to Scene, Find Things Intact and No Thieves in Sight.

A rat is believed to have jarred a burglar alarm wire in the Government liquor warehouse at 322 Thirteenth-and-a-half street northwest, causing several police cars to be sent to the scene.

Headquarters' detectives, fearing a liquor theft was in progress, sped to the place. However, they found all doors and windows securely fastened. An employe expressed the opinion that either a rat moved the sensitive alarm wires or a jar of a heavy truck on the street may have caused the alarm to sound.

The warehouse is used to store all liquor seized in liquor raids in the city.

Chauffeurs Who Keep Cars of Customers Moving Are Banned.

A warning has been issued to downtown department stores by the Traffic Bureau against employment of chauffeurs who "cruise" through the downtown section in customers' automobiles while patrons are shopping.

The practice has been used, according to police, by department stores which advertise free parking space. Instead of parking the cars, police said, they employ chauffeurs to drive the automobiles about the streets.

Unless the practice is discontinued, the police have warned, the chauffeurs will be arrested for impeding traffic.

4 ARMY FLIERS DIE IN PLANE COLLISION

Endicott Longacre, One of Victims, Was Resident of Washington.

San Antonio, Tex., July 16 (A.P.).—Colliding in the air at an altitude of between 300 and 400 feet, two Army planes crashed to the ground today and killed four Brooks Field fliers.

The dead:

Maj. Charles V. Hart, 54, flight surgeon and pilot.

Capt. Carlos J. Chamberlain, medical officer of the New York National Guard, in training at Brooks Field.

Second Lieut. K. Austin Rogers, 25, flying instructor.

Endicott Longacre, 24, flying cadet.

Maj. Hart and Capt. Chamberlain were flying one plane, and Lieut. Rogers was instructing Cadet Longacre in the other. Chamberlain was training to become a flight surgeon.

The collision was witnessed from the air by several other Army fliers. They landed and summoned an ambulance from the field.

An investigation was started, but Army officials said the cause of the collision had not been determined.

The planes fell near each other in a field, both twisted masses of wreckage. They did not catch fire. The accident was the most serious at Brooks Field since 1928.

Maj. Hart's permanent residence was listed in Army records as Harrisburg, Pa., his place of birth. He was married and resided here. Capt. Chamberlain lived in New York and was on temporary active duty at Brooks Field. Lieut. Rogers was married and made his home here.

Cadt Longacre was a native of Washington, D. C., where his permanent residence is located, but he made his temporary home with his father at Duncan Field, another Army field here.

A student at Georgetown University from 1927 to 1930, Cadet Endicott Longacre was a resident of Washington until last February, when he went to the Texas flying field for aviation training.

While at Georgetown, he was assistant editor of the Quartermaster Review, of which his father, Capt. Clarence Longacre, was editor. Prior to entering Georgetown he was a cadet for two years at the Military Academy at West Point. The cadet, with his father and mother, lived at 3842 Legation street northwest, until Capt. Longacre was ordered to duty at Duncan Field, Tex.

His home was listed at the War Department as 9 East Ninety-seventh street, New York City.

Department records gave the home address of Maj. Charles V. Hart as Harrisburg, Pa., and that of Lieut. K. Austin Rogers as 1243 Schley avenue, San Antonio. Cadet Endicott Longacre lived in this city, but his father, Capt. Clarence Longacre, is now stationed at Duncan Field, San Antonio.

FALL PARDON PLEA REACHES PRESIDENT

Petition Is Being Forwarded to Justice Department; Report to Be Given.

(Associated Press.)

A last-minute petition that Albert B. Fall be saved from the prison term imposed for accepting a bribe was received yesterday at the White House.

Asking executive clemency for the former Secretary of the Interior, it bore the names of Senators Bratton and Cutting, of New Mexico, and was submitted as well on behalf of both legislative houses of that State, once served by Fall in the Senate.

At the White House, it was announced, the petition was being forwarded to the Justice Department, in accordance with the usual practice. James A. Finch, Federal pardon attorney, indicated the petition would be subjected to the same routine given those of men less well known.

Finch will conduct his own investigation of the facts in the case, probably seeking also the opinions of the attorney who prosecuted Fall and the judge who sentenced him. Later he will submit a full report to the Attorney General.

Meanwhile, Fall is awaiting commitment to the New Mexico State Penitentiary at Santa Fe. Because of his ill health, a day was added to the year's sentence, thus allowing Attorney General Mitchell to select the place of imprisonment. As a result, Fall will be imprisoned in the warm, dry climate of his native State rather than the jail here.

Silks and Jewels Mark Royal Ball

King George Wears Kilts, Queen Ivory Chiffon; Color Rampant.

London, July 16 (A.P.).—The king wore the kilt at the royal ball at Buckingham Palace tonight.

King George was in the full dress uniform of a colonel-in-chief of the Black Watch when he walked into the ballroom with Queen Mary at his side. The queen wore ivory colored chiffon, embroidered with pearls and diamonds. Priceless pearls and diamonds shone also on the corsage of her gown and she wore the order of the garter.

All eyes were on them as they led the royal cotillion at their entrance and they were the central figures around which a gay pageant revolved. It was the first time the king and queen have given a private ball at the palace in nineteen years.

Against the crimson and gold white background of the great state ballroom, dancers moved in a kaleidoscope of moving color, of resplendent uniforms of scarlet and blue, with glittering medals and orders and gold lace, of floral chiffons, satins and soft silks.

Every woman present wore long white kid gloves and many carried fans, while nearly all wore glittering gems. The older women wore tiaras of precious stones.

The men were in court dress and in evening clothes with knee breeches. Officers parked their swords on the gilt chairs around the edge of the ballroom during dances.

ENDRES' HOP MEANS AID TO SICK MOTHER

Success of War Ace to Buy Medical Care When He Returns in Fall.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 16 (A.P.).—A real hero and idol is Capt. George Endres, Hungarian transatlantic flier, to his parents and brothers and sister who live here.

So much is he idolized that the four walls of the humble Endres living room are covered with scores of his photographs.

The captain is shown as a child, student, cadet, army officer, aviator, bridegroom and in dozens of other roles. Some photographs are small, others several feet in length. A few are painted, others are colored, some are portraits and some snapshots. Many newspaper clippings also are pasted on the walls.

Mrs. John Endres, the flier's 71-year-old mother, seriously ill with cancer, cried when the flash of the successful Budapest landing was telephoned to her, "Ah! That makes my heart beat better."

She said, "Yurga," her pet name for her son, had promised to return here in September and provide medical treatment, X-rays and radium for her affliction from funds he expected to earn from the flight.

"You see this ocean trip had a real meaning to me," she joyfully told newspapermen.

His father, formerly connected with the police department of Perjamos, Hungary, told of his son's army service. He said George was a Hungarian flying ace who shot down several allied planes and won 24 decorations in the war.

"Once my son was shot down in the flying service," Endres said, "and spent two years afterwards as a ground officer. In the big offensive the Russians captured 6,000 Hungarian troops, including my son. He was confined as a prisoner in Siberia but escaped through Russia and Sweden and rejoined his army. For this heroic return he was decorated for bravery by Emperor Franz Joseph.

"Our son was the first soldier to personally receive a decoration for war bravery by the emperor. His medals covered his breast by armistice time.

The transatlantic flier, a Hungarian resident, visited his parents a month ago and relatives said he told them he planned to return in September if the flight was successful, make his home here and become an American citizen.

The Endres family, with the exception of George, came here 19 years ago.

Diplomatic Corps Here Joined by Third Davila

The third Davila joined the ranks of the Diplomatic Corps in Washington yesterday, when Celeo Davila arrived to take over the post of Minister from Honduras. He had been in New York nearly three weeks on private business. Minister Davila succeeds Dr. Ernesto Argueta, recalled last winter in anticipation of his later appointment to a cabinet position.

Mr. Davila went immediately to the legation residence on his arrival here. Illness prevented Dr. Carlos A. Pardemo, charge d'affaires, from meeting him. Minister Davila probably will call at the State Department next week and arrange for presentation of his credentials to President Hoover.

message from the fliers which indicated their position was about 150 miles off the southwest tip of Ireland.

At 8:30 a. m. E. S. T. they were reported over Linz, Austria. Linz is 98 miles west of Vienna on the right bank of the Danube.

Hungarians in Detroit Celebrate Hop Success

Detroit, July 16 (A.P.).—Little Hungary, a colorful section of Detroit populated by 30,000 foreign-born, tonight celebrated the completion of a transatlantic flight that two years ago had its inception in a foreign language newspaper office here.

Hundreds of native costumed Hungarians, led by martial Hungarian music, paraded through West End streets when the news was flashed that Capt. George Endres and Capt. Alexander Magyar had landed their plane, Justice to Hungary, near Budapest, the goal of their flight across the ocean.

A parade wound through the down town section to the Detroit city hall, where speeches were made and congratulations offered by Mayor Frank Murphy. Church services will be held tomorrow offering thanks for the flight's success.

It was in Detroit's Little Hungary that Magyar, then a lieutenant in the Hungarian aviation reserve and one of the two men at the controls of the Justice to Hungary, first broached the idea of aiding his native land by making the flight. Magyar placed his idea before Franz Prattinger, editor of the Hungarian News here.

MAGYAR-ENDRES HOP IS VICTORY FOR RADIO

Birdmen Praise Hungarians for Flight Precision Crossing Ocean.

New York, July 16 (A.P.).—Hangars and clubs and other places where birdmen gather resounded today with praise for the scientific flying which took Alexander Magyar and George Endres over the ocean to Budapest.

The flight was compared to the Atlantic and Pacific jaunts of Kingsford-Smith for scientific direction. And despite the mishap which forced them down 20 miles from Budapest after they had flown over the city, the trip was considered only short of Lindbergh's famous exploit for precision.

They came mighty close to hitting their destination "on the nose." No one since Lindbergh thus far has been able to start for a point in continental Europe and actually come down in the exact announced spot.

Kingsford-Smith Used Radio.

The similarity between this flight and those of Kingsford-Smith is marked, for the Australian on both flights felt his way by radio, just as Magyar and Endres did.

Of the twelve successful eastward plane flights non-stop across the North Atlantic the eight to the continent have all ended somewhere else than the planned spot except Lindbergh's.

On their journey Magyar and Endres used radio, which Lindbergh did not carry, to guide them just as Kingsford-Smith did, and they had the added advantage of having a radio direction finder. Kingsford-Smith used his radio all the way across the two great oceans, keeping in communication with ships.

Direction Finder was Aid.

Though he had no direction finder he checked his position by a system of triangulation, getting positions of two ships and so determining his own position at the apex of a triangle joining the three. Magyar and Endres, with their direction finder, were able to get their position with fair accuracy with only one known point.

The early fliers across the Atlantic paid no attention to radio. Alcock and Brown, the Englishmen who made the first nonstop crossing, had no radio, nor did Lindbergh or Chamberlin, who followed.

Byrd was the first to give radio its chance on long flights, and though he was able to put it to small use on his Atlantic flight, he did report his arrival at both North and South Poles.

Lindbergh to Use Two Sets.

Col. Lindbergh, who flew to France and fame without the help of any communication system, is now a firm advocate of radio. On his projected flight to the Orient he is to carry two sets, one for regular communication in flight and the other an emergency set for use from land if he should be forced down ashore, or from his inflated rubber boat if his plane should sink at sea.

Radio played its first sensational role in connection with aviation in the summer of 1927, shortly after the Lindbergh ocean flight. Two planes had been lost at sea in the Dole race to Hawaii and Capt. William P. Erwin and a companion set out to the rescue in a plane equipped with radio.

Suddenly listeners ashore heard that the Erwin ship had gone into a spin, but had pulled out and seemed to be all right. Then the radio spoke again. "We're in another spin." And that was all. Erwin and his companion had joined in death the four men and a woman they had gone to save.

Enthusiasm Is Great.

There was such enthusiasm about the Hungarians' flight in aviation circles that there was a tendency to credit them with even more than they had achieved or even tried for. Because their destination was farther from New York than that of any other Atlantic flier the belief gained ground for a time that they had established a distance record for ocean fliers.

But then it was recalled that by stopping at Harbor Grace for fuel they had made their nonstop flight across the sea 1,100 miles shorter than Lindbergh's and Chamberlin's and Byrd's. The distance from New York to Budapest is roughly 4,300 miles and this would have been farther than any ocean fliers had gone nonstop, although not a world record for straight line flight.

But with the halt at Newfoundland Magyar and Endres flew nonstop approximately 3,200 miles. Lindbergh flew 3,610, Byrd 3,477, and Chamberlin 3,905. The world record for straight line flight is 4,901 miles, made by Coste and Bellonte from France to China.

Of the twelve successful nonstop flights across the North Atlantic by airplane all the fliers were residents of America except the Hungarians and the trio of Assolant, Lefevre and Lotti. Those two expeditions were the only ones conceived in Europe, the men coming here purposely to fly homeward.

Two Cheap Books Guided Ocean Hop

Nautical Almanac, Worth 15 Cents, One Source of Information.

St. Louis, July 16 (A.P.).—Two navigation books costing 90 cents guided Capt. Alexander Magyar and Capt. George Endres on their flight from Newfoundland to Hungary, it was revealed here today by Lieut. John Geppert, who last fall gave Magyar lessons in nautical astronomy.

Magyar, having completed a three-months' course at an air college near here, sought additional instruction from Geppert, an officer in the Naval Reserve. Geppert gave him the books, a treatise issued by the hydrographic office, costing 75 cents and a 15-cent nautical almanac.

The fliers apparently followed a course mapped out at Geppert's home when plans for the flight were being discussed, Geppert said.

At the air college Magyar won especially good grades in navigation and meteorology, but was rated only an average pilot in flying ability.

Word Lousy Not Libel, Is Shubert-Life Ruling

New York, July 16 (U.P.).—The word "lousy" as applied to a man's efforts is simply a tactless attempt to be funny rather than a libel, Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck ruled today.

Justice Schmuck dismissed the complaint brought by the Shubert Theater Corporation against the magazine Life. The Shuberts charged that the adjective "lousy" was used in the magazine in reference to their organization.

"The statement that a person is lousy in his engagements and endeavors," the court ruled, "meaning that his efforts are not commendable, but rather inferior in result and on the whole subject to unfavorable criticism, is not libelous per se or libel at all."

Girl in Gas-Filled Room Saved by Rescue Squad

Prompt treatment by the Rescue Squad saved the life of Angela Lunsford, 23, who was found in a gas-filled room of her apartment at 1440 W. street northwest yesterday. At Emergency Hospital her condition was described as good.

In reporting the case one of attempted suicide, police said they found a note which read: "Mother—Forgive me for doing this. Good-by and good luck. Angela."

RAIL HEAD JUSTIFIES HIGHER RATES STAND

of railway improvement which have been largely suspended.

"Such action at this time would be most helpful in relief of unemployment."

Commissioner Eastman, as in the case with Mr. Pelley, took the lead in questioning Mr. Scandrett. Mr. Eastman recalled that the commission some time ago fixed oil rates from the Southwest to Chicago, but they were soon reduced to meet pipe-line competition.

"Has the situation changed?" Mr. Eastman asked.

"No," replied Mr. Scandrett.

Rate Raise Questioned.

"Do you think it is practicable to try to raise those rates?"

Mr. Scandrett's reply was inaudible, but Mr. Eastman said, "In other words, the rates would have to be adjusted to Chicago."

Referring to oil rates in the Southwest, which were reduced recently as an emergency measure to meet pipe-line competition, Mr. Eastman asked if these, too, would have to be adjusted. Mr. Scandrett said he was uninformed on the subject.

The same reply was given to a series of questions regarding cotton rates, cut to meet truck competition, and other rates lowered for various reasons.

Mr. Scandrett said differentials between Illinois and Indiana coal fields ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission would be observed. He said differentials not fixed by the commission would be subject to the increase.

Lumber Situation Probed.

The question of lumber shipped from the Pacific coast as rates on it might affect competition with other sections of the country were gone into at length by Attorney Elmquist.

Elmquist asked Scandrett if it was his opinion that the Western carriers as a whole were in as bad shape as agriculture.

"That calls for generalization," Scandrett replied. "I am an agriculturist, too. I don't think I want to make a comparison."

"I'll ask you the question in another way," said Elmquist. "Do you know any section from the Mississippi river to the Pacific coast as prosperous as the railroads?"

Scandrett did not answer the question.

Wilbur Laroe, Jr., of Washington, a former commission examiner, now representing North Carolina interests in opposition to the rate increase, indicated an effort would be made to show that the railroads as a whole were in an extremely strong financial condition.

"Have you taken into consideration the fact that the railroads have increased their surplus from $1,500,000,000 to over $3,000,000,000 during recent years?" asked Laroe.

Scandrett made no reply.

Surplus Position Cited.

"The surplus is so large," Laroe continued, "that if you made no profits for seven years you could pay dividends out of surplus."

Responding to other questioners, Scandrett said many classes of freight had been diverted to other methods of transportation. He held it obvious that where truck and railroad rates were on a competitive basis, if the railroads raised rates and trucks did not, the railroads would lose traffic.

P. H. Porter, of Madison, Wis., asked Scandrett if he thought agriculture could bear the new rates.

"I think the increase can be put on farm products without diverting them from the railroads," Scandrett replied.

Porter pressed the question and Scandrett replied:

"In my view the great bulk of farm products would move as freely with rates increased 15 per cent as now."

HOOVER RECONCILES WORLD VIEWPOINTS

Radio Address to Christian Endeavor Meeting Is on Understanding.

(Associated Press.)

In the midst of complicated international discussions, President Hoover yesterday said that "national independence and international understanding are not incompatible."

The Chief Executive went to the Cabinet room to deliver a radio address to the International Christian Endeavor Societies which are meeting in San Francisco. At the time he was awaiting a transatlantic telephone call from an American representative in Europe concerning the German financial crisis.

Christian Endeavor, the President added, stands for international good will and world peace and is a force for righteousness and respect for law in every nation.

Calling attention to the fact that the San Francisco meeting is celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the societies, President Hoover said that from a humble beginning in Portland, Me., in 1881 the movement had become a world force for promotion of spiritual advancement.

Fiftieth Anniversary Noted.

"The fiftieth anniversary of the International Christian Endeavor Societies is a notable moment in your history. It is significant not only to you but to the whole Nation by reason of your past services and your potentialities for even greater usefulness in the future."

"In spite of differences of language, traditions and custom, the President said, the youth of the world has found in Endeavor societies a common ground for spiritual training and service to their church, community and country.

"It represents," he added, "the most enduring monument to the idealism, insight and organizing genius of its founder, the late Dr. Francis E. Clark."

In behalf of the Nation the President welcomed the delegates from other lands and congratulated the convention "on the achievements of a half century of practical idealism."

4,000,000 Members Represented.

The address follows:

"From every State in the United States, from every province of the Dominion of Canada, from Mexico and from a score of countries beyond the seas you have assembled in San Francisco to celebrate the golden anniversary of the International Christian Endeavor Societies—an organization devoted to golden deeds and ideals.

"The fiftieth anniversary of the International Christian Endeavor Societies is a notable moment in your history. It is significant not only to you, but to the whole Nation by reason of your past services and your potentialities for even greater usefulness in the future.

"From an humble beginning in Portland, Me., in 1881, the Christian Endeavor movement has become a world force for the promotion of spiritual advancement among our people. The 4,000,000 members in more than 80,000 local units in 126 nations, dominions, States and island groups present an impressive force in spiritual well-being of the world.

Common Ground for Youth.

"Despite differences of language, tradition and custom, the youth of the world have found in the organization a common ground for spiritual training and service to their church, community and country. It represents the most enduring monument to the idealism, insight and organizing genius of its founder, the late Dr. Francis E. Clark.

"The best index to its purposes and values are the principles it stands for. Its loyalties and ideals make for good citizenship, for character and religious faith. It recognizes that national independence and international understanding are not incompatible. It stands for international good-will and world peace. It is a mighty force for sobriety, righteousness and respect for law, patriotism and spiritual development in every nation.

"It is an appreciated privilege, in behalf of the nation, to greet the delegates from our land and other lands to the convention of the world's Christian Endeavor Union at the fiftieth milepost of this dynamic movement. I congratulate you on the achievements of a half century of practical idealism.

"You have before you even higher privileges and opportunities to serve with the vigor, courage and idealism of youth in the solution of myriads of problems of the future. Above all, yours is a mission of exemplifying the standards of individual conduct which are the basis of national character. A better world is the mission of youth and it is your mission."

GOLDHURST, ADVISER TO CANNON, PAROLED

More Than Year Cut From Sentence of Former Stock Dealer.

(Associated Press.)

Harry L. Goldhurst, one-time stock broker for Bishop Cannon, yesterday was granted a parole by the Justice Department.

Becoming effective on April 15, 1932, it will cut more than a year from the five-year sentence given him for using the mails to defraud.

The former broker, whose place of business was raidd as a bucket shop, was sentenced after considerable delay in bringing him to trial.

At present he is confined with 50 other Federal prisoners at Camp Mead, Md.

Arthur D. Wood, chairman of the parole board, said he could recall no specific reason for the parole to the former broker, save that evidence based on his "reformation, institutional record and contacts in outside life" had been sufficient to satisfy the board.

Submarine Contract To Make Jobs for 400

New York, July 16 (A.P.).—Plans are under way by the Electric Boat Co. for enlargement of its working forces to the extent of more than 400 persons. This addition has been made necessary by receipt of a contract for construction of the U. S. S. Cuttlefish, a fleet submarine, to be built at a cost of $3,297,000 for the Navy Department.

This is the first time in ten years the company has received a contract from the Navy Department.

Rich Veterinarian Spurns Graft Quiz

Dr. Doyle Refuses to Tell Seabury Group Who Shared Profits.

New York, July 16 (A.P.).—Dr. William F. Doyle, retired veterinarian, who collected $2,000,000 in fees while representing petitioners before the board of standards and appeals, refused today to tell Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Legislature's city-wide investigation, with whom he split his profits.

He was given a subpena to appear next Thursday at the first public hearing since the legislative investigation began. If he refuses to answer then, as he has said he will refuse, he will be taken before a supreme court justice and cited for contempt.

This action, it was pointed out today, will define the powers of the legislative investigating committee.

Scientists Back From Trip In Brazil Bring 3,000 Birds

(Associated Press.)

Fried ants and alligator meat, relished by natives in previously unexplored wilds of Brazil and Venezuela, were reported yesterday by the National Geographic Society as too much for a party of returned American scientists.

The expedition, headed by Ernest G. Holt, of Montgomery, Ala., found monkey and parrot meat more to their liking, however, on the trip which took about ten months and resulted in collection of 3,000 specimens of birds, some described as new to science.

Charles I. Agostini, of the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, and Emmet R. Blake, of the University of Pittsburgh, accompanied Holt.

Returning this week, the scientists separated yesterday for brief visits to their homes before undertaking the lengthy task of collating their data.

Hundreds of mammals, plants and photographs of natives were acquired. The group traveled for three months with the Brazilian-Venezuelan Boundary Commission and crossed the equator thrice, traveling over the river circuit by the Casiquiare arm connecting the Amazon and Orinoco Basins.

Robbers Use Screen Of Smoke in Getaway

New York, July 16 (U.P.).—Hold-up men have gone in for smoke screens to cover up their departure, police reported today.

Three men entered a news company establishment at Jamaica and started gathering in $1,400. One of the bandits' teeth were chattering so loudly that he stuck a handkerchief in his mouth to deaden the sound. As the robbers pulled away from the place in their car, a thick screen of smoke obscured their flight. Police believe they had smoke bombs hanging on the rear of the car.

Atlanta Dry Group Would Recall Key

Seans Lists of Voters in Move for Ballot to Depose Mayor.

Atlanta, Ga., July 16 (A.P.).—Formation of the Greater Atlanta Prohibition and Law Enforcement Club to seek the recall of Mayor James L. Key was announced today by John A. Manget, president of the organization.

Mr. Manget has applied to City Clerk J. Henson Tatum for lists of the 26,401 voters who were registered for the last general election. Signatures of 25 per cent of the registered voters are required before the city council can order a recall vote. Recall petitions being circulated by the organization carry this statement:

"The basis for his recall is Mayor Key's repeated statement that 'the prohibition is a failure and can not be enforced.'"

CAPITAL SOCIAL LEADER DIES MAINE SUMMER HOME, AGED '0

which aroused still more comment, after which came "Dietetic Poisons" and "The Aristocracy of Health."

A lifelong enemy of smoking and flesh-eating, Mrs. Henderson carried her theories into actual practice. No one was ever permitted to smoke in her home, and for many years she had never served or eaten flesh in any form. Her vegetarian dinners became famous in Washington society because of the ingenuity of her chef, who made the vegetable dishes as delectable as those where flesh foods and meats were provided.

Officials, diplomats, social celebrities from many cities and lands all were entertained at the Henderson board. One of her first converts to her theories of health was Wu Ting Fang, then minister to this country from China, and father of the retiring minister, Dr. Wu, who was then but a school boy. Wu Ting Fang spread the gospel far and wide in his own country when he returned to it and, it is said, remained a consistent vegetarian to the hour of his death, due to Mrs. Henderson's teachings. Like others, he had known the merit in her vegetable chicken dishes, nut soups, delicious salads and desserts.

Rare Old Wines Destroyed.

It was about 25 years ago when Mrs. Henderson became an active adherent of prohibition. Her cellars were stocked with the rarest of wines, for Senator Henderson had been a connoisseur in this regard. As soon as Mrs. Henderson decided that no wine or liquor of any kind should be served in her home, she began to think of ways of disposing of their cellars. If they sold it, it would mean others would drink it, and so she ordered her men servants to haul the barrels, bottles and casks of precious liquors to the roadway of Henderson castle. Then with sharp hatchets they opened the barrels and casks and smashed the bottles against the curbings.

Down into the gutters below flowed the liquids which cheered but also inebriated. Around the scene gathered the mourners. But Mrs. Henderson was obdurate. Some of the more daring of the public tried to rescue some of the tempting fluids but they had little success.

The town rang with Mrs. Henderson's temperance exploit and she received world-wide publicity from this act.

Sixteenth Street Expanded.

Her next achievement was to develop such an interest in Sixteenth street and its environs through her real estate and building activities that she was able to carry out temporarily one of her cherished plans to name it "The Avenue of the Presidents." Her architectural developments in this territory, much of it in the form of embassies and legations, won her lasting fame, and her name will stand second only to Alxenader Shepherd as one who had done the most to beautify Washington.

Mrs. Henderson cherished a plan also of placing bronze busts of the Presidents along the Avenue of the Presidents. This hope did not materialize, however, and she was much distressed one day to find that the city fathers had changed their minds about its name as well, and Sixteenth street appeared on all the street signs over night.

Meridian Park was largely established through her efforts and gifts, and no one will question the wisdom of that breathing place at the top of Sixteenth street hill, already embellished with attractive statues of great foreigners, including Joan of Arc, a favorite heroine of the Lady of Boundary Castle.

Avenue Is Her Memorial.

When all is said and done, although the trend of embassy and legation is now away from Sixteenth street, that avenue will remain Mrs. Henderson's lasting memorial.

Thoroughly modern in her points of view and a pioneer in some lines of thought, Mrs. Henderson never wore the frills and fads of passing fancy. She clung, like Mrs. George Dewey, to the fitted bodices and long skirts of her own girlhood all through the era of above-the-knee skirts and low waistlines. She did not bob her hair and she never rouged or powdered her face. She was always a porcelain-like, dainty figure in her handsome brocades; sometimes in light colors, such as pink or blue and white, trimmed with point lace worth a king's ransom. Her costly gems were set in heavy gold, worn conservatively and not as countless gewgaws of the woman of fashion.

When her only son, John B. Henderson, died six or seven years ago, Mrs. Henderson refused to believe that he was dead for several days and would make no arrangements for the funral. Finally, friends persuaded her that he had really died and the funeral was held. The marriage of her granddaughter was another break in the family circle for her and she withdrew more or less from social activities after it occurred.

Swimming Parties Held.

Going to Bar Harbor each summer four or five years ago, Mrs. Henderson conceived the idea of leaving the tennis courts and huge swimming pool at Boundary Castle available for the use of the members of the Diplomatic Corps and other friends. Mrs. Coolidge, then the First Lady of the land, was among those who joined these informal swimming parties, both while Mrs. Henderson was in residence and afterward. But swimmers came uninvited to the pool whom Mrs. Henderson did not know. So she formed a Diplomatic Corps committee to look after the pool and courts and to issue invitations for their use. Still the hoi polloi and the social fringers came uninvited, and, worst of all, they wore modern bathing suits such as Mrs. Henderson could not and would not tolerate. So she closed the swimming pool and courts and fashionable Washington has sweltered every summer since that time when obliged to remain in the Capital during the heated term.

One of the most important institutions in Washington, the Congressional Club, with its handsome club house on Sixteenth and New Hampshire avenue and its membership of wives and daughters and sisters of officials and members of Congress, past and present, owes its prosperity to Mrs. Henderson, who was one of its founders and donated the site on Sixteenth street.

Up to several years ago, when she had to stop many activities on account of ill health, Mrs. Henderson took an active interest in charitable organizations, and never missed a meeting of the local or national W. T. C. U.

Leaders Gather at Her Home.

Widely read and widely traveled, her acquaintance with important people from all over the world made Henderson Castle a rendezvous for the leaders in many schools of thought of this and other countries.

When Mrs. Henderson was well she entertained constantly and was always among the first to entertain a new diplomat and his wife.

When the International Council of Women met in Washington about seven years ago Mrs. Henderson gave a dance for the delegates, many of them veterans, and it was indeed a pretty picture to see these women from all lands dancing the old fashioned square dances and folk dances with Mrs. Henderson in the lead. Mrs. Henderson held similar dancing classes for society for many years.

No wonder Women are switching to Camels

The steady increase in the number of women who are switching to Camels is a tribute to the mildness of this cigarette.

A woman's throat is more delicate than a man's — more easily irritated by the unkindly hot smoke of parched, dry-as-dust tobaccos.

Camels are milder, first, because they are a throat-friendly blend of fine Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos that require no parching.

Camels are milder, second, because all peppery dust is removed by a special vacuum-cleaning process before Camels are air-sealed in the Humidor Pack of germ-safe moisture-proof Cellophane.

Camels are milder, third, because this wrapping of moisture-proof Cellophane prevents the cigarettes from drying out. The natural moisture of the tobaccos is held intact.

When you inhale the cool fragrant smoke of a Camel you enjoy all the flavor, all the aroma of blended fine tobaccos kept in prime smoking condition — without the sting and bite-and-burn of stale, dried-out cigarettes.

Just try Camels, join the throng and switch to them for one day, then quit them — if you can.

Don't remove the moisture-proof Cellophane from your package of Camels after you open it. The Humidor Pack is protection against perfume and powder odors, dust and germs. It delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until the last one has been smoked

SPLIT ON THE TARIFF.

Last week Senator Robinson, Democratic floor leader, let the world know that there would be a drive to lower tariff rates when Congress reassembles. His announcement came like a sudden peal of partisan thunder, breaking in upon the quiet atmosphere of cooperation which prevailed during negotiation of President Hoover's debt moratorium. It was a signal for Democratic war cries against the "iniquities of the Smoot-Hawley act." All Democrats were invited to join in a final drive to remove the curse of protection from the land.

But the voice of Senator Robinson died away, and there was no response. The applause, the flow of oratory and the hurling of invectives which traditionally accompany such a bold stroke for prosperity were entirely lacking. Where are the dauntless Democratic generals who will lead the charge against the villainous protectionists? Why does not Democracy rise up and carry the doughty Arkansan to triumph?

No one has broken this silence save Senator George, of Georgia, one of Democracy's stalwarts on the Senate finance committee. Senator Robinson, not being a member of this committee, is a stranger to tariff matters in comparison to his Georgia colleague. But Senator George does not add his voice to the thunder from Arkansas. Instead he says that "it is not necessary that the President invite a congressional revision of the tariff." Whatever changes are needed can be brought about through the flexible provision.

These sentiments from Senator George came through the Democratic national committee. Apparently Democratic headquarters agree with him that the injection of a fight over the tariff into the next session of Congress would be unwise. The party leader in the Senate has shouted his command to charge against the iniquitous tariff, but the rank and file of the party are quietly retreating in the opposite direction.

What of the leaders in the House? Where is that implacable foe of protection, John N. Garner? Surely, he is not too busy dreaming of the Speakership to give attention to the destruction of tariff barriers! Yet he sidesteps the issue. Other Democratic members of the ways and means committee remain noncommittal. Senator Robinson knows full well that the Senate can not initiate tariff legislation. How can he proceed without support of the House?

Here is ample evidence of a first-class schism among leaders of the Democratic party on the most important issue on which the two parties clash. More astute senators on the minority side realize that it would be futile to attempt a tariff revision. Perhaps they have taken note of the fact that imports are pouring in upon the country in greater proportion to the output of American industry than before the last tariff act was passed.

It is more probable, however, that they dare not antagonize business. The parties will be evenly divided in the next Congress, and even the Democrats are split on the tariff question. Any plan of revision the Democrats might bring forward would be foredoomed to failure. If by miracle it should get through Congress a White House veto could be anticipated. Dare the Democrats antagonize business by agitating a tariff row under these conditions? Only Senator Robinson rushes into such a breach. The Arkansan might do greater service to his party, and to the country, if he unloosed his thunder out on the quiet prairies of his home State to a midnight audience of stars.

AIDING CRIMINAL ALIENS.

Secretary of Labor Doak deserves much credit for the vigorous manner in which he is enforcing the immigration laws. In this period of unemployment it is highly important that competition by foreign labor be restricted. The most important economic problem facing the country is to get idle men back to work. By relieving American workers of foreign competition in this critical period the administration has contributed much to the relief of the unemployed.

As a corollary to the immigration policy Secretary Doak has been unusually active in deporting undesirable aliens and those living in the United States illegally. More than 18,000 aliens have been deported during the last year, and many more have been allowed to depart voluntarily to avoid deportation. The wisdom of this policy can not be questioned. Aside from the economic question involved, there is special need for expelling undesirables at this time. Work is scarce. Aliens who have been smuggled into the United States frequently find themselves without means of sustenance. Under those conditions they readily turn to crime. By mitigating this tendency the Department of Labor is performing a service to the whole country.

Secretary Doak took occasion in his address before the Alexandria Kiwanis Club to denounce those individuals and organizations that are trying to prevent deportations. Under the guise of being liberal a few rattle-brained individuals are trying to uphold aliens in their defiance of the law and in their efforts to overthrow the Government. A considerable number of the undesirables that have been deported are Communist agitators who are dedicating their lives to destruction of everything American. The least the Government can do is to expel them. Misguided "liberals" who attempt to interfere with the operation of this law are themselves guilty of conniving at the ruin of their country.

By some curious distortion of mentality these advocates of lawlessness consider their attitude "American." In doing so they display gross ignorance of the fundamentals on which the Government rests. Is it "American" to allow aliens who have no claim upon this country to evade its laws, to prey upon the people and to work for destruction of the Government? An attitude so utterly devoid of reason can only encourage alien agitators and criminals in their plots against the United States and its people. For his denunciation of such a hideous interpretation of American ideals Secretary Doak will be applauded by citizens throughout the country.

CANADIAN AFFAIRS.

Canada has concluded a reciprocal trade agreement with Australia which undoubtedly will affect the interchange of many products between the two countries, diverting to each other trade which now is being done with other nations outside the British Empire. Australia's purchases abroad amount to $300,000,000 a year, and Canada expects under the new treaty to supply a much larger percentage of these goods than formerly.

Premier Bennett announces that the agreement guarantees to the bulk of commodities exported from Canada a substantial tariff preference in Australia, Canada giving in return a preference on specified items of Australian export. The Australian minister of markets and transport, Parker Moloney, says the step that has just been taken "is an undoubtedly very material advance toward the ideal of interempire preference which we all consider is a vital necessity in upholding the position of the British commonwealth of nations among the great trading nations of the world."

Meanwhile the Canadian government's measure for the establishment of a tariff board is having hard sledding at Ottawa, where the heat wave is held responsible for the exceptionally querulous opposition. Before adjournment it is expected that Dominion legislators will have to face the question of extensive assistance to the drought-stricken wheat sections of the Western provinces. Rains came too late to save the crop. A vast area extending from the center of Saskatchewan to the American border, embracing more than 5,000,000 acres, is so seriously affected that probably 100,000 farmers will require some form of public relief to see them through the winter. A region which for more than a quarter of a century has been the sure-crop section of the Dominion is described as "an abomination of desolation—waste space, barren of vegetation, with the soil drifting hither and thither as the wind blows." It is believed that Canadian relief measures may require the appropriation of $100,000,000.

BRITISH FINANCE STUDY.

A distinguished committee appointed by the British treasury to make an exhaustive study of finance and industry has been holding sessions since November, 1929, and has just made its report. It is not signed unanimously, any more than a Wickersham report, and its findings meet with immediate disagreement. The committee, under the chairmanship of Lord MacMillan, counts such members as Sir Thomas Allen, Lord Bradbury, Sir Walter Raine and John Maynard Keynes.

The work to be undertaken was outlined as follows: "To inquire into banking, finance and credit, pay in regard to factors, both internal and international, which govern their operation and to make recommendations calculated to enable these agencies to promote the development of trade, commerce and employment of labor."

The report of the committee recommends that, in order to raise and then stabilize the international price level, international cooperation of the central banks of the various countries be secured for the control of amounts and terms of credit. A policy on the part of creditor countries also is advocated, of lending a greater amount of their surplus money to the debtor nations and accepting a greater part of their payments from debtor countries in goods instead of gold, as at present.

Considering the problem of assistance to the export trades a majority of the committee, opposing the method of devaluation by diminishing by 10 per cent the gold parity of sterling, suggests that "precisely the same effect could be brought about by a tariff of the same percentage on all imports together with an equal subsidy on all exports, except that this measure would leave sterling international obligations unchanged in terms of gold."

From the opposition which has promptly developed it is evident that no hurried application of the committee's recommendations can be made. The demand for publicity in connection with international financial operations brings the reply that "hitherto the Bank of England has controlled the British monetary policy largely because it has given no explanation of its conduct and it is evidently dangerous to require a limitation of that monarchy at the moment it is urged to undertake tasks so difficult of comprehension to the minds of the people." The Manchester Guardian passes verdict upon the whole report as "sweeping and dangerous."

BETTER BOOKS DEMANDED.

The American public is developing a wide taste for the better types of literature. Demands for new books are greater and more discriminating than ever before. Henry Hoyns, the new head of Harper & Bros., believes that Americans are developing an uncanny sense for picking out good books from trash.

It is frequently asserted that the radio, movies, automobiles and many other amusements of the day have taken the place of books. Instead of detracting from literature these diversions have perhaps stimulated publishers to bring out better books which provide more lasting pleasure than mechanical pastimes. Publishers estimate that 50,000,000 new books will be bought and read during this year in the United States. That fact indicates that books are holding their own with the more modern amusements.

The growing demand for good literature is due in no small measure to a greater interest in books on the part of women. Coeducation and literary clubs throughout the country have stimulated reading habits. Men formerly purchased more nonfiction, but today the demand among women for serious books has virtually equaled that of the men.

Though modern inventions have provided pleasures and benefits which are of great value to humanity, it is hard to conceive of an actual substitute for literature. Ephemeral enjoyments and novel pastimes still leave man with an appetite for books which no other amusement can quite appease.

What the Democrats ought to begin thinking about is a Young plan for Raskob.

AMERICAN ORIGINS

From the Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

Nothing is more hopeful for the development of international consciousness than harking back to the ancestral lairs of the various elements that went to the making of America, save perhaps a sympathetic study of the background of those racial stocks now going to the making of a modified America.

Where did our ancestors come from? There's no doubt at all about the Hollanders. William the Silent speaks for them from the Rutgers campus. Erasmus takes up the note at Flatbush. Those whom the college song calls "the Amsterdam Dutch and the Rotterdam Dutch and the Veendam Dutch and the other dam Dutch" have never been forgotten or neglected by their descendants.

As for the Virginian settlers, who seem to have come from London, many of their families may find it hard to trace origins in England, though the Washington lair is established at Sulgrave in Northamptonshire. Sulgrave Manor, 500 years old, restored by a British fund to which King George was the first contributor, is a Mecca for Americans. Maryland's Calverts, who were good Roman Catholics, were a Yorkshire family, and the first Proprietor of Maryland, the second Baron Baltimore, was born at Kipling. Probably a good part of the early settlers came from the same section of England.

The Pilgrims of the Mayflower, who had mostly been exiles in Holland, had come originally from Lincolnshire, Gainsborough and Scrooby. Scrooby is the special shrine of the Plymouth Rock descendants. The Puritans of the 1630 Massachusetts Bay colony sailed from Boston 300 years ago and named their own Massachusetts Boston from their port of departure.

It is interesting to note that, the other day, the Archbishop of Canterbury received and acknowledged a check for $57,255 for the saving of the "Boston Stump" tower of St. Botolph's Church in Boston from W. R. Whiting, of Massachusetts, whose ancestors had been worshipers at St. Botolph's 600 years ago. The "Stump" is a landmark 290 feet high which can be seen 40 miles at sea. It has a carillon of 36 bells, made in Belgium. As early as 1857 American Puritans, citizens of Boston, Mass., supplied the cash to restore the decorative chapel of St. Botolph's.

Incidentally, Lord Fairfax, a member of Parliament, who was born in St. Georges County, Md., is cooperating with Gov. Ritchie to place a memorial tablet at the spot from which the first Maryland colony sailed, the foot of Watchhouse lane, Cowes, the Isle of Wight. We think all such efforts are wholesome and helpful. It is always important to impress on Americans, especially American youth, the fact that our civilization did not begin with the discovery of America by a Genoese navigator, or with Sir Walter Raleigh's grants, or with the landing at Jamestown of the earliest settlers, or with Plymouth Rock or Massachusetts Bay. We inherited much from England and Holland. By the same token we inherited a good deal from Ireland, whose loyal American sons gave their hard-earned dollars by the hundred thousand to make Ireland free. We have taken much that is worth while from the Jews; and the older civilization of the Italians is gradually impinging on our development. International consciousness is a corollary. Perhaps the Brotherhood of Man is a corollary, too, but that is another consideration.

POST HASTE.

So many meetings are now scheduled for London, Paris, Basel and Berlin that it seems almost certain nothing will be done.

While abroad Senator Swanson will have opportunity to apologize to King George for the very idea that Yorktown might restage the surrender of Lord Cornwallis.

"France to resume economic relations with Russia." Anything with economy in it gets French support.

President Hindenburg should remove the ban on fighting between the Hitlerites and Communists and let them exterminate each other.

If there is anything you don't understand about being in a jam between his satanic majesty and cerulean ocean depths, ask the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Aimee McPherson is being sued for breaking a moving picture contract. She probably thought it was Ma's turn in the spotlight.

Acting Secretary Castle of the State Department relieves suspense by announcing that the U. S. A. will not be drawn into European politics through the debt discussion. It is encouraging to know that we are not going to "observe" or "supervise" elections either in Germany or England.

Germany pays her July reparations into the Bank of International Settlements and takes them out again. Cholly Lung Plan save face, no laughy him!

Mexico, having temporarily wearied of berating "barbarous Americans," is now willing to show her good will by accepting some long-term credits.

Money isn't everything. We know a man who worries all day about the new golf ball and all night about new bridge conventions.

It is almost insulting to European nations for an offering of United States Treasury bills to be more than four times oversubscribed on an annual interest basis of less than one-half of 1 per cent.

If the Spanish Cortes wants a tip on the preparation of its new constitution it would be that they will find it much easier to make additions than subtractions. Beware of 18 amendments! P. H.

JUST FOLKS

THE SWALLOW.

Whenever I look at a swallow
I think of my tailor, and say:
"No sign of a chest that is hollow
You ever appear to display,
And your coat isn't slack
As it hangs on your back,
Like mine when I'm dressed up that way;

"Pretty bird, you go darting and wheeling
All day 'neath the blue of the sky,
Yet no wrinkle your vest is revealing
And your shirt front is never awry
And your wife on the wire
As she views your attire
Never bothers to straighten your tie.

"Oh, wonderful aerial sailor,
You were born to the swallow tail dress;
You leave no excuse to your tailor
When your garment is not a success,
But my chest is too flat
For an outfit like that
And my waistline no fitter can guess.

"But this I have learned, little swallow,
That each for his purpose is made.
We're all built for the paths we must follow
And none may the others invade.
The suit which you wear
As you swing through the air
Can't be made out of broadcloth and braid.

The Factory Is an Efficient Place, But You Can't Catch Trout in It.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MR. HENRY FORD is beginning an experiment to demonstrate that farms should be managed as factories are.

Perhaps he borrowed the idea from Russia, where the government is cultivating great fields of grain, using tractors made in government factories and day laborers who are paid as much as factory workers get.

The Ford theory is that a great tract of land, farmed as efficiently as a factory is managed, can be made to pay a profit despite high wages and short hours.

Perhaps he is right.

Perhaps Big Business could buy all the farms in a county, operate them as a unit, and show a profit after paying employes $5 for eight hours' work.

But if the theory is sound and the plan proves successful in operation, the last stronghold of liberty will be gone.

Professional men will be the only ones left without a boss.

There will be, of course, a farm police force, and the governor will call out troops to protect the crops when workmen strike.

And America will be another Russia, except that everybody will work for Big Business instead of the Government.

That will be the final perfection of efficiency, as Mr. Ford sees it, but is efficiency the final goal of mankind?

Is production the chief end of man?

Must all men punch time clocks to make a perfect civilization?

Working for wages isn't a shameful business. Writers do it, as well as plow hands. The President does it. With the exception of professional men and merchants, nearly all of us who live in town work for a boss.

And those who work for hire usually get more than a farmer makes. But man doesn't live by bread alone, and there are many things worth more than money. Freedom to come and go at will, without waiting for a whistle, is one of them.

Some men rent farms because they haven't wit enough to earn a living in any other way. Nature dooms them to common labor.

But others cling to the farm, despite hardships and poverty, because the farm alone offers them complete freedom and any kind of work for hire would seem a form of slavery.

Horses in harness are better housed and fed, but wild horses prefer the way of their wild and free ancestors.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Pity the Democrats!

Dallas News.

The leaders of the Democratic party, up to recent days, have been chuckling to themselves on what an easy victory they would have in 1932 over a party having Hoover as its candidate for reelection. It assumed the choice of a Democratic banner-bearer, wet, but not too wet, who would win the united support of the party on the supposition that he would carry the election and place the party and its office-seekers in charge of national administration.

Hoover's moratorium proposal has changed all this. It is a good proposition and rightly called out the support of a practically united Nation, irrespective of party, but it has given Hoover prestige and seems to be in a fair way to give some stimulus to national prosperity. If his proposal succeeds, as seems likely, with some modifications, his party will gladly renominate him and give him hearty support. But what will we poor Democrats do for an issue if we can not denounce Hoover and his lack of leadership in a national crisis? And where will campaign funds come from to make up Raskob's deficit and pay the expenses of the new campaign?

Unfortunately, the bark of the Democratic dog is determined by its tail, located in the vicinity of New York. Hence the platform of 1932 will contain nothing new, but merely a series of compromises and straddles. Why should not the real party try a genuine platform for a change—a platform stressing the aspirations and visions of those who believe with President Wilson that the United States has a great future, coupled with international duties? If the party is destined to defeat in 1932, why should it not go down with colors flying, rather than to meet a defeat flying the white flag?

Farm Board's Dilemma.

Atlanta Constitution.

Already the wheat belt is in a ferment of worries over the market into which it is to unload another large surplus crop of the cereal, raised in stubborn defiance of the advice of every grain expert in America and around the world.

Vice President Curtis, Senator Capper, of Kansas, and many other wheat belt congressmen, are demanding that "something" shall be done to aid the wheat growers to market their new huge crop on better than present prices. The "something" they suggest is that the Federal Farm Board, holding far above 200,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat, bought with the people's Federal money at inflated "stabilizing prices," shall keep that wheat in deteriorating and costly storage, so that wheat prices shall be determined solely by the demand for the crop now being harvested.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Shippers' Opposition to Increased Railroad Rates Outlined by Legislative Spokesman.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial upon "The Railroad Crisis" contains a number of statements which are definitely incorrect.

You state that the railroads can not give sufficient public service when they "operate at a loss." Based upon the first five months of 1931, the chief economist representing the American Railway Association testified on yesterday that Class I railroads as a whole were earning 1.26 times their fixed charges, which includes interest on bonded indebtedness. This figure includes many roads whose operations have not been profitable even in normal times, and whose securities are not generally held by insurance companies and similar organizations.

The record of earnings for the five-year period ending in 1929 was better than any preceding period in the history of the railroads and relatively speaking they have had a period of prosperity, although they have not earned what they consider a fair return.

In 1930, Class I railroads originated 25 per cent more carload freight than they did in 1921 and 15 per cent more than they did in 1922. Their net railway operating income in 1930 was 44.6 per cent greater than it was in 1921 and 14.3 per cent greater than it was in 1922. In 1920 their net railway operating income was almost nil.

The net earnings of the railroads have generally declined during the first five months of the present year as contrasted with the first five months of 1930, but this decline has not reached the point where the principal railroads appear to be in danger of being unable to meet the interest on their securities in the hands of savings banks and insurance companies.

The Boston & Maine, the New York, New Haven & Hartford, the Erie, the Lehigh Valley and the Central of New Jersey have net railway operating income not very much less than that for the first five months of 1930. While the New York Central, the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio have a net railway operating income approximately one-half of that for the same period in the previous year, nevertheless, all of these carriers have every prospect of earnng an amount considerably in excess of their interest accrued on funded debt and other fixed charges.

In the South, the Atlantic Coast Line is in substantially as good position as last year. The Chesapeake & Ohio has in five months earned more than its fixed charges for the entire year. The Louisville & Nashville is earning more than 1½ times its fixed charges. The Southern Railway Co. is earning more than the fixed charges which it will have to meet. The Illinois Central has suffered a reduction, though this may in a large part be attributable to water competition which high rates will in no way eliminate.

In the Western district, the Chicago & Great Western has actually increased its net railway operating income. That of the Atchison, Topeka & Sante Fe, the Burlington, the Union Pacific and the Missouri compares favorably with similar figures for the preceding year.

The heavy reduction in the net railway operating income of the Southern Pacific for the first five months under the preceding year is undoubtedly attributable to competition of water carriers.

You state that "the railroads are not earning enough to enable them to operate efficiently." On yesterday distinguished representatives of the railroads testified that the railroads are operating efficiently according to the standards the railroads have established.

The true state of affairs is as follows:

1. The carriers are operating at a profit of something over 2 per cent.

2. There is no prospect that there will be any breakdown of the transportation machine.

3. Railroads, whose securities are at present eligible for the investments of savings banks and like organizations, are earning amounts considerably in excess of fixed charges.

You attack the commission for instituting an investigation into the efficiency of carrier management, although that is a prerequisite of its authority to increase rates, and although there has never before been as much question on that point in the minds of actual shippers as there is at present.

At a time when all industry is prostrate and when actual losses instead of substantial earnings are being incurred by other industries the commission would clearly violate its duty if it acted without giving to the shippers, who must bear the increased rates, some opportunity to present their side of the case and without definite proof that an increase in rates will also mean an increase in revenue, a question which is seriously doubtful.

Motorist Wants Curbing Painted to Designate Parking Restrictions.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Recently I have noticed quite a few restricted parking areas in the city that are designated by signs containing red lettering upon a white background. These signs say, "No parking at any time." Furthermore, the curbing in these restricted zones is painted red. I can not see the necessity for painting the curbing and having the signs also. If it is necessary to paint the curbing, why not adopt a uniform system throughout the city. Why not paint the curbing red where there is no parking, blue where there is a one-hour parking limit, yellow where there is a two-hour limit, and white where there is unlimited parking?

The assignment of Wells was one of fifteen major changes in duties among high Army officers announced by the War Department following a number of promotions earlier in the week.

Maj. Gen. Albert J. Bowley was assigned to command the Hawaiian Division in place of Gen. Wells.

Maj. Gen. Dennis E. Nolan was assigned to command the Second Corps Area effective December 1, in place of Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, who will retire.

Brig. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, now Inspector General, was assigned to command the Fifth Corps Area with headquarters at Columbus, Ohio. He will take over the post on December 1 when his promotion to major general becomes effective.

Brig. Gen. Edward L. King will retain his present assignment as Assistant Chief of Staff in the War Department after he becomes major general on October 1.

Brig. Gen. George S. Simmonds was assigned to the Chief of Staff for duty in connection with the coming Geneva convention, effective September 1.

Darrah will remain chief of staff of the Third Corps Area at Baltimore when promoted to brigadier general September 1, but in December he will be assigned to duty in the Panama Canal Department in place of Brig. Col. Charles S. Lincoln was assigned to command the San Francisco general depot, effective December 1, when he is promoted to brigadier general.

20,000 Aliens Will Face Deportation This Year

(Associated Press.)

The Labor Department expects to deport 20,000 aliens this year. In making this prediction, Secretary Doak yesterday said these deportations, together with voluntary departures, would more than equal the number of immigrants.

Doak said the department expected immigration in the present calendar year would not exceed 50,000. He pointed out that whereas 19,000 persons entered the United States in May of 1930, only 3,900 were admitted last May.

Stockholm to Be Silent For Rites of Archbishop

Stockholm, July 16 (A.P.).—The funeral of Archbishop Nathan Soederblom will take place at noon Saturday in the Cathedral of Upsala.

The city will be silent, only the clocks in the towns chiming, when the procession reaches the ancient cathedral. The body of Sweden's primate will be followed to the grave by the whole Swedish royal family, the cabinet, leading clergy in Sweden and many delegations from various parts of the world.

Forty-eight volumes, the latest edition of the "Phra Tripitaka," sacred Buddhist Canon and Commentaries, was presented to the Catholic University yesterday by the King of Siam. Alien Red Backers Are Hit by Doak

Secretary of Labor Hits Those Who Sneer at Patriotism.

Alexandria, Va., July 16 (A.P.).—A denunciation of organizations which attempt to prevent the deportation of alien radicals was linked by Secretary of Labor Doak today with a prediction that 2,000 more unwanted residents will be sent home this year than last.

In an address before the Alexandria Kiwanis Club, he referred, without naming them, to persons and societies "who sneer at the word 'patriotism.'"

"It has been a puzzle to me always to learn upon what ground these organizations and these individuals base their reasoning," Mr. Doak said. "There is nothing American in it, nothing democratic."

When courts uphold deportation warrants against agitators associated with societies "whose announced purpose it is to overthrow the Government of the United States by force and violence," he said, certain other organizations "descend upon the Department of Labor with this plea or that plea for a change in the deportation order."

Heavy Cancellations Hit North Atlantic Sea Lines

(Associated Press.)

The Commerce Department has been advised of "wholesale cancellations of sailings" by every shipping line in the North Atlantic trade. The department's London office reported about 40 scheduled departures had been struck from the calendars of British passenger ships. The curtailment has affected Southampton, Liverpool and London.

Firms named included the White Star, Cunard, Canadian Pacific, United States Lines, Hamburg-Amerika Line, Nord-Deutscher Lloyd and the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique. The cancellations, the department said, are "a result of the reduction in incomes of those who normally could afford luxury voyages."

President Is Invited To Church Conference

Bishop William F. McDowell and Senator James Watson, of Indiana, yesterday invited the President to address the Methodist Ecumenical Conference in Atlanta, October 25.

All organized Methodist branches will be represented at the meeting, the only world conference held by that denomination and which assembles every ten years.

GOOD-WILL FLIERS VISIT IN ANNAPOLIS

Two Kansas City Aviators Complete 609th Successive Day in Air.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 16.—Bringing with them a good will message from Kansas and Missouri, and particularly from the Kansas City, Mo., Chamber of Commerce, Dr. John D. Brock, and Col. Ruby D. Garrett today completed their 609th successive day in the air by calling upon Gov. Albert C. Ritchie at the executive mansion here. They are out on a 17,000-mile tour, during which they will visit the governors of every State in the Union.

Because Annapolis has no suitable airport, the good-will fliers flew from Washington to Logan Field, Baltimore, early this morning, where they were met by Capt. Simon S. Martin, secretary of the Annapolis Chamber of Commerce, who brought them to Annapolis by automobile. Postmaster Joseph M. Armstrong, president of the State Chamber of Commerce, headed a reception committee, which included representatives of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion and Rotary Club.

The flight is being made to stimulate interest in aviation in general, with special reference to properly marked airways and more landing fields. In presenting greetings to Gov. Ritchie, the good will fliers incidentally suggested Kansas City as the place for the next Democratic national convention in 1932, and also expressed the hope the Gov. Ritchie would be nominated for President there.

Dr. Brock is a wealthy Kansas City business man and sportsman-pilot, and Col. Garrett is general counsel for the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce and member of the city council.

From here the fliers went to Baltimore; thence flew to Dover, Del., and Harrisburg, Pa., and were due to reach Philadelphia tonight. Their itinerary tomorrow calls for flight to Trenton, N. J., and thence to New York. They will then tour the New England States and Canada.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

French Found New Society Of Lafayette

Dawson to Help Locate Descendents of His Soldiers.

ENLISTING the active interest of Mr. Warrington Dawson, Special Attache at the American Embassy in Paris, Mlle. Andree de Cuers has just set about the founding of a society in Paris to further relations between France and America by seeking the descendants of the 40,000 French soldiers who fought in the War of Independence under Gen. Lafayette. Mr. Dawson has given the new association his patronage and will assist in the voluminous task of locating all living descendants of the French patriots.

Mlle. de Cuers is the great-granddaughter of one of Lafayette's officers and the daughter of a hero of the Franco-Prussian War. She was a war nures at 18.

The new society will be called the Compagnons de Lafayette. According to present plans the association members plan an early visit to the United States and in the event of a visit they doubtless would come to Washington.

Mr. Dawson's alliance with the new society and his promise of assistance is quite in harmony with the wide scope of the attache's activities in Paris despite his serious spinal trouble and confinement to his bed at his apartment in Versailles. Attached to the embassy since 1917, the popular diplomat has not permitted ill health to interfere with an active diplomatic career, as he has supplemented his business hours with literary pursuits which have brought wide recognition.

His apartment at Versailles has been the mecca for leaders in French and American life, thus affording an endless stream of contacts with current life. Decorated last year with the cravat of the Legion of Honor, Mr. Dawson added one more laurel to his crown of attainments since the days of childhood when he wrote book reviews for the Charleston News, his father's paper. The French government bestowed upon Mr. Dawson the order of officer of the Legion of Honor in 1925.

With his flair for research and knowledge of both American and French history, Mr. Dawson's aid will be invaluable in tracing the wanderings of the Lafayette line. Although the name of Lafayette is closely linked with the Capital, by some strange quirk in the channel of life there are no known descendants of the great French general living in Washington. Some years ago Count Charles de Chambrun, descendant of the line, and brother-in-law of Countess Clara Longworth de Chambrun, served as charge d'affaires at the French Legation here—when it was a Legation—and was here in that capacity after the World War. Count de Chambrun was, in fact, born in Washington, and recently his name was coupled with one or two other distinguished French leaders as a possible successor to M. Paul Claudel, Ambassador of France, in the event of the latter's rumored transfer to the Berlin post.

A year ago important ceremonies attended the christening of the S. S. Lafayette of the French Line when a descendant of the Lafayette family in France, Marquis de Dempierre with his wife and two sons came to New York for the celebration, which was attended also by several Washingtonians, Mrs. Rose Gouveneur Hoes, Mrs. Flora Mason Nicholson and others who are descendants of the President Jefferson and President Monroe families, who were invited to the ceremonies and ball, which took place in New York.

Capt. Frank B. Freyer, of the Naval War College, Newport, and Mrs. Freyer will entertain at their home on Greenough place Saturday afternoon.

Senator Bronson Cutting, of New Mexico, will sail for Europe Tuesday. He is now at his home in Santa Fe where he recently entertained Mr. Frederick Johnson Manning, of Bryn Mawr, Pa., whose wife was Miss Helen Taft, daughter of the late Chief Justice Taft. Mr. Manning has returned home and has as his guest Mr. Phelps Putnam, poet, who was awarded the Guggenheim medal for his work.

Dr. Ralph Williams, assistant surgeon general, United States Public Health Service, and Maj. R. K. Walsh, military attache at Paris, will arrive in New York today on the S.S. President Roosevelt.

M. Julio Cesar Orancibia, new attache of the Chilean Embassy who arrived in Washington yesterday, has taken an apartment at Wardman Park Hotel where he will make his home the coming season.

Judge Bailey's Daughter Wed To Georgian

Mr. and Mrs. Davis Will Make Home in Bancroft Place.

A pretty home wedding of interest in judiciary circles took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when Miss Elizabeth Bailey, daughter of Associate Justice Jennings Bailey of the Supreme Court of the District, became the bride of Mr. Thomas Joel Davis of Georgia, son of Mrs. Thomas Joel Davis. The Rev. Andrew Bird of the Church of the Pilgrims officiated and a small reception followed the ceremony. White flowers and summer foliage made an effective background for the wedding.

The bride wore a gown of white chiffon fashioned with a cowl neckline and sleeves fitted to the elbow and falling knife pleats to the wrists, and her tulle veil was arranged in cap effect and held by orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Lionel Summers, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, wearing a blue chiffon frock made with cap sleeves and she carried garden flowers. Mr. Dean Davis was best man for his brother.

Receiving with the bride and bridegroom were Miss Marian Davis, sister of the bridegroom, who wore a flowered chiffon. Later in the afternoon Mr. Davis and his bride left for a wedding trip, the bride wearing a blue chiffon frock figured in red checks with accessories to match the blue. They will be at home upon their return, at 2229 Bancroft place.

An approaching wedding of more than usual interest in Washington as well as in nearby Virginia and Maryland, is that of Mrs. Harriet Douglas Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sidney Douglas, to Mr. Frederick Taylor Gause, of Wilmington, Del., which will take place Saturday afternoon, July 25, in the home of Mrs. Wallace's parents in Alexandria. The ceremony will be performed at 4:30 o'clock, with only relatives and a few close friends attending and a large reception will follow at 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Wallace is the widow of Mr. Robert Bruce Wallace, of Philadelphia. She is a sister of the late Mrs. Blaine Elkins, of Middleburg, daughter-in-law of Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins. Another sister is Mrs. W. F. Stevenson, of Alberta, Canada, and her brother is Mr. James Sidney Douglas, jr., of Alexandria.

A number of parties will be given in honor of the charming bride-elect. Tomorrow evening Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Sebrell will give a dinner for them in their home in Alexandria.

DAHLIAS IN MIDSUMMER

IN 1814, we are told, there were listed but twelve distinct types of dahlias and, according to records, twelve years later there were sixty named varieties. Now we have 8,000 named and classified varieties. So much for the interest in dahlias. Due to the ever-increasing interest in these plants we now have varieties with a longer blooming period and of steadier habits, and individual flowers borne on stiffer stems.

Just now when we are experiencing, long, hot days, our dahlias must be constantly cultivated. At least twice each week and as soon after every rain as one can get on the soil, the surface should be broken up and stirred. This permits the air to reach the subsoil, which is necessary if the soil bacteria are to function. Then, all cultivation aids in the conservation of moisture.

A little three-pronged hand cultivator is the best implement for cultivating the soil about the individual plants. For between the rows a wheel hoe will be found to do the work rapidly and well. If your plot is small you can use the three-pronged cultivator for all cultivation.

In August, when the roots are coming close to the surface, cease all deep cultivation and from then on practice shallow cultivation. Some growers prefer to cease cultivating their plants and depend on a mulch to conserve the moisture.

Never permit the plants to become too bushy. If they do, they will soon come to maturity and harden up and as a result you will have poor flowers and weak, short stems.

You must resort both to disbudding and pruning if you expect large, well formed flowers. By pruning is meant the regulation of the number of branches; this is really more important than disbudding.

Only one shoot should be allowed to develop, all others being removed as soon as you are able to determine which one to keep.

Dahlias planted in May or June usually begin to bud about the end of July. This is too early to allow the flowers to develop, for, being Fall flowers, their colors and formation are not at their best during the hot weather. So pinch out the first buds that show.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

IS SHE IN LOVE?

I have always read and enjoyed your column, but never expected to write you myself. Now I hope you will help me, as you have others.

First, I am very peculiar—I bet you think all of those who write you are—well, I'm peculiar to the fact I am one girl who does not want to get married. Gee! That's a bad beginning.

Better? Well, I went with a fellow a year and he asked me to marry him many times. I always said "no" but that I loved him and wanted to go with him. I said I would never marry any one. Well, for some reason or other he became very cobl, and I heard he is going with a girl he used to go with before he met me. Now, this hurt me deeply. Doesn't that prove he never cared for me? I always told him he did not, and he always said he did. Would you tell him you would marry him if he'd stop going with the other girl? How would you do it if you were me?

He is a very nice type of fellow, clean and good, and he doesn't drink or tell jokes of off-color. I hate to lose such a fellow, as they are rare—I mean decent ones. So please tell me what course I had better try to win him back.

Thank you so much, and I will read the paper each day in hopes of seeing your answer to BABY.

He is probably using the age-old method of bringing you to your senses. It will not be necessary for you to do more than offer the customary olive branch. He will again broach the subject of marriage, and if you really want him he is yours. But do not get the idea that this is your one and only chance. There are plenty of fine men. And it seems as if there should be one somewhere who could sell you on the idea of a four-room bungalow. Your interest in him sounds to me more like friendship than the great emotion that makes the world go round—and round and round!

Step softly. Getting married is so much less trouble than getting unmarried.

Dan Interprets the Mode

Schiaparelli's chic beige wool crepe suit has buttons of crocheted gold threads, a belt that fastens in back, a corded silk beige blouse, and a trouser skirt.

Think the latest vice twice a darkey for Miladi!
Oh-o! Love and lots buttons one crochet in gold metal!
And it's a trouser skirt!
Dan

New York, July 16.

COSTUME jewelry is becoming more and more wild and fantastic all the time. It may only be the last splurge before it dies out altogether but anyway it's terribly smart and amusing at the moment and so many startlingly original as well as chic effects can be gotten with the aid of a well-chosen piece.

Schiaparelli, who knows her unusual costume jewelry as no one else does, has a spiral bracelet of celluloid, chalky white, and standing away from the arm, not merely lying against it! With this is worn a flat, white circular piece of celluloid clasped about the base of the throat. Worn with a transparent black wool frock the effect is remarkable as well as remarkably smart.

Another Schiaparelli device is a narrow tubular piece of aluminum twisted into a zig-zag arrangement and worn as a necklace. It's extremely difficult to do justice in words, as you can see, but I assure you the result is as chic as it can be.

And then there are plaques made of black kid edged in gold kid, strung together to form an extremely charming necklace for sports purposes. And since it's so hard to get just the right type of jewelry for sports purposes, many women will like that, as well as the necklace made of ordinary cording (but much softer to the touch) and strung with three or four immense beads. I should tell you that this particular necklace comes with sets of three or four beads in different colors to be strung on the cording, according to the color of your costume!

* * * *

For the business day, for a morning's window shopping, for the train or motor trip—what? Why the little, tailored suit, of course, if you would be both smart and comfortable! And a little tailored suit can have great charm in its clean-cut lines, as you can see by the one from Schiaparelli which I sketch for you today. This one is of beige wool crepe. The double-breased jacket is buttoned with buttons crocheted from a very heavy gold thread, has wide notch lapels, and is fastened about the waist by a belt that closes in back. And the front pleated skirt? That's the secret, my deahs, it's one of those so new and practical trouser-skirts, even though you'd never guess it! And the blouse to all this tailored chic is of beige corded silk, with a knitted tie, that forms a collar in back and tucks inside the skirt in front, of white, red and beige.

* * * *

I do hope you're open-minded about trouser-skirts, for you are apt to see more and more of them in the next few weeks!

"O-o-o-h, my dear! Did you ever see such a honey of a dress! 'N' it's a honey of a price, too, I notice—for such a simple, lovely thing! Yes, my darling, the price is high and the dress is lovely—but there's no reason why you shouldn't make one like it yourself. Because, you see, the thing that makes it different is that tricky scarf—and you can make one just like it easily if you'll only send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet. I've shown you how to make ever so many scarfs for all sorts of occasions, and each one of great originality!

Au revoir!

Culbertson on Contract

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

BEWARE OF ONE NOTRUMP BIDS VULNERABLE.

An opening bid of one notrump should rarely be made when you are vulnerable. It should never be made if the hand offers an alternative bid. Contrary to general impression, the bid has almost no advantages but it has many disadvantages as compared with an opening suit bid, even with a rather weak four-card suit.

At Auction, where the partner's strength was concealed, the bid of one notrump was a powerful weapon which was apt to put the opponents at a disadvantage, as Fourth Hand, with no knowledge of Third Hand's strength or weakness, might be forced to make a weak lead-directing bid, which sometimes could be heavily penalized. At Contract, however, Fourth Hand always knows the situation because Third Hand has either made a strong bid, shutting him out, or has passed, in which case the game is automatically saved. Consequently, the bid of one notrump rarely leads to penalties.

On the contrary, it has the following overwhelming disadvantages:

1. If partner should have a very poor hand, it usually results in a penalty ranging any where from 300 to 1,400.

2. It fails to disclose one's suit to partner and consequently does not afford him as much assistance in determining the proper declaration, or the advisability of a Double of opponents' bid.

3. It tends to shut out partner, as it is possible to respond with much weaker hands to a suit bid of one than to a bid of notrump. For instance, with an Ace and a King in different suits, a bid of one notrump in response to a suit bid of one is absolutely sound; on the other hand, to raise partner's one notrump to two notrump, at least an Ace, a King and a Queen is required, and even with this holding the result is very apt to prove unsatisfactory.

With strong hands, therefore, avoid one notrump bids because you wish some response from partner and notrump tends to shut him out; with weaker hands because you wish to avoid a possible penalty against you.

Never make weak notrump bids when vulnerable. The minimum holding should be three honor tricks plus, i.e., A 7 6, A J 3, A 5 4, 6 5 4 3. This bid is risky, but passing would probably be worse on an average.

The hand below shows clearly the danger of this bid, even with a hand of far more than ordinary honor-trick strength. Mr. Theodore A. Lightner was seated South and Mr. Michael Gottlieb was playing North.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1NT?(1)	Dbl.	Pass	Pass!! (2)
Pass (3)

1. One diamond is a far better bid.

2. A daring but brilliant Penalty Pass. To many readers this bid will seem merely insane, but it is really sound. North reasons: (1) It will be impossible for his side to go anywhere playing the band. (2) He knows that South has a very powerful hand to double one notrump, when vulnerable. Consequently it is improbable that opponents can make more than one notrump and, in any case, they cannot go game. On the other hand, if South's hand is very big, there may be a nice penalty. He is also prepared for either heart or spade opening. (A diamond lead is improbable.) (3) What is East to do here? He knows the hand is probably sour, but with his rock-crusher it looks as if it would not be very bad, and to bid two diamonds increases the contract and may be even worse.

The Play.

South opened a low heart, which North won and led the nine of Clubs, instead of returning Hearts—a beautiful lead. East ducked it, and South won with the ten. East could have blocked the North hand by winning the first two rounds of clubs, but he had no way of knowing this. South returned the Queen of clubs, which East won. East now had no lead which would not be disastrous, but elected to lead the spade King (probably best), in hopes that the Ace would hold off, or that he could eventually establish a spade trick. South, however, won with the Ace, and led the Knave of clubs. East had no recourse but to continue spades. North won with Queen, and cashed his two good clubs. Result down 1400.

It seems almost incredible that East's hand can be set 1400. It will be argued that nothing like this would happen once in a hundred times. Quite true, but why take the risk, when a perfectly safe diamond bid is open, offering much better prospects for eventually getting to the right contract?

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CANCER."

IF July 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:45 a. m. to 10:35 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 3:10 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger hours are from 11 a. m. to 12:50 p. m., and from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

The astrological aspects of July 17 indicate danger of accident, especially from machinery. They also presage worry and friction, especially in the family circle. No unnecessary risks should be taken and restraint on word and action should be exercised. Not an auspicious occasion for engaged couples.

A child born on this July 17 will, in its early years, be very studious, thereby laying the foundation for a career marked by ability and ultimately crowned with success. Its disposition will be rather retiring, and its affection will be tongue-tied, but its unselfish actions will speak louder than words.

Born on July 17, you are progressive and determined, always ready to try anything new once. You are not hidebound by tradition, either in thought or action. Original and a keen observer, you are critical of wasteful methods, and are never afraid to test your own way of doing things. You possess the gift of organizing and systematizing, and, with the necessary experience, are bound to be a good executive. You never seek the limelight, rather do you prefer to sit back and "pull wires," and you are not all disposed to grab all the glory for yourself when success crowns your efforts.

Your are naturally urbane and courteous. You never grovel to superiors, nor attempt to bully subordinates. You know your real value, and see to it—although not in a blatant way—that others appreciate and estimate at their just value your merits. You are, possibly, too fond of excitement, and too much on the lookout for something that will cause you a sensation or give you a new thrill. With maturity, this phase of your make-up will disappear.

You are a born home lover, but not to the exclusion of outside interests. You are congenial, and an amusing companion, a good mate and devoted to children.

Successful people born July 17:
Isaac Watts, preacher and hymn writer.
John J. Astor, merchant.
William Cranch, jurist.
George Gibbs, antiquarian.
Robert M. Patterson, author and clergyman.
Horatio N. Spencer, physician.

Your Name
WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph.D.

THE family name "Foch" is a French variation of "Folchere." The personal name "Folchere" is of Germanic origin, and means "people-army."

The family name "Joffre" is a modern variation of the French "Geoffray." "Geoffray," which was written "Geoffroi" in Old French, is ultimately of Teutonic origin, and means "God's peace."

The family name "Hindenburg" is of German origin, and means "he who lives behind the castle."

The family name "Lee" occurs with a great variety of spellings in the earliest English documents. Its source is the Old English "leah," which means "the meadow" and "the pasture," and it indicates the place of residence of the persons who were first so called. However, this family name has been frequently adopted by Irish families whose original names are from quite different sources. Thus, it sometimes represents the Irish "Liath," meaning "the gray man," "Mac an Leagha," meaning "the son of the physician," or "O Laoidhigh," meaning "the descendant of the poet."

The family name "Grant" has come down to us from several quite different sources. In the great majority of cases it is merely a variation of "Grand." "Grand" is of French and ultimately of Latin origin, and means "great" and "big." It was first applied as a nickname to persons of great size. In some cases it has been adopted by Irish families whose original name was the Celtic "Granda," which means "ugly." "Grant" has been very common in Scotland since very early days. The name was taken to Ireland in the thirteenth century by a Norman family which settled in Kilkenny, Tipperary, Waterford and Cork. However, most of the Grants in Ulster are members of a Scottish clan some of whom settled there at an early date.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Sensuley

HAIR RIBBONS

MODERN HAIR RIBBON ORNAMENTS SEEM TO HAVE STARTED WHEN THE DUCHESSE DE FONTANGES, MISTRESS OF LOUIS XIV, HAD HER HEADDRESS BLOWN AWAY WHILE HUNTING WITH THE KING. SHE TIED HER HAIR IN PLACE WITH HER GARTERS, ALLOWING THE RIBBON ENDS TO FALL OVER HER FOREHEAD. THIS SO DELIGHTED THE KING THAT IT SOON BECAME AN ESTABLISHED FASHION.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

WHENCE PERSONALITY.

MENTAL health ranks above physical health as a cause of happiness and contentment. Just how the two compare in producing efficiency depends upon the kind of work an individual does. Mental ill health ranks with physical ill health in the harm it does. If physical ill health receives—and should receive—the attention of those interested in prevention, mental ill health is likewise entitled to consideration of the same kind.

Personality is a combination of qualities, some of which are physical and many of which are mental. If a person has a pleasing personality he may go far toward success in spite of a mediocre mentality. If, on the other hand, the personality is one of certain types the individual may succeed in putting himself across, but he must be exceptionally strong mentally or exceedingly well equipped.

There are types of personality that are likely to head toward certain types of mental breakdown. Training, based on the type, will prevent some of these breakdowns.

Dr. A. Meyerson thinks both heredity and environment play a part in forming a personality. As to heredity, he says that what we achieve is dependent on our germ plasm. We can not reach what we have not the capacity to reach. On the other hand, the direction and form of our trends are given by the environment. Comparing the two, it is evident that Dr. Meyerson considers environment more important than heredity, but he does not go to the extreme that Dr. John B. Watson does. We can do more with environment than we can with heredity, for more reasons than one.

Personality results from the interaction of nervous centers, viscera, and internal glands. Even from the muscles and joints flows an inner stream helping to create mood and action. When such forces as these are counted as environment affecting personality we see the influence a man can have in determining his own personality. This carries with it the thought that a man is, in considerable part, responsible for his own personality, is entitled to its rewards and punishments.

Much of personality is dependent on the people roundabout and the happenings of life. These also serve to modify personality. When a man has a sick personality it is not enough to know that one fact. The diagnosis should extend, if possible, to the type of sickness. If the diagnosis goes that far it is often possible to outline a curative and preventive type of behavior, a regulation of work, play, and social and domestic atmosphere.

It is sometimes possible to say what the future holds. More frequently it will be possible to warn the interested individual where are the rocks that threaten him and advise him how to steer around them.

SHOULD TRY AGAIN.

C. E. H. writes: Please give some information about entropion. I have been operated upon four times for this condition but without success. I am discouraged.

REPLY.

I am told by eye specialists that you can be cured. The fact that operations have not cured you is discouraging, but the only policy for you is to try again.

DANGER IS TRIVIAL.

Mrs. N. G. writes: Can one catch disease germs from a bathing suit?

REPLY.

The danger is trivial.

TUBERCULAR CHICKENS.

Mrs. L. T. writes:

1. What should be done with a flock of tubercular chickens?
2. Can they be used for food?
3. Can they be sold, or is there a law forbidding this?

REPLY.

1. They should be killed. The premises should be well cleaned and sunned. The approved method of keeping flocks free from tuberculosis is to kill all birds at two years of age or younger.
2. They are safe if thoroughly cooked.
3. If there is any law against the sale of tuberculous chickens I do not know. Of course, it is against the laws of honesty and fair dealing.

GOOD WILL ENVOYS RECEIVED BY BRIAND

French Statesman Lauds Idea That Sent Americans to Europe.

Special to The Washington Post.

Paris, July 16.—Another world figure impressed himself today on the "Envoys of Friendship," the group of young Americans in France on a good will mission under the auspices of the United States Flag Association, when they were received by Aristide Briand, prime minister of foreign affairs for France. M. Briand, one of the world's greatest apostles of peace, was greatly interested in the mission of the young visitors from the United States.

Congratulating the "envoys" on the success of their mission in France, M. Briand heartily recommended the inauguration by the United States Flag Association of a movement for permanent peace among the youth of the world through the teaching of rational patriotism. He said that the visit of these young Americans to England and France this year is the forerunner of a plan which should sweep the world, once its purpose is thoroughly understood.

Col. James A. Moss, president general of the United States Flag Association, explained the plan of his organization for teaching rational patriotism, explaining that each child would be taught to respect and defend, if necessary, his flag and his country, but that he would also be taught that other children of other countries should have the same right to respect and defend their flags and countries. Col. Moss visualized a future permanent peace, built upon such rational patriotism, coupled with respect for the peoples of other countries, and a friendship, established by the children of today who will be in charge of the world tomorrow, which will send them to the council table to straighten out any differences that may arise between countries.

M. Briand expressed the hope that the movement started by the Flag Association in bringing the "envoys" to England and France, would receive renewed impetus in the United States, so that it should become an annual event, with larger and larger numbers of young people participating, and that both France and Great Britain would realize the value of these contacts and would, in turn, send delegations of their young people to the United States. He praised the fine work being done in the interest of peace by the young people of today and said that if a permanent state of world peace is to be reached, it must be brought about by some such means as are being employed by the United States Flag Association.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

A new romper style in pale pink cotton broadcloth all the French kiddies are wearing.

The brief legs are what makes it such a favorite. Such a charming cool and comfortable fashion for tiny tots.

It is mighty attractive, too made of pale blue gingham that tubs so well, embroidered in cross stitch in pale pink floss to emphasize the little duck which is so amusing to youngsters of 1, 2, 3 and 4 years. The cost to copy style No. 507 will surprise you. For the 2-year size ⅞ yard of 36-inch gingham with 2½ yards of pink bias binding, is all that is required.

Linen, cotton mesh, shantung, cotton rep and pique are sturdy selections.

HAPPINESS IS CHEAP AT WOODLAND BEACH

Owners Buy Lots, Build at Saving Over Residence in City Heat.

Another week-end is approaching and another opportunity to visit Woodland Beach is just around the corner for those who have not yet paid a call at this summer home development on the South River of Maryland.

The Washington Post invites every Washingtonian who has not yet visited Woodland Beach to ride out there Sunday whether or not he is interested in purchasing a site for a summer home. The beauties of the place will repay those who make the trip whether they become lot owners or not.

Many have seen the advantages of Woodland Beach and are enjoying themselves through the hot weather at this delightful spot, only 32 miles away. Not only are the Woodland Beach dwellers chortling over their friends who are still spending the summers "in town" because of the added comfort the beach residents enjoy, but also because those who have erected cottages there are saving money.

They have found that the payments on their property, plus the payments on the summer homes they have built are considerably less than the amount they formerly paid for apartments or homes in town.

And in addition to this they have at their disposal 4½ miles of water front on which to swim, fish and go boating. They have wooded areas in which to hold picnics and they have a cool breeze off the river when those in the city are suffering.

Obtaining a lot at Woodland Beach is an easy matter and the terms upon which it may be secured are even easier. All lots at the development are priced at $93 and to begin building all that is necessary is to pay $9 in cash, plus the cost of a subscription to The Washington Post. The remainder may then be paid at the easy rate of $3.50 per month. Meanwhile you may be enjoying the summer season in your cottage.

Drop in at The Post today. Look over the maps of Woodland Beach and select your location. Then on Sunday go out there and get a picture of your home you have always had in mind—and then build. Be a part of a fast-growing summer community of which you will be proud.

Dry Agents' Ruse Snares Prisoner

Maryland Man, Car and Alleged Liquor Are Captured by Enforcers.

Employing a ruse used by police to catch retail bootleggers, Federal dry agents yesterday captured William Whitaker, of Oakland, Md., with five cases of alleged liquor.

The agents said they phoned Whitaker from a garage in Suitland, asking him to bring them the contraband. He was arrested when he drove up in an auto, which was also seized. Whitaker was taken to Marlboro and arraigned before U. S. Commissioner J. Frank Parran, who set bond at $1,000. Whitaker, unable to furnish surety, was committed to jail.

Whitaker is said to have been in this part of the country only two days. After his arrest, county police raided the house where he had been living, but found nothing.

Cosmopolitans to Award Medal for Civic Work

Gordon Bonnette, president of the Cosmopolitan Club, announced at a meeting yesterday that the club again will award this year the Cosmopolitan medal to the citizen who, in the judges' opinion, has made the most outstanding civic contribution to Washington during the year. Theodore W. Noyes, editor of the Star, received the honor last year.

James E. Colliflower, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the next outing, said that plans for holding a picnic near Baltimore had been abandoned and that the fete would be held at one of the nearby shore resorts.

Barrymore Tradition Shaky; Ethel's Daughter May Croon

Miss Colt Due for Great Future, in Opinion of George White, as He Signs Her for Role in "Scandals."

New York, July 16 (U.P.).—Miss Ethel Barrymore Colt, 19-year-old daughter of the great Ethel, is determined to make a reputation for herself in musical comedy if she has to croon to do it.

Miss Colt said as much today during a lull in rehearsals of George White's "Scandals," in which she will appear this fall.

"Certainly," the brunette young heir to the Barrymore tradition said. "Certainly I can put over a hot song. Why I have already sung 'Love Is Like That' for Mr. White and he liked it. I may not be another Ruth Etting, but I can croon if necessary."

So it appears that the Drew-Barrymore tradition of fine acting and dignified drama is definitely on the drift. Since Miss Colt has signed a contract to appear in the "Scandals," and since George White put himself on record today as favoring her voice, her personality and her dramatic ability, it might be said that the die has been cast.

Great Future Predicted.

The prospect of having her daughter do the rumba and shout "Hot-Chacha!" for the dramatic critics does not offend the sensibilities of her famous mother. In fact, Ethel Barrymore accompanied Miss Colt to White's office for the ceremony of signing the contract, and posed beside Ethel, jr., as cameramen recorded the momentous event.

Miss Colt, who has black eyes, black hair and a rounded, not unattractive face, will make a great musical comedy star, in White's opinion.

"I think she's got the stuff, else I wouldn't have signed her up," he declared. "She has the Barrymore knack of making herself at home on the stage. She has a pleasing personality and she has looks. As far as her singing goes, you just wait until August."

Miss Colt attends rehearsal every day and seems to be getting a big kick out of it. She is chummy with all the other principals, including Everett Marshall, the former opera barytone, who reaches musical comedies via the talkies; Willie and Eugene Howard, the comedians, the Gale quadruplets and Rudy Vallee, the crooner. Vallee, due to his mother's death, has had to give up rehearsals temporarily. He will appear in the show without his orchestra.

Bathtub Scenes Are Out.

In fact, Miss Colt is entirely democratic about the whole business and doesn't understand why any one should be fussy because she has blue Barrymore blood in her veins.

"My family? There's nothing strange about the family," she said. "No, I don't suppose my uncles know about it, but I can't see why they would object. Mother thinks it's perfectly all right, and they will, too."

The show's press agent, fearing that Miss Colt's presence in the cast might be misinterpreted in some way, offered the suggestion that she will appear in two or three skits, that she may do a bit of singing and a bit of dancing.

"But everything'll be right in the Barrymore tradition," he said. "She's not going to do any fan dances or appear in any bathtub scenes."

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

A LITTLE good-natured raillery and more or less innocent fan-baiting are all right in their place now and then, but no one of normal sensibilities, I think, could fail to feel something of the anguish that has come to Rudy Vallee so hard on the heels of the joyous occasion of his marriage.

I am glad to be privileged to pay respectful tribute to the fiber of this public idol who has so conclusively demonstrated in an hour of poignant sorrow that the glitter of his life on Broadway has dimmed neither his mind nor his heart to life's tenderer sentiments and sterner duties.

His mother had every right to be as proud of him as he obviously was of her.

Tonight in RKO's "Theater of the Air," Phillips Lord will be an especially honored participant. Mr. Lord, the original Seth Parker of radio fame—who, incidentally, has more than once packed the largest gathering places in Washington far beyond their capacities—is leaving soon for the Coast to make a series of pictures for RKO, and tonight's goings-on will be somewhat in the nature of a national send-off. If Mr. Heinl will pardon me for tracking up his front porch!

For the benefit of those who had begun to doubt it, I am now in a position to state authoritatively that the Nationals are going to win the pennant. Walter Johnson says so in the latest issue of the Pathe News, now on view at the RKO-Keith Theater.

In a considerable address for one who has never borne the reputation of being exactly gabby—that was his first catcher, if you remember—Walter sets forth that Washington has the best balanced team in the American League and the only one capable of upsetting those Athletics. He pays brief respects to the Yankees' heavy-hitting wrecking crew, but can't see them as pennant winners.

I trust I was mistaken in thinking the speech softened up a bit at the very end when the Big Train concluded: "Yes, sir, the team that wins the pennant will have to beat Philadelphia."

You tell 'em, Walter!

Speaking of that Pathe News, you will get a tremendous kick out of a tiny sleepy-head who simply couldn't hold her eyes open any longer during a baby show, or something of the kind, up Boston way. This curly-headed little tot just had to have a nap, camera or no camera, and as a result furnished some the greatest unconscious comedy ever seen on a screen.

And would she have given something pretty for a pillow!

The combination of high temperature, higher humidity and overexertion yesterday afternoon came near being the undoing of Bert Frohman, master of ceremonies with the "Exit Smiling" revue, at the Palace this week.

A group of artists from the Loew unit went out to Walter Reed Hospital to cheer the boys up a bit and in the enthusiasm of the moment, Mr. Frohman, who hadn't been feeling so well even before they started, almost keeled over.

After the doctors had thumped his back, made a xylophone of his ribs and stethoscoped him fore and aft, it was with the utmost difficulty that he escaped from their solicitous attentions in time for his next performance on F street.

Just a trouper!

Speaking of newsreels—or have you just tuned in?—reminds me that local exhibitors might find it profitable to follow the practice of Dave Idzal, twice the incumbent of the managing directorship of the local Fox Theater, but now serving in the same capacity in the Philadelphia Fox house, who exercises an original method of direct salesmanship in marketing the current events reel.

Immediately upon its receipt, he scans each new issue of the news and sends personal notes to individuals and organizations he thinks would be interested in special subjects. The result is a considerable amount of constructive publicity and good will in important places.

Of course you know that the campaign slogan of the Theatrical Press Representatives of America, of which Frank La Falce, of the Warner executive staff, is Washington representative, in their fight to bring back "the road," is "S. O. S. Save Our Stage." What you may not know is that it was originated by Willard Holcomb, former occupant of this desk, who, during an earlier incarnation, used to caption my column of gossip, "Tintinnabulations of the Prompt Bell"—the polysyllabic so-and-so!

Well, I wonder if the boys out at the ballyard tonight will find themselves singing "Londos' bridge is Falling Down," or merely sweeping Mr. Dusek up off the home plate again?

Or would you rather shoot a little tiddle-de-winks?

"A WOMAN OF EXPERIENCE." A Charles R. Rogers picturization of the story of "The Registered Woman," by John Farrow, with adaptation and dialogue by the author, starring Helen Twelvetrees, supported by Lew Cody, William Bakewell, ZaSu Pitts, H. B. Warner, C. Henry Gordon, Nance O'Neil, Franklin Pangborn and George Fawcett. Directed by Harry Joe Brown. Distributed by RKO-Pathe. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

A pretentious picture, handsomely mounted, well acted and skillfully directed, this, reflecting thoughtful preparation and painstaking execution, possibly a little beyond anything that has come along under the same trademark since the memorable "Cimarron"—which, by the way, it does not in the least resemble.

For purposes of quick identification, "A Woman of Experience," with certain modifications and no hint of plagiarism, is in essence another "Dishonored." The outstanding difference is that Helen Twelvetrees, William Bakewell, Lew Cody and the other members of the distinguished cast—and this is one of those infrequent occasions when "distinguished" is precisely the word—are permitted to etch their story in sweeping strokes without the meticulous attention to the details of individual characterization Marlene Dietrich and Victor McLaglen were called upon to exert.

The story is of a beautiful young woman of Vienna's streets—a registered woman—who, in the crisis of the early days of the war, was selected to trap a spy operating from within Austria's military organization. Before this delicate duty can even be begun, Elsa falls in love with a youth of title from the provinces, who is serving as a lieutenant in the navy. Each saves the other from almost seditious neglect of duty, and each emerges a hero. Their love, however, seems less likely of successful consummation than ever. The manner in which the climax and denouement are brought about may, or may not, conform with the individual spectator's notions of logic and sound dramaturgy. Either way, the picture, in the main, is excellent entertainment of the starkly unrelenting kind in its approaches to near tragedy.

Needed comedy interludes are intrusted to Za Su Pitts and Franklin Pangborn, as Elsa's maid and Count Runyi's sailor-orderly, respectively, with fine effect. There should be more of them.

The major burden of the narrative is borne by Miss Twelvetrees and the youthful Mr. Bakewell, who is constantly growing in dramatic stature. The star has never appeared more lovely or played with more telling repression. Lew Cody, as the spy finally driven to suicide, is the nearest approach to a villain the piece can boast, and a very delightful villain he is in his few brief scenes.

Next in importance come H. B. Warner and C. Henry Gordon, as the ranking officers in the intelligence department of the Austrian army. Their roles should be reversed. George Fawcett and Nance O'Neil have little more than bits.

The film has been expertly photographed with many expository sequences deftly indicated by generous use of double exposure and the lapse dissolve.

The supporting program is on a par with the superior quality of the feature. An amusing "Gay Girls" comedy, "June First," involves June MacCloy, Marion Schilling and Jimmy Finlayson in its clever complications, and one of Grantland Rice's most exciting Sportlights, "Battling Silver Kings," deals thrillingly with tarpon and shark fishing off the Florida coast.

The lesser screen attractions are a new issue of the Pathe News, devoting a considerable footage to Rudy Vallee and his bride, and one of the best of the recent Aesop Fables, "Pale Face Pup."

Altogether a bill worth your time.

NATIONALIST TROOPS JOIN CHINA UPRISING

Brigade in Hunan Province Deserts to Rebels as Tension Grows.

Hong Kong, July 16 (A.P.).—The new Canton government today asserted another brigade of troops in Hunan Province, which nominally is a part of the Nanking national government's territory, had joined the southern cause.

The Canton regime, organized in opposition to the National president, Chiang Kai-Shek, also asserted 1,000 Cantonese deserters from the Nationalist army of Gen. Chen Ming-Shu had arrived at Canton and were enlisting in the Southern army.

Unconfirmed reports from Tientsin in northern China said tension was increasing there as a result of rumors that certain northern generals were preparing to revolt against the Nationalist regime.

Eugene Chen, foreign minister of the Canton government, commenting on reports that President Chiang Kai-Shek and his Nationalist army operating against Reds and bandits in Kiangsi Province had suffered heavy losses, said the success of the Communists there was due to tactics which they had learned from Chiang himself.

Chen, a former member of the Nationalist cabinet, said that when President Chiang conquered the Chinese war lords he sent their troops to fight reds. Chen said Chiang had feared the soldiers of the war lords would prove untrustworthy and pitted them against the Communists in the hope that either they would kill the reds or the reds would kill them.

Knowledge of this trick, Chen said, caused many troops to join the red army in Kiangsi. He asserted the red column there had increased to 80,000 rifles.

Chiang, who allegedly had 250,000 troops available when he launched his recent antired campaign in Kiangsi, now is using his best soldiers, Chen said. The Canton official asserted, however, that the reds had been generally successful, latest reports showing Chiang suffering heavy losses.

Bell Cab Company Cuts City Rate to 25 Cents

The Bell Cab Co. yesterday added its name to the list of local taxicab operators who have reduced charges from 35 cents to 25 in the "city proper". The decision was reached at a meeting of the company's drivers. Other changes in rates include reduction of charges for the former 60-cent zone to 50 cents, and the former 85-cent zone to 75 cents.

The cab company claims the distinction of being the first to introduce the now popular low flat rate charges for taxicab service. President Leon Brill pointed out that rates generally are now less than half those formerly charged in Washington.

Vines and Doeg in Finals At Brookline as Allison Is Eliminated in Upset

Texan Bows in 3-Set Match; Sutter Gives Doeg a Battle.

Mrs. Moody, Partner, Pressed to Win in Doubles Play.

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 16 (A.P.).—Johnny Doeg, national tennis champion, today gained the final round of the Longwood Bowl tourney by outsteadying Clifford Sutter, last year's winner, 6—4, 7—5, 4—6, 6—4. Neither played his top game, but the New Orleans player's habit of overdriving and netting most of his backhand returns caused his downfall.

Sutter's best work was against his opponent's service, which he broke six times in the four sets by sudden swoops to the net for slams that caught Doeg on the wrong side of the court.

Doeg, however, more than made up these breaks by fracturing Sutter's offerings eight times in the match. The 1930 winner permitted Doeg to outfumble him for the third set and then regained some control of his forehand drive. The disastrous third game in the finale, when the receiving Doeg became foreful, snapped Sutter's spurt off short.

Vines' Forehands Accurate.

Ellsworth Vines, clay court champion from Pasadena, Calif., became the other finalist by defeating Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., 7—5, 6—3, 6—1.

The hard-working Texan was greatly bothered by Vines' accurate forehands, especially in the final set, when the Californian broke down his service twice to overcome a 1—3 game lead.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Mrs. George W. Wightman today played ragged tennis for a team that has won two national doubles titles, but it was good enough to defeat Mrs. Ary Lamme, New York, and Mrs. Robert Morris, Boston, 6—4, 6—4. The win places the stars in the third round.

Although Mrs. Moody's service was unbroken, she had trouble placing her first ball and was often caught napping when Mrs. Morris and Mrs. Lamme drove over straight volleys for placements. The match lasted twenty games because Mrs. Wightman yielded three of her four services.

Mrs. Moody then put on a single set exhibition with G. Holmes Perkins, Cambridge, and by chasing him leg-weary, gained a 7-5 victory over the light-hitting Massachusetts champion.

Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, and Dorothy Weisel, Sacramento, Calif., first and second seeded players, today went down to unexpected defeats in the quarter-final round of the women's singles.

Miss Morrill Upset In Quarterfinals.

Miss Morrill bowed to Mary Greef, Kansas City, 6—3, 3—6, 6—3, and the Californian star was beaten by Dorothy Andrus, Stamford, Conn., 9—7, 6—4.

Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Calif., seeded fourth, qualified for the semifinals by taking an extra set match from Baroness Levi, New York, 4—6, 9—7, 6—2, and the other bracket went to Sarah Palfrey, Brookline, seeded fifth, when she vanquished Edith Sigourney, Boston, 6—4, 6—4.

Miss Morrill's downfall was traced to her failure to vary her strokes against the brilliant Mid-Westerner. The latter was steady at every point and after she gained her leads on Miss Morrill's overdriving in the first and third sets she held them to the end.

Miss Andrus played just a bit better tennis in her match with the highly ranked Californian. Her powerful returns overcame Miss Weisel's well-placed soft strokes and she gained her slim lead in each by flustering her opponent with placement slams.

Tilden Expects France To Retain Davis Cup

New York, July 16 (A.P.).—Here are big Bill Tilden's thoughts of the day's salient tennis topics, wired from Sky Top, Pa., in answer to questioning put to him by the Associated Press:

No. 1.—"Do you agree with the opinion of most critics that your professional victories have shown your game to be better than ever?"

Answer—"Am playing as well as I ever played."

No. 2.—"What are your plans for a world professional tour, starting later this year?"

Answer—"No plans to announce yet, but should have in two weeks."

No. 3.—"What do you think of the American Davis Cup prospects?"

Answer—"Haven't beaten England yet. If we do I look to see France win."

U. S. TO OPEN PLAY WITH ENGLAND

Wood vs. Austin and Shields vs. Perry Matches Today.

PARIS, July 16 (A.P.).—On the neutral ground of France, the Davis Cup tennis teams of the United States and Great Britain tomorrow start their three-day series of interzone matches to decide which nation will challenge during the following week-end the French holders of the famous tennis trophy.

Since 1927 France has held the cup against the onslaughts of the whole world.

Rain this afternoon soaked Roland Garros Stadium, but the American and British stars had already finished their practice while the officials of three nations were making the draw for tomorrow's play.

Pierre Gillou, president of the French Tennis Federation, in the presence of Sam Hardy and H. Roper Barrett, nonplaying captains of the two teams, drew from a hat names, which assured a fighting start for the series and added uncertainty to the outcome of the Anglo-American duel.

Sydney Wood, recently crowned Wimbledown champion, and then Henry W. Austin, Britain's ranking player, were first drawn and they start their series battle at 2 p. m. (8 a. m. E. S. T.). Frank Shields and Fred Perry then take the court while Saturday's doubles will be between George Lott and Johnny Van Ryn and Perry and George P. Hughes. Sunday the remaining singles will be played with the pairs reversed, Wood meeting Perry followed by Shields against Austin.

The nation which wins three of the five matches, will challenge France and the hope in the American camp is that three British scalps will be captured by Saturday.

In her progress to the interzone final, Britain has lost only one match. Austin dropped that to Hecht, of Czechoslovakia, but not until Britain had clinched the series.

The United States has lost two matches, one to Canada and one to Argentine. Great Britain swept through the European zone, defeating Monaco, Belgium, South Africa, Japan and Czechoslovakia. The United States came through the American lists by beating Mexico, Canada and Argentine, the latter having won the South American zone.

Londos Faces Dusek Here Tonight

Rocking-Chair Split vs. Airplane Spin at Stadium.

Zbyszko, McCready, Steinborn Also to Show Wares.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

JIMMY LONDOS, handsomest and most popular of the great Army heavyweight wrestlers now lowing and stamping in the ball parks throughout the land, will make his fourth visit to Washington tonight since he was crowned, a year ago last June, "world's champion," and given territorial sovereignty over New York and Pennsylvania.

Londos' accomplice in the spectacle tonight at Griffith Stadium will be Rudy Dusek, one of the six best wrestlers now in circulation, who met and was defeated by Londos here last month in a spectacular match before 9,000 people. Dusek, unable to use such of his customary tactics as the rocking chair split, the thor-hammer and the plain and simple sock on the jaw, nevertheless looked like the winner from start through all but a half-minute of the 58-minute exhibition, during which half-minute Londos picked him up and slammed all the aggressiveness out of him.

Last month when Londos, who hovers around the 200 mark, and Dusek, whose average weight is 214, tangled at Griffith Park, the third man in the ring was Ernest Roeber, the veteran N. B. A. official and winner of the fromworld's championship (Graeco-Roman) from William Muldoon here in Washington some forty years ago.

Roeber Crimped Dusek's Style.

Roeber refused to permit Dusek to use several of his more ruinous means of rendering an opponent, however unwilling, horizontal. Chief of the "don'ts" was the ban on striking Londos with that portion of an arm near the elbow, in quick, short, jabbin, ruinous blows.

Tonight "Cyclone" Burns will be in the ring.

Dusek can be counted upon to give a good account of himself tonight, but the feeling persists among the 10,000-odd fans who will see the event that the title is not going to change hands. Londos, no matter how far gone he seems halfway through the bout, and sometimes even further, has an infallible knack of always winning. He has won so often that it does not seem possible that once, during the period between 1928 and 1929, he was one of the mots licked—if most liked—gentlemen of the profession.

Sandor Szabo, one of the better younger matmen, and a recent importation from Hungary, will perform in the semiwindup against old Toots Mondt, a large, harmless person, who fills in whenever a scheduled man does not show up, and who is reputed to own, with Jack Curley, a measurable proportion of the stock in the so-called "Curley chain."

Earl McCready, a reformed collegian, who is being primed to go far in wrestling, will meet a hardened veteran in Frank Brunowicz, who, with Dick Daviscourt, gave one of the bloodiest exhibitions of all time in this same ring last month.

Wladek Zbyszko, one of the last of the old-time out-and-out wrestlers, will appear again on Matchmaker Turner's card, this time against Milo Steinborn, who, before he turned wrestler, was known as "the Great Steinborn, Strongest Man in the World."

In the remaining match Tiger Nelson and Mike Romano will tug and haul in a manner which very probably will befit the advance publicity that it is a "grudge fight."

Girl Swimming Stars Defend A. U. U. Titles

New York, July 16 (U.P.).—America's three outstanding women aquatic stars successfully defended their titles as the second day's program of the annual National A. A. U. swimming and diving championships came to a close tonight.

Miss Helene Madison, of Seattle, Wash., retained her 440-yard free style championship in the final event on tonight's program. Previously Miss Eleanor Holm defended her laurels in the 220-yard backstroke, while Miss Georgia Coleman, of Los Angeles, duplicated her feat of last year in winning the high platform diving competition.

Miss Madison had a lead of 30 yards over Miss Lenore Kight, of Homestead, Pa., in the 440-yard free style. The Seattle spedster took the lead at the start of the race and was never headed. Her only close competitor after the first quarter of the race had been run was Miss Kight, but she faltered just before reaching the halfway mark. Miss Josephine McKim, of Los Angeles, was third, leading Miss Florence Southward, of Buffalo, by a scant half yard.

RUNYAN TOPS MET OPEN GOLFERS

White Plains Pro Has Card of 70, Tops Farrell by 1.

CRESTMONT GOLF CLUB, West Orange, N. J., July 16 (U.P.).—Bettering par by two strokes for the lowest score made on the Crestmont links since the introduction of the "balloon" ball, Paul Runyan, White Plains professional, today took the lead in the Metropolitan open golf championship with a 70.

The Metropolitan, oldest American open tournament, attracted a field of 154 entrants, including many foreign players and almost all of the Nation's outstanding golfers, and eighteen players were bunched within six strokes of the leader at the completion of today's 18-hole round. A second 18-hole round will be played tomorrow, with the field being cut for the final 36 holes of play on Saturday.

Johnny Farrell, 1928 United States open champion, took second place with a 71 and Willie Macfarlane, 1925 open champion, was a stroke behind in third place.

Gene Sarazen, a heavy pretournament favorite, got away to a bad start with a 40 for the outgoing nine, but came back with a 33, three strokes under par, and tied with three rivals for fourth place at 73. Sarazen had five birdies during the eighteen holes, one on the outgoing nine and four on the incoming round.

Scores of the first fifteen were: Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., 34, 36—70; Johnny Farrell, Mamaroneck, N. Y., 36, 35—71; Willie MacFarlane, Tuckahoe, N. MACKS BEAT TIGERS BY 5-3 SCORE

Mahaffey Aids Own Cause With Home Run Clout.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 16 (A.P.).—A three-run rally in the fifth inning today gave the Philadelphia Athletics their third victory in a row over Detroit by the score of 5 to 3.

Roy Mahaffey, who went the distance for the champions, turned in his eighth victory of the season. Half of his triumphs have been made at the expense of the Tigers.

He helped his team-mates today by hitting a home run into the leftfield stands in the sixth inning.

Pirates Win Slugfest From Phillies, 12 to 8

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 16 (A.P.).—In a see-saw game, Pittsburgh took its fourth straight from Philadelphia today, 12-8. The score was tied twice, the Pirates finally going ahead in the seventh when Comorosky, batting for Jensen, with Lloyd Waner on base, drove a homer to center off Bolen, who became unsteady and walked Grantham. Traynor's triple scored Grantham. The Phils used three pitchers and the Pirates a like number.

Pegler Gives Fight Fans Peak at Inside Dope on One-Two Punch Publicity

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Being a series of communications from the public relations counsel of a fight club.

To the Sport Editor: For Monday's papers. Please use and oblige.

"At last, fans, the fight of the year, for which all lovers of the fistic sport have been waiting with baited breath, has been signed by Matchmaker Joe Baum, the astute and canny matchmaker of the Athenia Athletic Club, for next Friday night in the fastest growing popular arena in the world. After weeks of quibbling with the rival managers of the two boys, Matchmaker Baum yesterday cut the Georgian knot of contention, figuratively speaking, and took the bull by the horns by giving both mentors their figure for the fistic sensation of the season that all fans have been demanding.

"Matchmaker Baum has signed up those two clashing, outstanding contenders for the junior welterweight championship of the United States, the South American fistic sensation, Rollo Rollova, and the fast-improving young American phenom and idol of Philadelphia fandom, Hynie (Muscle) Scholz. The two boys came to terms at a conference yesterday and instantly repaired to their camps in preparation for going into extensive training today.

"The distance will be ten rounds, although to those in the know with

West Drives Home Myer With Winning Run After 3 Pinch-Hitters Deliver

Jolley, at Bat for Grube, Hits Homer to Gain Lead.

Hadley Gets Credit Victory; 2d Game Rained Out.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WASHINGTON fans did not get their money's worth in one respect yesterday, for rain forced the calling off of the second game of the scheduled double-header, but the dyed in the wool cash customers who have the Nats' interests at heart did little complaining as they wended their way home after the first contest ended, for a three-run ninth-inning rally allowed the home team to come from behind and down the White Sox, 5 to 4. The victory enabled the Nats to hold their own in the race with the leading Mackmen.

Rain and pinch-hitters played a most prominent part in the festivities. Following a downpour which forced a short lull in the fourth came a real opening of the clouds which all but gave the Sox the verdict. This came after a homer by Pinch-hitter Smead Jolley with a man on base had put the visitors on the front end of a 3-to-2 count.

Threatening Skies Worry Fans.

It was raining at the time and the gallery was praying that the drops would increase in size and volume sufficiently enough to prevent the Nats from getting their raps and thus wipe up the entire inning. But the home half was completed and then the prayers were changed that rain would stop so that the Johnsons would have a chance to win out. And these hopes materialized—and in all particulars—although a wait of an hour and a quarter was necessary.

As Jolley came through in the pinch for the Sox, so did a trio of utility swatsmiths for the Nats in the ninth, with Harry Rice, Pinky Hargrave and Joe Judge jumping into the limelight. Ossie Bluege had led off with one and then along came Sam West, who seems to be specializing in breaking up games, with the fifth lusty clout in succession to single home the winning marker.

Complexion of Game Quickly Changes.

The Nats entered this last round, trailing, 4 to 2, and, as Alphonse (Tommy) Thomas had held them to but five scattered hits in the previous eight rounds, it looked as though the Chisox would make it two in a row. Appearances are deceitful, though, and before the inning ended, Thomas was on his way to the showers and Pat Caraway was hurriedly called on as his relief. Kuhel, first up, rolled out, but Bluege singled past short and then Johnson made his first good guess of the three credited him. He sent Harry Rice to bat for Hayes, and a single to right resulted. Then up stepped Hargrave and he lined a one-baser to center, scoring Bluege and advancing Harry a peg.

Time out was called here, while Buddy Myer relieved Hargrave on the bases, Caraway relieved Thomas on the hill and Judge took Hadley's place at the tee. The veteran first sacker, who has been inactive due to an appendicitis attack since May 1, did not look any too impressive on his first two strikes, but he then found one to his liking, lining a one-shot over short, and the score was tied, with Buddy Myer on third with the winning run.

West Has Punch In the Pinch.

This brought West to the tee. He previously had tripled and doubled, to show practically all of the punch in the home attack, and he came through again here. Normally his long looper to right-center would have been at least a double, but it had to be ruled a single because it took only a one-base advance to bring Myer home with the tally which ended the game.

Previously, Fred Marberry had pitched brilliantly for the Nationals, except in the seventh when Grube's double and Jolley's pinch-homer over the right-field wall gave the Sox two runs. They had made one in the fourth, but this was tainted and due

JONES FACES WHITE SOX TODAY

Single Game Booked; Frasier Likely to Oppose Nats.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ALTHOUGH yesterday's scheduled second game was called off because of rain, it will be played off when the White Sox come here on their next visit, rather than part of a double-header this afternoon. Both managers objected to staging a twin bill today because of lack of ready pitchers.

As it is "ladies' day" this afternoon, a goodly gathering is expected to be on hand to see the Nationals and Chisox in the series finale, which, by the way, carries with it the series decision, as each has won one of the two games played. "Sad Sam" Jones, who has been out for some time, has advised Manager Walter Johnson that he is ready, and probably will do the Washington flinging, while Jim Frasier, scheduled to have worked yesterday, is likely to be Donie Bush's nominee for box duty.

Bucky Harris and his Tigers open a four-game set here tomorrow.

President Clark Griffith yesterday received a lengthy telegram from Pitcher Ad Liska stating that he has been working at his home for three weeks and that his salary wing, which caused him to be sent to his Wisconsin home to give it the rest

TWENTY GRAND'S EARNINGS MAY PASS $250,000 TOMORROW

$74,650 Net Expected in Classic

Victory Would Clinch 8th Place on List of Winners.

Chance to Pass Gallant Fox Looms for Whitney Ace.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY.

CHICAGO, July 16 (U.P.).—Victory for Twenty Grand in the $70,000 added Arlington classic Saturday will place the Greentree Stable's ace in a position to surpass Gallant Fox's record as the greatest money winner of all time.

Twenty Grand's winnings now total $175,575. If eight go to the post in the Arlington classic, the race will gross $87,200 and will be worth $74,650 to the winner. The starting fee is $1,000 and for each horse that is scratched the winner's total will shrink $1,000. A victory would boost Twenty Grand's winnings to $250,225 and place him eighth among the high winners on the American turf.

Gallant Fox's record is $328,165, but Twenty Grand can surpass that figure if he cops the classic and retains his form for the Travers Stakes and Saratoga Cup races at Saratoga and the Lawrence Realization and Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont Park.

Belmont Was Biggest Purse.

Twenty Grand has engaged in five races as a 3-year-old, won four of them, finished second in the other and piled up $134,195 in winnings, the highest mark of the year for any horse. As a juvenile the gallant son of St. Germans—Bonus won $41,380. The biggest purse won thus far by Twenty Grand was $58,770 in the Belmont Stakes.

The records of Twenty Grand and Gallant Fox would be virtually the same up to this point, but for Mate's victory over Mrs. Payne Whitney's colt in the Preakness.

Twenty Grand won the Wood Memorial, Kentucky Derby, Belmont Stakes and Dwyer Stakes, as did Gallant Fox in his march to the title of the turf's greatest money winner. Gallant Fox, however, won the Preakness in which Twenty Grand was badly bumped and finished a length and a half behind Mate.

Gallant Fox Tops Winners.

The leading money winners on the American turf are Gallant Fox, $328,165; Zev, $303,040; Blue Larkspur, $271,970; Sun Beau, $265,819; Display, $256,256; Victorian, 253,200; Exterminator, $252,596, and Man o' War, $249,465.

Mate, Twenty Grand's chief rival in the classic, has a chance to get up among the $200,000 class by turning the tables on the Greentree ace. Mate's winnings total $155,675 and a victory in the classic would send them well beyond $200,000.

Indications are that Twenty Grand, coupled with his stablemate, St. Brideaux, will go to the post an odds-on favorite for Saturday's mile and a quarter race. The Greentree entry might even be as low as 1-2.

The probable field, weight, jockeys and odds follow:

The Balloon Ball As Golf Experts See It

This is the fifth of a series of seven articles in which the country's leading golf pros give their reactions to the new "lighter" ball, and the methods they are using in meeting its new problems.

By GEORGE SARGENT
(Former National Open Champion).

AFTER giving the new, lighter and larger golf ball a thorough test I find that certain changes must be made in one's game to obtain satisfactory results with the "balloon" ball.

The most important change, I find, is the need of exercising more carefulness not to cut across on the drive, employing more of the inside out method. This is done by starting the club with a broader sweep which prohibits crossing. Since using the new ball my swing covers from 15 to 20 per cent more territory.

To obtain the best result off the tees the new ball must be hit with a slight hook, the ball having a strong tendency to fade. At the same time I usually try to place a little more overspin on the ball. This is done with a slight roll of the wrists just as the club head meets the ball, in much the same manner a tennis player puts overspin on a tennis ball.

With iron shots I find very little change is needed in playing the new ball. Like the tee shots, long irons should be played with the slight hook. I find the new ball easier to control on pitch and run or chip shots.

On the green it must be hit a little more firmly and with a little more care than was needed with the heavier ball. My stance and grip have not been altered since the new ball has been placed into use.

At the present time I am experimenting with still another new ball, the same size as the one now in use and weighing the same as the old ball. However, I have not progressed sufficiently with the experiment to make a definite statement as to the result.

GEORGE SARGENT
"...with the new ball my swing covers 15 to 20 percent more territory."

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FRENCH DUCHESS, $6.40, $6.02, $3.76; ROSE TWIG, $19.32, $9.20; ALL ROWES, $2.68.

FRENCH DUCHESS, breaking well, lost little time in getting to the front and, continuing gamely when challenged by ROSE TWIG in the stretch, won when the latter hung slightly near the end. ROSE TWIG, a forward factor from the start, moved up when in close terms with the winner at midstretch, but faltered in the last twenty yards. ALL ROWES came gamely in the run home. KOSTER MAID was also going well at finish. MAD STEP met with some interference at the stretch turn and was not dangerous thereafter. TRIASSIC and WEESIE broke slowly.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:46. Off at 2:50½. Winner, Jones Stock Farm's b. g. (4), by Prince Pal—Celtic Lass. Trained by B. A. Jones. Value to winner, $1,100; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:46, 1:12 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CELTIC PRINCE, $14.38, $6.38, $5.34; ST. JIM, $16.76, $14.30; HAMILTON, $26.06.

CELTIC PRINCE, out of with the leaders, retained a prominent position to the stretch head, then came strongly to pass the early leaders in the final furlong and draw away near the end. ST. JIM, shuffled back slightly after leaving the back stretch, came again and was going fast at the finish. HAMILTON showed much early speed and held on fairly well. THE OKAH weakened slightly after forcing a fast pace. CHARLIE showed good early speed. SILVER LAKE was off in a tangle and was never dangerous. NUSAKAN broke slowly.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,600; allowances. Lake County Purse for 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:20. Off at 3:22½. Winner, J. F. Schorr's b. c. (2), by Prince of Wales—Melting Star. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $1,150; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:22 4-5, 0:46 1-5, 0:58 3-5, 1:05 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ETCETERA, $17.18, $6.96, $4.94; NEWGRO, $4.22, $3.60; TELLICO $4.88.

ETCETERA followed the pace of NEWGRO closely in the early stages, took command in the final stretch and was going away at the finish. NEWGRO displayed his usual keen early speed and held on fairly well, but could not resist the winner. TELLICO was in close quarters after the start and raced wide thereafter, but finished very fast. ESPINACA made up some ground and finished fairly well. SUN'S SON was sharply shut off around the far turn and knocked back to last place.

FOURTH RACE—One mile (Hertz course, out of chute). Purse, $1,800; allowances. Montana Purse. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:50. Off at 3:51½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NIGHT COMMANDER, $5.66, $3.36, $2.56; DARK SEA, $4.44, $3.08; NOSTAW, $3.26.

KNIGHT COMMANDER, in the first flight from the start, headed DARK SEA after entering the stretch and held sway to the finish to win under a drive. Latter, showing good early speed and running his usual game race, came again after being headed and finishing strongly to the inside, might have won in a few more strides. NOSTAW raced evenly and held the others. THE NUT was allowed to drop too far back in the early running and, although finishing fast on the inside, at no time threatened the leaders. IRONSIDES saved ground throughout and showed a good effort. ULUNIU appeared sore going to the post.

FIFTH RACE—One mile (Hertz course, out of chute). Purse, $1,600; allowances. Moline Purse. For 3-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:20½. Off at 4:21. Winner, Greentree Stable's ch. f. (3), by Wildair—Rival. Trained by J. Rowe, jr. Value to winner, $1,150; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:22 2-5, 0:46, 1:11 3-5, 1:38 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROBIN'S EGG, $4.74, $3.22, $2.52; WEIDELEEN, $3.42, $2.66; MICHIGAN GIRL, $3.28.

ROBIN'S EGG, in close quarters soon after the start, came steadily and gamely when clear to wear down WEIDELEEN in the last quarter and win by a wide margin. WEIDELEEN got to the front after going a quarter and, after interfering with her closest competitors, took a good lead, but was not good enough to last. MICHIGAN GIRL made up ground and was going well at the finish. MAID OF HONOR was sharply shut off and CLARET and ADINE met with interference when WEIDELEEN bore in during the back stretch run.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:51. Off at 4:54½. Winner, H. C. Hatch's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MONTANARO, $4.16, $3.04, $2.66; JIM ORMONT, $6.42, $5.04; FLYING CHEROKEE, $4.60.

MONTANARO, next under steadying restraint in the early running, moved forward to take command rounding the stretch turn and held JIM ORMONT in a hard stretch struggle. JIM ORMONT came around the outside on the final turn to loom up as a dangerous factor and raced gamely to the end, but could not beat winner. FLYING CHEROKEE displayed good early speed and was easily best of others. PAULA L. made up ground. DR. PARRISH tired badly after going seven furlongs.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:22. Off at 5:22½. Winner, W. C. Reichert's blk. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GORMOND, $12.12, $5.50, $2.96; LADRONE, $4.24, $2.80; CABILDO, $2.60.

GORMOND went to the front under slight restraint turning into the back stretch and, shaking off OTILLA approaching the stretch turn, opened up a good lead, but was under urging at the end to hold LADRONE. Latter came from far back in the final quarter and was gaining rapidly at end. CABILDO also made up much ground to be a close-up third. OTILLA weakened in the run home. HOMEWOOD, in close quarters on back stretch, retired when the real racing began. TIGER FLOWERS also weakened.

IMPORTANT GAMES LISTED SUNDAY IN CAPITAL CITY LEAGUE

Senior Clash Holds Chief Interest

Miller - Roamers and Jewelers Headline Senior Card.

Schwartz Has Chance to Clinch Title in Junior B.

WITH both unlimited champions and one senior winner decided in the Capital City League, interest in Sunday's schedule will center around the Miller-Roamers fracas with the Franc Jewelers, in Section B, scheduled for 3 p. m., on the South Ellipse diamond. Both teams have been traveling at a fast clip and Sunday's game should be crammed with action from start to finish.

The Roamers won the first meeting between the two after a great hurlers' duel by a score of 1 to 0, and the Franc team is hoping to balance the ledger Sunday. A win for the Roamers will assure them of at least a tie for the Senior B title.

Those desiring to get a last look at the Dixie Pigs before they clash with the Saks Clothiers for the District title may do so at Berwyn, where they hook up with St. Joseph's in the last game of the current league season. The Pigs thrashed the Saints by an 8-to-5 margin last week and expect to repeat Sunday. On the other hand, Frank Cinotti, pilot of the Plaza aggregation, is desirous of evening up the series in this second game.

Jewelers Spurred By Title Chance.

The Schwartz Jewelers can clinch the title in section B, junior class, by trouncing the Clifton Barbers Sunday, while in section A the Stewart Pharmacy crew can assure itself of no worse than a deadlock for the honors by taking the measure of the Lionels. Whether or not the Jewelers can get by the Barbers is a question that has the fans divided. Frankie Fera will be the only player missing in the Clifton line-up which handed the Schwartz aggregation a 5-2 lacing in their first meeting, and it is the contention of many league observers that this one player's absence will not affect the splendid teamwork which the Barbers have exhibited this season.

One of the spiciest American Legion series games to be played since the introduction of the series in this city will reach a turning point Sunday when Spengler, winners of the first half and present leaders in the second half, clashes with Sergt. Jasper on the West Ellipse at 1 p. m. Spengler was thought to be unbeatable until Victory Post exploded this theory by winning a 3-2 decision over the former last week. Victory's win turned the race from a walkaway for Spengler to a free-for-all, and Sergt. Jasper hopes to keep the ball rolling by plastering a second straight win on the first half champs.

Midgets Prepared For Hot Battles.

Action will abound in the midget section as well as in the older sections. The National Pale Drys have an argument with the Wonder Breads to settle, while the Shade Shop and Spengler will take issue in the second league battle. Georgetown and the Samosets will wind up what should be an attractive Sunday menu for the boys chasing after the pennant in The Post's Capital City League.

Kaye Don, in Practice, Attains 103.15 M.P.H.

Gardone Rivera, Italy, July 16 (A. P.).—Kaye Don, British speedboat driver made an unofficial run of 103.15 miles per hour on Lake Garda today in testing out a new propeller for his Miss England II, the boat in which he set the world's record of 110.223 miles an hour a few days ago.

Don planned to leave tonight for Rome, where he probably will be received by Premier Mussolini. He may make an attempt on his own record next week.

Fall Meeting Canceled At Churchill Downs

Louisville, July 16 (A.P.).—There will be no fall race meeting at Churchill Downs this year. The directors today decided to cancel plans for the meeting because of economic conditions.

The Latonia Jockey Club was requested to take over the Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes, an annual feature of the autumn meetings at Churchill Downs.

Col. M. J. Winn, president of the American Turf Association and executive director of the Latonia Jockey Club, approved the action of the Churchill Downs directors as the only practical course to follow under all the circumstances.

The Kentucky Derby, Col. Winn said, will be run as usual at the spring meeting of Churchill Downs.

W. and L. Shifts Site Of V. P. I. Grid Fray

Blacksburg, Va., July 16.—The athletic boards of Washington and Lee University and Virginia Polytechnic Institute announced that the Washington and Lee-V. P. I. football game, scheduled for November 7, 1931, will be played in Roanoke.

After a number of battles in Lynchburg, followed recently by several games on home and home basis at Blacksburg and Lexington, the annual contest between the rival institutions returns to the Magic City where Gobblers and Generals fought gridiron battles in the early days of the sport in the South. The approaching tilt will be the twenty-ninth football game between the two schools which first met on the gridiron in 1895.

regards to the intense rivalry between these two young, ambitious rivals for the honor of the highest bauble in Fistiana's realm for the junior welterweight class, it is no secret that there is likely to be an early victory via the K. O. route.

"The prices will be the same as usual, at no increase over the regular rates, in justice to the great body of sport-loving fistic supporters."

To the Sport Editor: For Tuesday's papers: please use and oblige.

"The matchmaking triumph of the year, Matchmaker Baum's pugilistic sensational feat of matching Rollo Rollova and Muscle Scholz for the junior welterweight logical contendership of the United States has proved a sensation in pugilistic circles everywhere. The offices of the Athenia Club, where this fistic plum of the season is to occur next Friday night at popular prices, are already being deluged with orders for reservations. Orders also were pouring in from a dozen other cities pleading for the coveted pasteboards for the choice ringside seats, regardless of cost.

"Matchmaker Baum, the popular entrepreneur of the Athenia A. C., in an interview last night said, however, that he was making every effort to save the best seats for the faithful local fans who have made this match possible by their loyal support and raised the Athenia to the position of the fastest growing boxing center in this section of the country.

"'But I wish the fans would cooperate with me by sending in their orders early,' he said, 'because, otherwise, if they come at the last minute I can not hold out much longer against the deluge of demands from other cities where this sensational match of the year is proving a fistic sensation.'"

Match Tabbed "Battle Of the Aeon."

To the Sport Editor: For Wednesday's papers: Please use and oblige.

"It is not often that a fistic matchmaker can achieve their masterpiece and then proceed to greatly improve on that high standard in one week, but that is what Matchmaker Joe Baum, the hustling and popular fistic entrepreneuer of the Athenia A. C. has done with regard to the contest which the fans already are hailing as the Battle of the Aeon next Friday night at the Athenia A. C.

"Owing to Rollo Rollova hurting his arm in training for next Friday night's fight with Hymie (Muscle) Scholz, the Philadelphia assassin, Matchmaker Baum immediately opened negotiations with Furious Phil Foley, the Fighting Physician, to take his place in the epoch struggle which is to decide the logical contendership for the junior welterweight championship of the United States.

"Matchmaker Baum was elated at this change in the plans, as Phil Foley, the young medical student who is quietly studying to be a doctor at home, is the most feared contender in the division and a man who the title holder of the title has repeatedly refused to meet for the championship.

"Jack Dempsey has been invited to attend as a guest of the management, and other celebrities invited are Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, jr., the prominent Philadelphia millionaire and sport lover; Hope Hampton, the film beauty; former middleweight (sic) champion, Paul Berlenbach; former Mayor Thompson of Chicago and Abe Attell.

"The rush for tickets, already a popular deluge, became a sensational flood as soon as the change was announced."

Chestnut About Good, Little Man Is Used.

To the Sport Editor: For Thursday's papers: Please use and oblige.

"Can Furious Phil Foley, the Fighting Physician, overcome the age-old jinx of Fistiana?

"Can a good little man lick a good big man?

"These are questions on every lip of the members of pugilistic fandom as the slashing little medical student Phil Foley, goes through his training paces at his camp on the shores of beautiful Turtle Lake, N. J., for his fight Friday night with Muscle Sholz in Matchmaker Baum's prize fistic triumph of the year for the American junior welterweight logical contendership.

"Foley is only 5 feet 6 inches tall, while Muscle Scholz is almost an inch taller as well as having an inch advantage in the reach. A comparison of the other measurements of the two boys shows Muscle Scholz varies from one-quarter of an inch bigger in all respects, including chest expansion.

"This match, therefore, is reviving memories of Joe Wolcott, Jack Dillon and other diminutive giant killers of the ring, and the plucky little medico is of the opinion that the bigger they are the harder they fall."

To the Sport Editor: For Friday's papers: Please use and oblige.

"Tonight's the night at the Athenia A. C., when Muscle Scholz and Furious Phil Foley face the gong in an epoch struggle of the ring which will mean success to one and the bitterness of defeat to the other. Both boys have trained faithfully."

From Saturday morning's papers:

"Hymie (Muscle) Scholz and Furious Phil Foley boxed ten slow rounds to a draw before a small house at the Athenia A. C. last night."

The National Pale Drys won an easy 21-to-1 victory over the Normal Institute Team at Ammendale, Md., yesterday, in an abbreviated five-inning game. The losers could get but two hits off the combined efforts of Bogge, Geranries and Whitt. Mongello, with two hits in three attempts, led the Pale Drys' assault.

LAUREL CARD IS NEARLY FILLED

One Bout Yet to Be Listed; Pete Latzo in Feature.

WITH but one exception, a five-round event, the Midcity Arena's scheduled 34-round boxing show at Laurel next Wednesday night is complete. In this remaining spot General Manager Angy Gerrin hopes to schedule a crack opponent for "Knockout" Riley, rugged Washington middleweight.

While Riley has not been definitely signed, it is thought that he will be brought into line within the next few hours. Riley is aggressive, boasts a mighty wallop and can take it—three qualities most essential in a fighter's make-up.

The four-round opening bout arranged yesterday promises plenty of action. In this meeting Jeff Thomas, colored District heavyweight, bucks Jim Godfrey, dusky Chicago slugger. In recent workouts locally, Thomas has impressed with his general form, and may be expected to provide a slam-bang performance from bell to bell.

Fullam's Signing Arouses Interest.

Considerable interest was manifested locally yesterday following the announcement that Frankie Fullam, former Catholic University student and today national A. A. U. middleweight champion, is to fight on the card. Against Sam Pinazzo, rough and ready Baltimorean and brother of Joe Pinazzo, Fullam will need all of his cleverness and speed.

Frank will be making his bow as a professional and likely will be represented by many admirers when the gong sounds.

Word from Baltimore indicates that Herman Weiner, who meets Paul Berlenbach in the five-round semi-final, has buckled down to hard work while Pete Latzo, former welterweight champion of the world, is going through his paces at Atlantic City in preparation for his ten-round main event with Sam Weiss, Philadelphia light-heavyweight.

Browns Sign Bengough; To Report Saturday

St. Louis, July 16 (A.P.).—Bernard Bengough, veteran catcher, has been purchased from the Milwaukee Brewers, in the American Association, a farm of the St. Louis Browns, and will report to the St. Louis American League team in New York Saturday, it was announced at the Browns headquarters here today. Jack Crouch, a third string catcher, has been released to Milwaukee on option.

The deal was arranged because of an injury to the right hand of Rick Ferrell, Browns' catcher, in Tuesday's game at Boston. An X ray has shown a fractured metacarpal in Ferrell's hand and he might be out for several weeks.

Browns Rally in Fifth To Defeat Red Sox, 2-1

Boston, July 16 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns defeated the Red Sox, 2 to 1, today, although they made only five hits off Lisenbee and Moore. Four of the hits were used in run-making. What proved to be the winning run came on doubles by Schulte and Melillo in the fifth.

Gray kept the Red Sox hits scattered except in the fourth, when three of them and an error by Levey were bunched for a run. Hal Rhyne played a brilliant game at shortstop for the Sox.

TRIBE STOPS YANKEES, 9 to 8

11 Passes Help Cleveland Win; Gehrig, Ruth Hit Homers.

NEW YORK, July 16 (A.P.).—The wildness of four Yankee pitchers, who issued eleven bases on balls, helped the Cleveland Indians nose out the McCarthy men, 9 to 8, today and square the series.

Led by Lou Gehrig, who hit his twenty-sixth home run, a triple and a single, the Yankees made thirteen hits.

Ruth hit his twenty-second homer with one on in the eighth. Dick Porter made four hits and drew two bases on balls in six times up for the Indians.

JONES FACES CHISOX TODAY IN FINAL

cure, is feeling strong and there are no signs of soreness. While the Nationals' owner was glad to receive this information, he did not consider that it was worth the $1.08 charged him for the collect message.

Manager Johnson fooled every one with his pitching assignments yesterday after having announced that he would call on Bobby Burke and Irving Hadley. Just before he left the stadium after Wednesday's rain, "Sad Sam" Jones stated that he was ready following a long lay-off and Fred Marberry also volunteered. The Nat leader decided then and there to use both yesterday, but kept his changed plans a deep, dark secret.

Sammy West made a fine start as Washington lead-off man by hitting Thomas' first offering for a triple to left-center. It was his 100th hit of the season.

Left Field Excavated As Fothergill Runs

"Fat" Fothergill came in fast to make a fine shoestring catch, followed by a somersault, of Bluege's looper opening the home third. When the big fellow completed his act, Groundkeeper Emile Haismann wept copiously at the manner in which the turf was turned up in the left field sector.

Cronin's error in the fourth was a costly one, as he had a double play in sight which would have ended the inning. The miscue let the Sox fill the bases and later tie the score at 1-all.

Appling went all the way from first to third on Grube's sacrifice in the fifth, the bunt drawing Bluege off the sack and leaving it uncovered.

West did some tall hustling to get back toward the flagpole in time to snare Kerr's long looper opening the seventh.

In the Nats' seventh, Sullivan made a great catch of Hayes' foul pop. The third sacker misjudged the ball and overran it, but made a fancy dive to grab the sphere just as it was about to hit the ground.

Hadley issued the first pass of the game, Appling drawing it and filling the bases in the eighth.

Judge Tickles Self With Pinch-Hit.

Probably the happiest Washington player yesterday was one Joseph Ignatius Judge, whose single off Pat Caraway in the ninth tied up the game and put Myer, with what proved to be the winning run, on third. It was the second time Judge had faced a pitcher in competition since his appendicitis operation in Boston on May 1.

Up for Pitcher Irving Hadley, Judge did not give the fans much confidence when Caraway quickly had two strikes on him, but the southpaw then threw one right down Judge's alley and a liner over short resulted. Joe took second on the throw-in and then took time out to give himself a few pats on the back.

West's game-deciding clout was a real hit and he would have gotten at least a double on it had it not been inserted when it was. The rules provide that, on the hit which breaks up games in the ninth, unless the ball is knocked out of the park for a homer, the hitter is credited only with the number of bases the runner needs to bring home the winning marker. As Myer was on third, the blow goes only as a single.

NATS RALLY IN 9TH TO BEAT CHICAGO

to an error by Joe Cronin with a possible double play in sight.

Washington had broken the ice with a run in the first on West's opening three-bagger and Manush's helpful out, and another in the fifth on Spencer's single and Sullivan's error on it, and West's double.

As already mentioned, Washington's hopes of winning were as dark as the clouds overhead when the Sox took the lead just before the first cessation of activities, and they did not get any brighter when, after play was resumed, the visitors scored another run in their eighth. Two errors by Kuhel had Irving Hadley in real trouble here, but these miscues and that of Cronin earlier in the day were forgotten when the natives staged their "Indian giver" act in the ninth, taking back the game after apparently having given it to the Bushmen.

Hadley had relieved Marberry after Sam Rice had batted for the home starter in the seventh.

Eastern Shore Fishing Attractive to Anglers

The increasing popularity of Capt. Noah Hazzard's fishing expeditions off the Eastern Shore have necessitated the addition of another boat to accommodate the crowds that are making the trips. Last Sunday's party was one of the largest the captain has conducted this season.

Another party will leave Seaside Park, formerly Chesapeake Beach, Sunday at 10:30 a. m., returning about 7 p. m. A nominal fee per person is charged. Hardheads are running and Capt. Hazzard is hopeful of repeating the large catch made last week.

DeAngelo and Landers Injured; Bout Is Off

Frankie DeAngelo and Billy Landers, featherweights, scheduled to appear in one of the features of next Monday night's fight card at Fort Washington, will be unable to square off at each other because of injuries suffered yesterday in training for the event. Both injured their hands.

Officials of the Fort Athletic Association last night commenced overtures to several other prominent fighters to take the place of the DeAngelo-Landers bout.

Pepper Young and Sailor McKenna, lightweights, will meet in another eight-round clash.

Cards Beat Robins, 5-0, As Hallahan Fans 8

St. Louis, Mo., July 16 (A.P.).—Wild Bill Hallahan held everything, including control, and the Cardinals blanked the Brooklyn Robins, 5 to 0, to take the lead in the series, two games to one.

Hallahan yielded seven hits, but issued only one pass and was invincible with men on the bases. The Cardinal southpaw struck out eight batters, including three in succession in the ninth inning.

Watkins and Hafey hit home runs for the league leaders, the defeat being charged to Ray Phelps, who retired for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

TWENTY GRAND'S EARNINGS MAY PASS $250,000 TOMORROW

$74,650 Net Expected in Classic

Victory Would Clinch 8th Place on List of Winners.

Chance to Pass Gallant Fox Looms for Whitney Ace.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY.

CHICAGO, July 16 (U.P.).—Victory for Twenty Grand in the $70,000 added Arlington classic Saturday will place the Greentree Stable's ace in a position to surpass Gallant Fox's record as the greatest money winner of all time.

Twenty Grand's winnings now total $175,575. If eight go to the post in the Arlington classic, the race will gross $87,200 and will be worth $74,650 to the winner. The starting fee is $1,000 and for each horse that is scratched the winner's total will shrink $1,000. A victory would boost Twenty Grand's winnings to $250,225 and place him eighth among the high winners on the American turf.

Gallant Fox's record is $328,165, but Twenty Grand can surpass that figure if he cops the classic and retains his form for the Travers Stakes and Saratoga Cup races at Saratoga and the Lawrence Realization and Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont Park.

Belmont Was Biggest Purse.

Twenty Grand has engaged in five races as a 3-year-old, won four of them, finished second in the other and piled up $134,195 in winnings, the highest mark of the year for any horse. As a juvenile the gallant son of St. Germans—Bonus won $41,380. The biggest purse won thus far by Twenty Grand was $58,770 in the Belmont Stakes.

The records of Twenty Grand and Gallant Fox would be virtually the same up to this point, but for Mate's victory over Mrs. Payne Whitney's colt in the Preakness.

Twenty Grand won the Wood Memorial, Kentucky Derby, Belmont Stakes and Dwyer Stakes, as did Gallant Fox in his march to the title of the turf's greatest money winner. Gallant Fox, however, won the Preakness in which Twenty Grand was badly bumped and finished a length and a half behind Mate.

Gallant Fox Tops Winners.

The leading money winners on the American turf are Gallant Fox, $328,165; Zev, $303,040; Blue Larkspur, $271,970; Sun Beau, $265,819; Display, $256,256; Victorian, 253,200; Exterminator, $252,596, and Man o' War, $249,465.

Mate, Twenty Grand's chief rival in the classic, has a chance to get up among the $200,000 class by turning the tables on the Greentree ace. Mate's winnings total $155,675 and a victory in the classic would send them well beyond $200,000.

Indications are that Twenty Grand, coupled with his stablemate, St. Brideaux, will go to the post an odds-on favorite for Saturday's mile and a quarter race. The Greentree entry might even be as low as 1-2.

The probable field, weight, jockeys and odds follow:

*Twenty Grand	C. Kurtsinger	1-2
*St. Brideaux	L. McAtee	1-2
Mate	A. Robertson	3-1

The "Balloon" Ball As Golf Experts See It

This is the fifth of a series of seven articles in which the country's leading golf pros give their reactions to the new "lighter" ball, and the methods they are using in meeting its new problems.

By GEORGE SARGENT
(Former National Open Champion).

AFTER giving the new, lighter and larger golf ball a thorough test I find that certain changes must be made in one's game to obtain satisfactory results with the "balloon" ball.

The most important change, I find, is the need of exercising more carefulness not to cut across on the drive, employing more of the inside out method. This is done by starting the club with a broader sweep which prohibits crossing. Since using the new ball my swing covers from 15 to 20 per cent more territory.

To obtain the best result off the tees the new ball must be hit with a slight hook, the ball having a strong tendency to fade. At the same time I usually try to place a little more overspin on the ball. This is done with a slight roll of the wrists just as the club head meets the ball, in much the same manner a tennis player puts overspin on a tennis ball.

With iron shots I find very little change is needed in playing the new ball. Like the tee shots, long irons should be played with the slight hook. I find the new ball easier to control on pitch and run or chip shots.

On the green it must be hit a little more firmly and with a little more care than was needed with the heavier ball. My stance and grip have not been altered since the new ball has been placed into use.

At the present time I am experimenting with still another new ball, the same size as the one now in use and weighing the same as the old ball. However, I have not progressed sufficiently with the experiment to make a definite statement as to the result.

GEORGE SARGENT
"...with the new ball my swing covers 15 to 20 percent more territory."

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CELTIC PRINCE, $14.38, $6.38, $5.34; ST. JIM, $16.76, $14.30; HAMILTON, $26.06.

CELTIC PRINCE, off with the leaders, retained a prominent position to the stretch head, then came strongly to pass the early leaders in the final furlong and draw away near the end. ST. JIM, shuffled back slightly after leaving the back stretch, came again and was going fast at the finish. HAMILTON showed much early speed and held on fairly well. THE OKAH weakened slightly after forcing a fast pace. CHARLIE showed good early speed. SILVER LAKE was off in a tangle and was never dangerous. NUSAKAN broke slowly.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,600; allowances. Lake County Purse For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:20. Off at 3:22½. Winner, J. F. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ETCETERA, $17.16, $6.96, $4.94; NEWGRO, $4.22, $3.60; TELLICO, $4.88.

ETCETERA followed the pace of NEWGRO closely in the early stages, took command in the stretch and was going away at the finish. NEWGRO displayed his usual keen early speed and held on fairly well, but could not resist the winner. TELLICO was in close quarters after the start and raced wide thereafter, but finished very fast. ESPINACA made up some ground and finished fairly well. SUN'S SON was sharply shut off around the far turn and knocked back to last place.

FOURTH RACE—One mile (Hertz course, out of chute). Purse, $1,800; allowances. Montana Purse. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:50. Off at 3:51½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NIGHT COMMANDER, $5.66, $3.36, $2.56; DARK SEA, $4.44, $3.08; NOSTAW, $3.26.

KNIGHT COMMANDER, in the first flight from the start, headed DARK SEA after entering the stretch and held away to the finish to win under a drive. Latter, showing good early speed and running his usual game race, came again after being headed and finishing courageously on the inside, might have won in a few more strides. NOSTAW raced evenly and held the others. THE NUT was allowed to drop too far back in the early running and, although finishing fast on the inside, at no time threatened the leaders. IRONSIDES saved ground throughout and showed a good effort. ULUNIU appeared sore going to the post.

FIFTH RACE—One mile (Hertz course, out of chute). Purse, $1,600; allowances. Moline Purse. For 3-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:20½. Off at 4:21. Winner, Greentree Stable's ch. f. (3), by Wildair—Oval. Trained by J. Rowe, jr. Value to winner, $1,150; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:22 3-5, 0:46, 1:11 3-5, 1:38 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROBIN'S EGG, $4.74, $3.22, $2.52; WEIDELEEN, $3.42, $2.66; MICHIGAN GIRL, $3.28.

ROBIN'S EGG, in close quarters soon after the start, came steadily and gamely when clear to wear down WEIDELEEN in the last quarter and win by a wide margin. WEIDELEEN got to the front after going a quarter and, after interfering with her closest competitors, took a good lead, but was not good enough to last. MICHIGAN GIRL made up ground and was going well at the finish. MAID OF HONOR was sharply shut off and CLARET and ADINE met with interference when WEIDELEEN bore in during the back stretch run.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:51. Off at 4:54½. Winner, H. C. Hatch's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MONTANARO, $4.16, $3.04, $2.66; JIM ORMONT, $6.42, $5.04; FLYING CHEROKEE, $4.00.

MONTANARO, held under steadying restraint in the early running, moved forward to take command rounding the stretch turn and held JIM ORMONT in a hard stretch struggle. JIM ORMONT came around the outside on the final turn to loom up as a dangerous factor and raced gamely to the end, but could not beat winner. FLYING CHEROKEE displayed good early speed and was easily best of others. PAULA L made up ground. DR. PARRISH tired badly after going seven furlongs.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:22. Off at 5:22½. Winner, W. C. Reichert's blk. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GORMOND, $12.12, $5.50, $2.96; LADRONE, $4.24, $2.80; CABILDO, $2.60.

GORMOND went to the front under slight restraint turning into the back stretch and, shaking off OTILLA approaching the stretch turn, opened up a good lead, but was under urging at the end to hold LADRONE. Latter came from far back in the final quarter and was gaining rapidly at end. CABILDO also made up much ground to be a close-up third. OTILLA weakened in the run home. HOMEWOOD, in close quarters on back stretch, retired when the real racing began. TIGER FLOWERS also weakened.

IMPORTANT GAMES LISTED SUNDAY IN CAPITAL CITY LEAGUE

Senior Clash Holds Chief Interest

Schwartz Has Chance to Clinch Title in Junior B.

WITH both unlimited champions and one senior winner decided in the Capital City League, interest in Sunday's schedule will center around the Miller-Roamers fracas with the Franc Jewelers, in Section B, scheduled for 3 p. m., on the South Ellipse diamond. Both teams have been traveling at a fast clip and Sunday's game should be crammed with action from start to finish.

The Roamers won the first meeting between the two after a great hurlers' duel by a score of 1 to 0, and the Franc team is hoping to balance the ledger Sunday. A win for the Roamers will assure them of at least a tie for the Senior B title.

Those desiring to get a last look at the Dixie Pigs before they clash with the Saks Clothiers for the District title may do so at Berwyn, where they hook up with St. Joseph's in the last game of the current league season. The Pigs thrashed the Saints by an 8-to-5 margin last week and expect to repeat Sunday. On the other hand, Frank Cinotti, pilot of the Plaza aggregation, is desirous of evening up the series in this second game.

Jewelers Spurred By Title Chance.

The Schwartz Jewelers can clinch the title in section B, junior class, by trouncing the Clifton Barbers Sunday, while in section A the Stewart Pharmacy crew can assure itself of no worse than a deadlock for the honors by taking the measure of the Lionels. Whether or not the Jewelers can get by the Barbers is a question that has the fans divided. Frankie Fera will be the only player missing in the Clifton line-up which handed the Schwartz aggregation a 5-2 lacing in their first meeting, and it is the contention of many league observers that this one player's absence will not affect the splendid teamwork which the Barbers have exhibited this season.

One of the spiciest American Legion series games to be played since the introduction of the series in this city will reach a turning point Sunday when Spengler, winners of the first half and present leaders in the second half, clashes with Sergt. Jasper on the West Ellipse at 1 p. m. Spengler was thought to be unbeatable until Victory Post exploded this theory by winning a 3-2 decision over the former last week. Victory's win turned the race from a walkaway for Spengler to a free-for-all, and Sergt. Jasper hopes to keep the ball rolling by plastering a second straight win on the first half champs.

Midgets Prepared For Hot Battles.

Action will abound in the midget section as well as in the older sections. The National Pale Drys have an argument with the Wonder Breads to settle, while the Shade Shop and Spengler will take issue in the second league battle. Georgetown and the Samosets will wind up what should be an attractvie Sunday menu for the boys chasing after the pennant in The Post's Capital City League.

Kaye Don, in Practice, Attains 103.15 M.P.H.

Gardone Rivera, Italy, July 16 (A. P.).—Kaye Don, British speedboat driver made an unofficial run of 103.15 miles per hour on Lake Garda today in testing out a new propeller for his Miss England II, the boat in which he set the world's record of 110.223 miles an hour a few days ago.

Don planned to leave tonight for Rome, where he probably will be received by Premier Mussolini. He may make an attempt on his own record next week.

Fall Meeting Canceled At Churchill Downs

Louisville, July 16 (A.P.).—There will be no fall race meeting at Churchill Downs this year. The directors today decided to cancel plans for the meeting because of economic conditions.

The Latonia Jockey Club was requested to take over the Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes, an annual feature of the autumn meetings at Churchill Downs.

Col. M. J. Winn, president of the American Turf Association and executive director of the Latonia Jockey Club, approved the action of the Churchill Downs directors as the only practical course to follow under all the circumstances.

The Kentucky Derby, Col. Winn said, will be run as usual at the spring meeting of Churchill Downs.

W. and L. Shifts Site Of V. P. I. Grid Fray

Blacksburg, Va., July 16.—The athletic boards of Washington and Lee University and Virginia Polytechnic Institute announced that the Washington and Lee-V. P. I. football game, scheduled for November 7, 1931, will be played in Roanoke.

After a number of battles in Lynchburg, followed recently by several games on home and home basis at Blacksburg and Lexington, the annual contest between the rival institutions returns to the Magic City where Gobblers and Generals fought gridiron battles in the early days of the sport in the South. The approaching tilt will be the twenty-ninth football game between the two schools which first met on the gridiron in 1895.

TEXAS GIRL SHATTERS WOMEN'S TRACK RECORDS

Mildred "Babe" Didrikson, third from left, of Dallas, Tex., broke two records in the Southern A. A. U. championships at New Orleans. She is shown taking the 80-meter hurdles in 12.5 seconds, a fraction better than the American women's record of 12.6. She ran the 220-yard dash in 26.9 seconds, to set a new record.

regards to the intense rivalry between these two young, ambitious rivals for the honor of the highest bauble in Fistiana's realm for the junior welterweight class, it is no secret that there is likely to be an early victory via the K. O. route.

"The prices will be the same as usual, at no increase over the regular rates, in justice to the great body of sport-loving fistic supporters."

To the Sport Editor: For Tuesday's papers: please use and oblige.

"The matchmaking triumph of the year, Matchmaker Baum's pugilistic sensational feat of matching Rollo Rollova and Muscle Scholz for the junior welterweight logical contendership of the United States has proved a sensation in pugilistic circles everywhere. The offices of the Athenia Club, where this fistic plum of the season is to occur next Friday night at popular prices, are already being deluged with orders for reservations. Orders also were pouring in from a dozen other cities pleading for the coveted pasteboards for the choice ringside seats, regardless of cost.

"Matchmaker Baum, the popular entrepreneur of the Athenia A. C., in an interview last night said, however, that he was making every effort to save the best seats for the faithful local fans who have made this match possible by their loyal support and raised the Athenia to the position of the fastest growing boxing center in this section of the country.

"'But I wish the fans would cooperate with me by sending in their orders early,' he said, 'because, otherwise, if they come at the last minute I can not hold out much longer against the deluge of demands from other cities; where this sensational match of the year is proving a fistic sensation.'"

Match Tabbed "Battle Of the Aeon."

To the Sport Editor: For Wednesday's papers: Please use and oblige.

"It is not often that a fistic matchmaker can achieve their masterpiece and then proceed to greatly improve on that high standard in one week, but that is what Matchmaker Joe Baum, the hustling and popular fistic entrepreneuer of the Athenia A. C. has done with regard to the contest which the fans already are hailing as the Battle of the Aeon next Friday night at the Athenia A. C.

"Owing to Rollo Rollova hurting his arm in training for next Friday night's fight with Hymie (Muscle) Scholz, the Philadelphia assassin, Matchmaker Baum immediately opened negotiations with Furious Phil Foley, the Fighting Physician, to take his place in the epoch struggle which is to decide the logical contendership for the junior welterweight championship of the United States.

"Matchmaker Baum was elated at this change in the plans, as Phil Foley, the young medical student who is quietly studying to be a doctor at home, is the most feared contender in the division and a man who the title holder of the title has repeatedly refused to meet for the championship.

"Jack Dempsey has been invited to attend as a guest of the management, and other celebrities invited are Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, jr., the prominent Philadelphia millionaire and sport lover; Hope Hampton, the film beauty; former middleweight (sic) champion, Paul Berlenbach; former Mayor Thompson of Chicago and Abe Attell.

"The rush for tickets, already a popular deluge, became a sensational flood as soon as the change was announced."

Chestnut About Good, Little Man Is Used.

To the Sport Editor: For Thursday's papers: Please use and oblige.

"Can Furious Phil Foley, the Fighting Physician, overcome the age-old jinx of Fistiana?

"Can a good little man lick a good big man?

"These are questions on every lip of the members of pugilistic fandom as the slashing little medical student Phil Foley, goes through his training paces at his camp on the shores of beautiful Turtle Lake, N. J., for his fight Friday night with Muscle Sholz in Matchmaker Baum's prize fistic triumph of the year for the American junior welterweight logical contendership.

"Foley is only 5 feet 6 inches tall, while Muscle Scholz is almost an inch taller as well as having an inch advantage in the reach. A comparison of the other measurements of the two boys shows Muscle Scholz varies from one-quarter of an inch bigger in all respects, including chest expansion.

"This match, therefore, is reviving memories of Joe Wolcott, Jack Dillon and other diminutive giant killers of the ring, and the plucky little medico is of the opinion that the bigger they are the harder they fall."

To the Sport Editor: For Friday's papers: Please use and oblige.

"Tonight's the night at the Athenia A. C., when Muscle Scholz and Furious Phil Foley face the gong in an epoch struggle of the ring which will mean success to one and the bitterness of defeat to the other. Both boys have trained faithfully."

From Saturday morning's papers:

"Hymie (Muscle) Scholz and Furious Phil Foley boxed ten slow rounds to a draw before a small house at the Athenia A. C. last night."

TRIBE STOPS YANKEES, 9 to 8

11 Passes Help Cleveland Win; Gehrig, Ruth Hit Homers.

NEW YORK, July 16 (A.P.).—The wildness of four Yankee pitchers, who issued eleven bases on balls, helped the Cleveland Indians nose out the McCarthy men, 9 to 8, today and square the series.

Led by Lou Gehrig, who hit his twenty-sixth home run, a triple and a single, the Yankees made thirteen hits.

Ruth hit his twenty-second homer with one o- in the eighth. Dick Porter made four hits and drew two bases on balls in six times up for the Indians.

JONES FACES CHISOX TODAY IN FINAL

cure, is feeling strong and there are no signs of soreness. While the Nationals' owner was glad to receive this information, he did not consider that it was worth the $1.08 charged him for the collect message.

Manager Johnson fooled every one with his pitching assignments yesterday after having announced that he would call on Bobby Burke and Irving Hadley. Just before he left the stadium after Wednesday's rain, "Sad Sam" Jones stated that he was ready following a long lay-off and Fred Marberry also volunteered. The Nat leader decided then and there to use both yesterday, but kept his changed plans a deep, dark secret.

Sammy West made a fine start as Washington lead-off man by hitting Thomas' first offering for a triple to left-center. It was his 100th hit of the season.

Left Field Excavated As Fothergill Runs

"Fat" Fothergill came in fast to make a fine shoestring catch, followed by a somersault, of Bluege's looper opening the home third. When the big fellow completed his act, Groundkeeper Emile Haismann wept copiously at the manner in which the turf was turned up in the left field sector.

Cronin's error in the fourth was a costly one, as he had a double play in sight which would have ended the inning. The miscue let the Sox fill the bases and later tie the score at 1-all.

Appling went all the way from first to third on Grube's sacrifice in the fifth, the bunt drawing Bluege off the sack and leaving it uncovered.

West did some tall hustling to get back toward the flagpole in time to snare Kerr's long looper opening the seventh.

In the Nats' seventh, Sullivan made a great catch of Hayes' foul pop. The third sacker misjudged the ball and overran it, but made a fancy dive to grab the sphere just as it was about to hit the ground.

Hadley issued the first pass of the game, Appling drawing it and filling the bases in the eighth.

Judge Tickles Self With Pinch-Hit.

Probably the happiest Washington player yesterday was one Joseph Ignatius Judge, whose single off Pat Caraway in the ninth tied up the game and put Myer, with what proved to be the winning run, on third. It was the second time Judge had faced a pitcher in competition since his appendicitis operation in Boston on May 1.

Up for Pitcher Irving Hadley, Judge did not give the fans much confidence when Caraway quickly had two strikes on him, but the southpaw then threw one right down Judge's alley and a liner over short resulted. Joe took second on the throw-in and then took time out to give himself a few pats on the back.

West's game-deciding clout was a real hit and he would have gotten at least a double on it had it not been inserted when it was. The rules provide that, on the hit which breaks up games in the ninth, unless the ball is knocked out of the park for a homer, the hitter is credited only with the number of bases the runner needs to bring home the winning marker. As Myer was on third, the blow goes only as a single.

Browns Sign Bengough; To Report Saturday

St. Louis, July 16 (A.P.).—Bernard Bengough, veteran catcher, has been purchased from the Milwaukee Brewers, in the American Association, a farm of the St. Louis Browns, and will report to the St. Louis American League team in New York Saturday, it was announced at the Browns headquarters here today. Jack Crouch, a third string catcher, has been released to Milwaukee on option.

The deal was arranged because of an injury to the right hand of Rick Ferrell, Browns' catcher, in Tuesday's game at Boston. An X ray has shown a fractured metacarpal in Ferrell's hand and he might be out for several weeks.

Browns Rally in Fifth To Defeat Red Sox, 2-1

Boston, July 16 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns defeated the Red Sox, 2 to 1, today, although they made only five hits off Lisenbee and Moore. Four of the hits were used in run-making. What proved to be the winning run came on doubles by Schulte and Melillo in the fifth.

Gray kept the Red Sox hits scattered except in the fourth, when three of them and an error by Levey were bunched for a run. Hal Rhyne played a brilliant game at shortstop for the Sox.

NATS RALLY IN 9TH TO BEAT CHICAGO

to an error by Joe Cronin with a possible double play in sight.

Washington had broken the ice with a run in the first on West's opening three-bagger and Manush's helpful out, and another in the fifth on Spencer's single and Sullivan's error on it, and West's double.

As already mentioned, Washington's hopes of winning were as dark as the clouds overhead when the Sox took the lead just before the first cessation of activities, and they did not get any brighter when, after play was resumed, the visitors scored another run in their eighth. Two errors by Kuhel had Irving Hadley in real trouble here, but these miscues and that of Cronin earlier in the day were forgotten when the natives staged their "Indian giver" act in the ninth, taking back the game after apparently having given it to the Bushmen.

Hadley had relieved Marberry after Sam Rice had batted for the home starter in the seventh.

DeAngelo and Landers Injured; Bout Is Off

Frankie DeAngelo and Billy Landers, featherweights, scheduled to appear in one of the features of next Monday night's fight card at Fort Washington, will be unable to square off at each other because of injuries suffered yesterday in training for the event. Both injured their hands.

Officials of the Fort Athletic Association last night commenced overtures to several other prominent fighters to take the place of the DeAngelo-Landers bout.

Pepper Young and Sailor McKenna, lightweights, will meet in another eight-round clash.

Cards Beat Robins, 5-0, As Hallahan Fans 8

St. Louis, Mo., July 16 (A.P.).—Wild Bill Hallahan held everything, including control, and the Cardinals blanked the Brooklyn Robins, 5 to 0, to take the lead in the series, two games to one.

Hallahan yielded seven hits, but issued only one pass and was invincible with men on the bases. The Cardinal southpaw struck out eight batters, including three in succession in the ninth inning.

Watkins and Hafey hit home runs for the league leaders, the defeat being charged to Ray Phelps, who retired for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

STOCK PRICES RALLY AS MARKET CLOSES

Steel Leads Late Recovery on Brighter Outlook Abroad; Gains General.

New York, July 16 (A.P.).—Wall Street allowed itself a considerable degree of optimism in its appraisal of the German crisis today, and the financial markets rallied.

The fact that the partial reopening of the German banks had been calmly received, assurances that the Reich government would avoid a complete moratorium and hopes that something constructive would come out of the Paris and London conferences revived spirits here, and in the German, British and French capitals as well.

Sterling was strongly supported against the franc and the dollar, showing a rise of nearly half a cent here. Share prices, after seesawing cautiously for the greater part of the day, finally took a spurt which on the average more than cancelled yesterday's decline. Wheat, corn and cotton also advanced rather briskly.

Rumor of French Credit.

Shortly before the close the market heard reports, coming by way of Berlin, that French bankers were understood to be proposing a huge international credit to Germany, the plan involving an extension of present foreign credits to two years' duration.

It had rather been believed that such an arrangement would not be made until the measures taken by the Reich to solve her own difficulties had been fully tested. A return to more stabilized conditions would of course facilitate the flotation of a large loan which many bankers believe necessary for the eventual rectification of the whole trouble.

Agricultural bank issues, municipals, State obligations and industrials and utilities shared in the rise. The Chilean moratorium gave a heavy cast to Latin Americans. Domestics were firm.

Steel Leads Rally.

U. S. Steel took the lead for the late rally in stocks, closing 3 points higher. International Telephone, American Tobacco "B", Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, Case, American & Foreign Power also finished strong, up 2½ to 3.

Rails succeeded in overcoming, for the most part, their early heaviness which may have been induced by the gloomy picture being drawn at the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing. However, the statement that the proposed 15 per cent freight rate increase would tide them over until business picked up was reassuring.

Inquiry for copper was reported as a little stronger and both Anaconda and Kennecott rallied 2 points. Calumet & Arizona jumped rapidly when the Phelps Dodge merger terms were announced. Ingersoll Rand was buoyant on a few sales.

Such miscellaneous issues as American Can, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Bethlehem Steel and Sears Roebuck gained a point or two. Thanks to the late activity, sales amounted to just under 1,500,000 shares. The turnover of the earlier hours, marked by considerable irregularity, was small.

Foreign Currency Reactions.

With the exception of Sterling and the French franc, the latter weakened nearly a point after yesterday's advance. European currencies were still beset by uncertainties and quotations in many instances continued nominal.

The mark, however, was firm; some dealers quoted it higher, almost on a gold parity. Italian lira made a new low and the peseta had a sharp break, although it recovered partially.

Wheat climbed 1⅝ to 1⅞ net, reflecting strength at Liverpool and reports of deterioration in the Russian crop. Favorable crop news sent corn up 1⅞ to 3¾. Cotton profited by the improved tone in the security markets, gaining $1.30 to $1.50 a bale.

BONDS CLOSE HIGHER IN IRREGULAR SALES

Trading Reflects Confidence in Debt Outcome; Day's Turnover $10,019,000.

New York, July 16 (A.P.).—In common with other financial markets, bonds reflected returning confidence today. Closing prices were irregularly higher. Further evidence of reduced selling pressure appeared also in the total turnover of $10,019,000 at par values compared with $13,286,000 on yesterday.

The upward movement in foreign bonds was not uniform, partly because a number of the less active issues sold only in the morning when the trend was somewhat uncertain and also because some issues were affected by special considerations. Chilean obligations dropped sharply on the news of a moratorium.

However, the action of the great bulk of European obligations, which had been depressed by the German situation, left no doubt as to the interpretations placed upon the most recent events on that continent. German 5½s and 7s jumped ahead 5¾ and 4 points respectively on a heavy volume and closed within short range of the day's high levels. A number of German municipal, provincial and corporate loans made even greater gains although their volume was more moderate.

Obligations of the United States Government were quiet most of the time and closing prices showed small mixed changes.

Domestic corporate issues scored narrow irregular gains usually on moderate sales. As a group rail loans were the most active. Canadian Pacific debenture 4s, Rock Island refunding 4s of 1934, St. Paul adjustment 5s, Missouri Pacific, series O, 5s and Southern Pacific 4½s of 1969 were some of the more active rail issues to make good gains. New York Central 4½s of 2013 was one of the most active issues of the whole list and closed fractionally higher.

Public utility and industrial obligations were less active than the rails, but they made narrow irregular gains.

An offering of $2,500,000 of Cleveland P. & 4½ per cent bonds is being made at prices to yield from 2½ to 4 per cent, according to maturities.

4 TITLE COMPANIES MAKE WORKING PACT

New Firm Will Share Profits With Them; Thom Quits Gas Directorate.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Directors of the District, Lawyers and Washington Title Insurance Cos. yesterday approved a working agreement with a new corporation, name to be selected, to take over title work of the Title & Investment Co., of Maryland, located at 923 Fifteenth street northwest.

Directors of the former companies emphasized that the plan which they approved will in no sense result in a merger of the four companies, and that the new company will pay the District, Lawyers and Washington companies a certain percentage of its profits. Directors of the Title & Investment Co., of Maryland, are expected to approve the plan at a meeting today.

Under the plan, investment activities of the latter company will remain centered on the upper floor of its present location, but title activities of the new company will be housed in the building of the District, Lawyers and Washington Title Insurance Cos., at 1413 I street northwest.

Business in Titles.

It was announced further that titles on property located in Maryland will be issued in the name of the new company. The same officers will continue to manage its work.

Francis E. Smith, jr., was elected vice president and title officer of the Washington, District and Lawyers companies, to succeed William M. Hallam, who has resigned to handle title work for the United States Department of Justice. Mr. Smith was also elected a director of the District Title Insurance Co. to succeed Charles E. Allen who died recently. Directors of the District, Lawyers and Washington companies declared the semiannual dividend of 4 per cent payable Monday.

J. Ray Woolard has been unanimously elected by directors of the Washington Association of Credit Men and trustees of its adjustment bureau as secretary and executive manager of the organization, according to a statement made yesterday by Charles W. Clayton, president of the association. Mr. Woolard has been actively connected with the association for nearly four years and has been acting secretary-manager since John A. Reilly resigned in February to accept a vice presidency of the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co.

Among Youngest Officials.

The new credit official is 25 years of age and is one of the youngest secretary-managers in the United States. He is an alumnus of the University of Virginia and a graduate of National University Law School, having received the degree of bachelor of laws in 1929.

In accepting his new post, Mr. Woolard indicated that his efforts will be devoted toward eliminating commercial fraud and the tremendous bad debt loss which the city has suffered in recent years. He advocated great care in the extension of credit in an effort to keep business on the upward trend.

William Gordon Buchanan, certified public accountant, was elected treasurer of the association for the ensuing year. Mr. Buchanan has been an official of the organization for the past ten years. He is a member of the Board of Certified Public Accountant Examiners for the District of Columbia and is also professor of accountancy and business administration at Georgetown University.

Thom Quits Gas Board.

Resignation of Corcoran Thom, president of American Security & Trust Co., from the board of directors of Washington Gas Light Co. was announced yesterday. Pressure of business was given as his reason.

The trust department of American Security & Trust Co., it is said, has charge of a large amount of Washington Gas Light Co. stock and Mr. Thom is also understood to be a large holder of the company's securities. His resignation will permit him to reduce to an extent his financial activities.

Mr. Thom was elected to the gas company's directorate on April 7, 1930. He filled the vacancy created by the resignation of H. Prescott Gatley. At that time, George A. G. Wood, who subsequently became president of the company, was elected to the board to succeed Ord Preston, whose resignation as president had been announced a few days previous.

Rushe and Young Win Indorsement

Hyattsville and Mt. Rainier Fire Chiefs Are Boomed for State Berths.

Noble F. Rushe has been indorsed by the Prince Georges County Firemen's Association for a post on the executive committee of the State association and Karl A. Young has been indorsed for a place on the legislative committee. Mr. Rushe is chief of the Hyattsville department and unsuccessful candidate for the presidency of the State association, while Mr. Young is chief of the Mount Rainier department and president of the county group.

The firemen also decided to sound out the sentiment of residents of their community on the question of sale of fireworks by the firemen. Possibility that Mr. Rushe might again be a candidate for president of the State group was seen following an announcement by George Finger that the support of the Eastern Shore delegates had been promised to him in the 1932 elections.

Mr. Finger also said that a collection had been taken up at the State convention last week for Mrs. B. Wesley Cranford, whose husband was killed when the Marlboro fire truck overturned last fall. In addition, the Marlboro company is trying to obtain a pension for her.

Larceny Charge Placed Against Alleged Slayer

Pending the action of the District Grand Jury, charges of petit larceny were preferred against Nelson Harrison, 35 years old, who fatally injured Charles Frederick Brandenburg, 38 years old, of 18 I street northwest, while they were riding in an automobile last week. At a coroner's inquest shortly after the shooting, Harrison was ordered held for the grand jury.

A pistol, which was the weapon used in the shooting of Brandenburg; a watch and other small articles were allegedly taken from the room of W. W. Waddell, 637 I street northwest, by Harrison. Harrison, according to police, claimed the shooting was accidental, that it happened when the gun was accidentally discharged.

Recovered Corpse Believed to Be Gill

Body Taken From Eastern Branch Tentatively Identified.

A man's body, tentatively identified as that of Benjamin B. Gill, was found last night in the Eastern Branch. The spot where the corpse was discovered is only a short distance from the Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge from which a man, who Mrs. Gill said was her husband, jumped early Wednesday.

Gill was 44 years old, a machinist at the Navy Yard and a retired World War officer. He lived at 234 Eighth street southeast.

Her husband has not been seen alive since Tuesday, Mrs. Gill told police, when he left home. The couple have three grown children, two daughters and one son.

PAST HELD TO SHOW TRADE REVIVAL NEAR

Striking Analogy of Today's Condition Is Found in Last Century.

(Associated Press.)

Tracing similarities in past business depressions, the Agriculture Deparement's Economics Bureau said yesterday a continuation of the "striking analogy" of the 1914-1931 and 1878-1895 fluctuations "suggests a revival in the near future similar to that of 1894-1895."

Business rose from a low of 80 per cent in June, 1894, to about 96 in January, 1895. During the next quarter a decline dropped the index to slightly below 90, but a succeeding rise brought it up to about 106 in the fall of 1895.

The present depression hit a low of 71 last January. An upward trend extending through the first quarter into April swung the indicator to around 77. The chart for the second quarter has not been drawn.

The bureau presented charts of three periods, 1858 to 1877; 1878 to 1897 and 1914 to 1931.

"Comparing first," the bureau said, "the 1914-1931 period with the 1858-1877 period, the following striking similarities stand out:

"(1) Enormous war-time price inflation gave way to deflation, that of 1864-65 being accompanied by a business depression in 1865, and that of 1920-1921 by a depression in 1921.

"(2) Eight years later, after periods marked by recoveries and minor recessions, industrial booms developed, one in 1873, the other in 1929. The depression following 1873 lasted for about five years, when the boom of 1879-1880 set in. The current depression had been on for a year and a half.

"(3) During the two postwar periods, commodity prices declined from a level of about 240 to 120 in ten years, the post-Civil War decline being fairly continuous, the post-World War decline being interrupted by a period of relative stability from 1922 to 1929.

"Comparing the 1914-1931 series of business fluctuations with those of 1878-1895, a somewhat different suggestion for the next year or two may be obtained. It is possible to trace a striking similarity between major business cycles of 1878-1885 and 1914-1921, and between the major cycles of 1885-1894 and 1921-1930.

"Even the minor cycles terminating in 1888 and 1924, 1891 and 1927 and 1894 and 1930 are similar. A continuation of this more striking analogy suggests a revival in the near future similar to that of 1894-1895."

Ritchie to Hear Underpass Plea

Colmar Manor and Cottage City Committee Will Seek State Sanction.

A committee of three citizens of Colmar Manor and Cottage City will call on Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and the State Roads Commission today to ask construction of an underpass beneath the Baltimore boulevard, where it passes between these two towns.

The committee, composed of H. W. Byers, William Sebree and R. A. Donley, will carry a petition signed by about 600 persons, including Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer, Walter M. Grimes, president of the county board; T. Howard Duckett, chairman of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission; Irving Owings, chairman of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission; Perry Boswell, president of the Board of Education; Mrs. Susie Shegogue and Claude G. McKee, members of the board, and Nicholas Orem, superintendent of schools.

The committee will point out that boulevard traffic is now so heavy that crossing it is dangerous and that widening will increase the danger. Traffic lights, policemen and an overhead bridge have been suggested to relieve the situation, with townspeople favoring an underpass.

Short-Ton Coal Case Is Dropped by District

Upon the recommendation of William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, the District Commissioners yesterday dropped the short-ton coal case against the James E. Colliflower Co., on the ground that the purpose of the test trial had been achieved when the court held that coal must be sold by the long ton in the District.

The Colliflower Co.'s conviction would have served no further purpose, particularly as the Washington coal dealers have returned to the long-ton basis, and it would probably have resulted in prolonged litigation as the coal dealers planned an appeal.

COUNTY CANDIDATE SUPPORTS PARKWAY

Rust Expresses Confidence of Success at Polls in Arlington and Fairfax.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Indorsement of the George Washington Memorial Parkway as planned in the Cramton Act was given by John W. Rust, of Fairfax County, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the State Senate, at the primary to be held August 5, at a dinner last night at Windsor Arms.

Rust declared that the development of the Parkway, as outlined by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, is the greatest opportunity that has presented itself to Virginia and that the State, as far as it is possible to do so, should aid in the financing of the project.

Rust, who is being opposed by Col. Charles T. Jesse, further stated that he favored a higher standard of teachers and textbooks in the public schools in the State.

Rust expressed confidence of success at the polls, stating he is advised by his supporters that he will carry both Fairfax and Prince William counties. The vote in Alexandria City and Arlington county, he predicts, will be close.

Despite the claims of Rust, Jesse supporters are claiming the election of their candidate by a good vote over the entire district.

With the view of acquainting the voters of Arlington County with the purposes of the Arlington County Better Government League, recently organized, a special committee, of which Frank G. Campbell is the chairman, is completing a circular to be distributed throughout the county setting forth in detail the organization's plans.

As stated by President Anderson, the major object of the organization is to thoroughly study the qualifications of all persons announcing themselves as candidates for the county board.

The organization is composed of seven representatives from each of the eleven voting precincts within the county.

The Woman's Club of Ashton Heights announces there will be no further meetings until September.

More than 250 persons last night attended the benefit dinner given in the Lyon Park Community House. The dinner was prepared and served by the men of the Lyon Park Citizens Association.

The Clarendon Circle of St. George's Episcopal Church will hold a benefit bake sale tomorrow at Pitkins' garage, Wilson boulevard, at Clarendon.

Charged with assault upon Percy Butler, colored, with a deadly weapon, Daniel Galloway was released on $500 bond yesterday by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas pending a hearing Monday, July 27, at 9:30 a. m.

The Clarendon Woman's Christian Temperance Union will hold its annual lawn party and supper tomorrow evening from 4 to 7 o'clock at the Clarendon Methodist Church.

Following the supper there will be a program of entertainment, including readings and songs.

Despite the stormy weather, record crowds are attending the annual carnival of the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department which opened on the grounds adjacent to the fire house Monday night. Each night candidates for the various county offices may be seen mingling among the crowds seeking the support of the voters.

The Creative Arts Club of Arlington County met last night at the home of Mrs. Dudley Harrison, Kirkwood road, Clarendon.

The business meeting included the report of Mrs. Florence E. Cannon on the Bicentennial Commission meeting recently held in Manassas. Plans for the club's activity in the bicentennial were discussed at length.

Concluding the business session an interesting program was presented, including the reading of a feature article by Mrs. J. A. McKnight. Mrs. Clarence Hecox gave an able talk on "The Preparation of Textbooks," illustrated with her own work in this field. This was followed by a recitation by Miss Virginia Harrison, "Primrose Hill."

The president, Mrs. Sade Catherine Coles, presided.

The Arlington Rotary Club held its weekly meeting yesterday at the Washington Golf and Country Club. Following the luncheon, a social hour was spent which was turned into a reception welcoming the return of the president, Thomas Phillips, who attended the annual national Rotary convention at Vienna, Austria.

President Phillips gave a comprehensive report of the activities of the convention, together with an interesting account of the trip.

Col. Charles T. Jesse, a member of the club who has been confined to his home in Country Club Hills for the past few days suffering from a summer cold, was in attendance.

Girl-Wife Seeks To Hold Man Here

Suit Says Husband Will Go to France to Avoid Maintenance.

A threat that he would go to France where courts of this country would not reach him if his wife attempted to collect suitable maintenance from him yesterday led to a suit on the part of Mrs. Marjorie Elizabeth Scoggins, 17 years old, 2805 Rhode Island avenue northeast, to restrain her husband from leaving the District and also to compel him to support her.

Mrs. Scoggins tells the court that she was married October 14, 1928, to Clifford Thaxton Scoggins, in Abbeville, S. C. The couple lived together until July, 1929, when the husband left, his wife charges, and did not communicate with her.

The girl-wife came with her mother when she learned her husband was here, and the suit was filed by her mother as her next friend. Scoggins is a clerk in an F street shoe store and makes between $35 and $50 a week. A writ of ne exeat was requested by the wife to keep her husband in the District.

Songsters Entertain Kiwanis.

Fred East and William F. Raymond, songster Kiwanians, yesterday entertained members of that organization at the weekly luncheon held at the Washington Hotel. They were accompanied by Robert Gotta. Louis T. Breuninger was chairman of the program committee.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

HAIL AND WIND RUIN BUILDINGS AND FRUIT

Maryland and Virginia Areas Suffer Heavy Damage; Airplanes Lost.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., July 16.—Two storms, which struck here within half an hour of each other this afternoon, left much damage in their path. Hail and wind did most of the damage.

Halfway, a town midway between Hagerstown and Williamsport, experienced one of the worst hailstorms recorded here since the great hailstorm of June 6, 1917, when scarcely a roof or window glass remained intact in the city. Hailstones as large as hen eggs to the depth of four inches fell at Halfway during the first storm today, riddling tin roofs and shattering much window glass.

Crops in an area 4 miles long and a mile wide were cut to pieces.

Hailstones as large as marbles, but of no great quantity, fell here, but did no damage.

The wind, during the second storm, when it became as dark as night, was of cyclonic force, knocking down scores of large trees and crippling communications. The lightning was severe, striking many places, but did no large damage. Fire companies extinguished several small fires started by lightning.

Four Airplanes Demolished.

Charlottesville, Va., July 16 (Special).—A check-up today showed that the violent hail and electrical storm that yesterday lashed Wood Field, local airport operated by The Dixie Flying Service, Inc., demolished four planes, damaged two others, and partially wrecked the new hangar under construction to replace the one destroyed by a twister five weeks ago.

Edward M. Sturhahn, president of the Dixie company, said that the greater portion of the loss, estimated at $20,000, was covered by insurance.

Hail Damages Fruit Trees.

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 16 (Special).—Fruit growers in this apple belt reported scattered damage to growing fruit from hail in a storm late Wednesday afternoon. Thousands of barrels of potential apples were ruined for market, according to growers' estimates.

Heaviest damage was done in the Apple Pie Ridge section immediately west of this city, and the Cherry Run section in Morgan County, in both of which the hail fell in large size and in quantities.

L. E. Wood, 58, Dies At Charlottesville

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 16.—Levington Early Wood, 58, well-known resident of Crozet, died at his home after a brief illness of pneumonia. The funeral was held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Crozet Baptist Church, with interment in Rock Gate Cemetery.

Mr. Wood is survived by his widow and two sons and three daughters, Dan Wood, of Norfolk; Drury Wood, of Crozet; Mrs. Pauline Duke, of Ashland, and Mrs. W. H. Plumb and Miss Catherine Wood of this city.

Virginia Delegates Are Without Foes

Half of House Members Declared Nominees at Richmond.

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., July 16.—Nearly 50 per cent of the Democratic candidates for the House of Delegates and most of the members of the State Senate who are seeking reelection are without opposition and have been declared nominees, it was learned today.

Several veteran members of the Legislature have declined to run again. Senators James S. Barron, Norfolk; William H. Jeffreys, jr., Chase City; Frank L. Ball, Clarendon; Ward Swank, Harrisonburg, and Waller Holladay, Richmond, have declined for business reasons to seek reelection. Capt. Charles M. Wallace and Capt. John J. Wicker, jr., both of Richmond, are new candidates for the Senate.

Mrs. Emma Lee S. White, only woman member of the General Assembly, is opposed by J. C. Miller for renomination for the House. Col. John W. Williams, clerk of the House, and Oris Victor Hangar, clerk of the Senate, have compiled the lists of candidates. It is expected that Republicans will make numerous nominations after the Democratic primary next month.

Gang of 14 Indicted In Rum Smuggling

Bonds in Baltimore Court Aggregate $141,000 in 3 Charges.

Baltimore, Md., July 16 (A.P.).—Three indictments, charging violation of the liquor and revenue laws, were returned today by the Federal grand jury against fourteen men arrested last May while attempting to smuggle liquor into Maryland, near Cambridge, on the Eastern Shore.

All fourteen of the men were named in one indictment, which contained six counts, charging violation of the revenue laws, attempting to smuggle liquor into the country and having contraband merchandise in their possession. All the men gave New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania addresses. All except three were named in another indictment charging possession and transportation of liquor. Similar charges were made against those three in the third indictment. All of the defendants were released under aggregate bond of $141,000.

Clarksburg Bookkeeper Hangs Self.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 16 (Special).—After writing a note, telling of domestic troubles over a period of years, Dallas L. Swiger, 38, bookkeeper for a defunct hardware firm, hanged himself to a tree in his back yard early this morning. He leaves his widow and two daughters. His father, C. Nelson Swiger, of Brown, committed suicide about twenty years ago.

$1,000,000 Charlottesville Estate Revealed to Public

Repose, Home of Native Who Made Fortune in Philadelphia, Occupies Mountain and Commands Magnificent View of Country.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 16.—Local residents are now for the first time getting a glimpse of Repose, one of the show places in Virginia, built and owned by J. Addison Patterson, a native of this city, who went to Philadelphia and made a fortune in real estate and then returned to erect a palatial residence atop the highest peak in the range of mountains lying just east of Charlottesville.

The estate, for which the owner once refused an offer of $1,000,000, comprises practically an entire mountain. It is located across the road from the entrance to Monticello, home of Jefferson, and just above Ash Lawn, for 26 years the home of President James Monroe.

There are 230 acres of fertile land in the estate, of which about 50 are in woodland, 50 in apple and peach orchards, 100 in grass and cultivation and the balance around the buildings in lawns and paddocks.

The property, unique in many respects, is especially so in the fact that the owner can occupy it delightfully, even out of sound of farm activities, can touch them much or little as he is inclined, indulging his taste for crops and stock raising or for the orchard that can alone be made to yield an excellent return on the entire investment.

The residence commands an inspiring outlook in all directions. To the east are the endless wooded flat lands with such atmospheric effects as to be at times easily mistaken for the ocean. To the south and west are the rolling lands, the foothills, the ragged mountains of which Edgar Allan Poe wrote, and as far as the eye can reach the main range of the Blue Ridge. To the north is Charlottesville and the University of Virginia.

The residence was designed and built by Philadelphia architects and mechanics by day's work under a skilled foreman, seeking the best in every branch of the work. The foundation, 50x100 feet, is a solid rock. The materials are stone of every hue, roughly faced and laid by Italian masons, and the roof of Ludovici red tile with copper gutters and spoutings. Porches with large stone columns, some pergola effects and brick floors, practically surround the house.

At the south end is the living room with double door to the hall and French windows leading out of doors and to a sunroom on the west. It has a large tiled fireplace with artistic wood mantel, cornice and chair rail. The hall is 15x30 feet with dark red imported tile floor, laid with mortar joints, wood paneling, cornice and handsome stairway.

The dining room has large tiled fireplace with specially designed wood mantel, built-in china closets, cornice and chair rail. It communicates by double swing doors with pantry and storeroom and through a blow-way with the kitchen.

At the south end of the second floor is the master's bedroom, dressing room, ample closets and private bath. It has windows on three sides, a balcony on the west, and tiled open fireplace. There are large rooms for guests and two rooms with private bath for servants.

The stables are built of stone, wood and some steel, with cedar shingle roofs. They surround a hollow square 200 by 200 feet, in one corner of which is the artesian well, drilled 1,000 feet through rock and supplying the buildings with perfect water.

There are several stone and frame cottages on the place and spacious gardens.

Heavy Entry List Already Assured for Annual Event Saturday.

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., July 16.—Hunters and ponies from various sections of Virginia will compete Saturday at the third annual Loudoun hunt horse show, on the estate of E. A. Miller. Already 200 entries have been received by John Galleher, secretary. As post entries will be accepted, it is thought the number will reach 300.

With this list including the best horseflesh from northern Virginia and some from New York, the management expects this year's exhibition to rival Leesburg shows of other days, when the event ranked high.

Leading exhibitors include: Mrs. John Hay Whitney, of Upperville; Roger Bayly, Upperville; D. O. Furr and D. O. Furr, jr, Middleburg; Miss Julia Whiting, Mrs. D. C. Sands, Ernest Redmond, Arthur White, L. C. Leith and Skinner Brothers, of the Middleburg neighborhood; Walter H. Bowes, of New York, with twenty entries; Mrs. Stanley Green, Judge J. R. H. Alexander, James di Zerega, Murt Legg, Hunton F. Atwell, of Leesburg, and A. Smith Bowman, of Sunset Hills, Fairfax County.

Outstanding ponies entered are Elmon Miller's Herbie, Doughboy and Demitasse, John Alexander's Sonny Boy, "Sonny" Furr's War Baby, John A. Gibson, jr.'s Twenty Grand and entries of Mary Snowden Rust, Elizabeth Payne Gore, Raymond Earl Gore and Betty Lyon, all local exhibitors.

Silver trophies and money will be given as prizes. The program begins at 10 a. m. The feature will be the Loudoun Hunt Trophy for horses regularly hunted during season of 1930-1931, to be ridden by owner or member of his immediate family. Performance only will count.

Other classes are saddle ponies, under 12 hands; saddle ponies, 12 hands and not over 14.2; pony jumping, 3-year-olds suitable to become hunters, hunter hacks, green hunters, touch-and-out, handicap, lightweight hunters, open to all, middle and heavy weight hunters, 3-year-old hunters, Corinthian class, hunt team, consolation and championship hunter.

FREDERICK WOMAN KILLED ON HIGHWAY

Miss Frost Struck by Truck; Deafness Held Cause; Driver Freed.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 16.—Miss F. Lucetta Frost, 59, was struck by an automobile truck on the National highway within a short distance of the country estate of her brother-in-law, Casper E. Cline, president of the Commercial Bank, this morning and was almost instantly killed. She was taken to the City Hospital, but died from a fractured skull before arrival.

Witnesses said Miss Frost walked in front of the truck. She was very deaf and members of her family had sought to restrain her from going on the highway where traffic is heavy.

Shortly before the accident she started for the home of Alexander Klein, about an eighth of a mile away, but stopped until a car passed. She then started across the road and was struck by the truck.

The driver, Chester Knepper, Hagerstown, and T. A. Milburn, owner of the truck, went to the aid of the injured woman. Miss Frost was a daughter of the late Eli Frost and was an active worker in Calvary Methodist Episcopal Sunday school. She made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Cline.

Following an investigation, Magistrate Alton Y. Bennett, acting coroner, exonerated Knepper from blame.

Because of her deafness Miss Frost was struck by an automobile several days ago, but was not injured. The funeral will be held from her late home Saturday.

Beetle Infestation Menaces Virginia

State Entomologist Says Precautions Will Reduce Danger.

Richmond, Va., July 16 (A.P.).—Further infestation of Virginia by the Japanese beetle is to be expected but not at a rate to cause alarm if proper precautions are taken, G. T. French, State entomologist, said today.

Recent discovery of a few of the beetles in Richmond does not mean that the general infestation has spread to this portion of the State, but probably that the pests were brought to the city in the grub stage on the roots of some plant from an infested area, Mr. French said. He added, however, that discovery of the pests here means that care will have to be exercised for several years to prevent its rapid spread.

Mr. French recalled that the Japanese beetle first was discovered in the United States in 1916 in Riverton, N. J., and since that time has spread over most of the Atlantic seaboard as far South as Virginia and to a small area in Florida. In Virginia only the Eastern Shore counties and the counties along the upper Potomac have been affected to an extent warranting quarantine restrictions so far.

Albemarle Fixes Fund For Fete at Yorktown

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 16.—The Albemarle County board of supervisors at its regular meeting made an appropriation for the Yorktown sesquicentennial celebration, and adopted a resolution providing for a complete soil survey of the county, to be made by the authorities at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

At the request of several county inhabitants who live near the Rockfish River, the county manager was instructed by the board to investigate the feasibility of constructing a bridge over the Rockfish River at a point between Howardsville and Schuyler.

SECOND STORM HITS CAPITAL; THIRD DUE

19 Heat Deaths Reported in Midwest; Hail Damages Montgomery Crops.

Hot Weather Puts Halt On Measles Epidemic

It's an ill wind * * * and all that!

The heat wave may cause thousands to swelter and a few prostrations, but it has terminated the most severe epidemic of measles to strike the District, according to Health Officer William C. Fowler.

So far there have been 4,161 cases of measles, with 12 fatalities, recorded in the Health Department since January 1, as compared to 897 cases and one death during the entire year 1930. For a while as many as 100 cases were reported daily this year, chiefly among school children.

This week, however, only three new cases have been reported. Dr. Fowler recalled yesterday that he had predicted that the hot weather would end the epidemic.

Washington had hardly recovered from one severe rainstorm when it was visited by another yesterday afternoon. A third is predicted for this afternoon.

Yesterday's was short but furious. It disrupted telephone service between Washington and North Beach and Prince Frederick in Maryland, by blowing a tree through a telephone line near Marlboro, Md.; blew the roof off a house at Brentwood, Md., and uprooted trees, flattened telephone poles and flooded cellars. The telephone line was repaired last night.

Hail accompanied the rain in Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties.

The wind reached a velocity of 42 miles an hour between 2 and 3 o'clock and sent the temperature down from 92 degrees to 74 within 40 minutes. An hour after the rain ceased, humidity had saturated the city with a maximum of 95 per cent at the United States Weather Bureau and 100 per cent at the hydrometer at the kiosk in front of The Post Building. The maximum temperature at the kiosk was 96, dropping to 82 during the storm.

Duplicate Storm Due.

The expected storm this afternoon will be a duplicate of the one on Wednesday with thunder roaring and lightning flashing against a background of slate-colored skies, according to the Weather Bureau forecast.

The roof was whipped from the home of Andrew Gravette, on Zigzag avenue, Brentwood Md. Several persons were in the house, but escaped injury. Two telephone poles were blown down on Ager road just west of Hyattsville. A tree was uprooted at Spa and Hamilton streets, Cottage City, falling across the electric power line. The tree was removed by members of the Cottage City Fire Department and service was resumed.

At the height of the storm a fire broke out in the woods at West Madison and Wine avenues, Hyattsville. The blaze was quickly extinguished. A large tree was blown down in the 1,600 block of Wisconsin avenue.

Hail Damages Crops.

Corn and wheat in Montgomery County, lashed and beaten by the rain and hail, suffered considerable damage. Many fields looked as if a steam roller had traveled over them.

The intense heat that preceded the storm struck down one victim, Robert Leckie, of 3911 Kansas avenue northwest. Mr. Leckie's collapse was reported to have been superinduced by nervous exhaustion brought on by grief because of the death of his father, James M. Leckie, on Wednesday. Mr. Leckie was taken to Emergency Hospital. His condition was described as "fair" late last night.

The temperature in 17 principal cities was higher than in Washington yesterday. The highest listed by the U. S. Weather Bureau was 106 degrees in Phoenix, Ariz.

Plane Is Damaged.

The landing gear was ripped from the plane of Lieut. John D. Barker, of Hampton Roads, when he landed at the Naval Air Station yesterday afternoon.

Lieut. Barker came down on a part of the field made soft by recent rains. After the landing gear was torn off, the plane turned slowly on its back. The pilot was not injured.

Chicago, July 16 (U.P.).—Nineteen heat deaths were reported from various parts of the Midwest tonight after a day in which temperatures exceeded 100 degrees. Ten of the deaths were in the region surrounding St. Paul, Minn., six in Chicago, two in Iowa and one in Indiana.

Although temperatures of 100 degrees were the rule rather than the exception, the Kansas City Weather Bureau reported that the weather could not be considered a heat wave. Thermometer readings of from 100 to 103 in the Kansas wheat fields were normal, said the weather forecast there.

A few local showers merely turned to steam while farmers, unable for the most part to labor in the blazing sun, hoped for rain.

Forecaster W. P. Day in Chicago said no relief was in sight before Saturday.

(Associated Press.)

Midwesterners, promised an early end to the summer's second heat wave, held on patiently through another siege of roasting temperatures yesterday, while the South was succored by timely rains.

Wet weather advanced from the Northwestern plains upon Minnesota and the Dakotas, supplementing last night's showers, which cooled off the Canadian border States and the Atlantic seaboard. Local and occasional showers were predicted for most of the Mississippi and Missouri Valley region except Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Indiana and most of Illinois and Missouri. There the relief, which reached the Rocky Mountains and the Northwestern plains yesterday, is not expected until tomorrow. The Pacific Coast enjoyed normal weather.

Meanwhile, thermometers in the Mississippi Valley frequently read in three figures. Stevens Point, Wis., reported a temperature of 101 degrees; Clinton, Iowa, 102; Huron, Iowa, 100; Sioux Falls, Iowa, 98; Davenport, Iowa, 99; St. Paul, 97, and Chicago, 95.

Michigan, Wisconsin Report Deaths.

Six deaths were attributed to the heat in Wisconsin and the Michigan peninsula and five in North Dakota and Minnesota. Kansas roasted at a 100-degree level, which was almost Statewide.

Lincoln and Omaha, Nebr., however, had cooled off to 93 degrees and Des Moines, Iowa, to 94, forecasting the approach of the rain. In the Southwest readings in the middle 80's were the rule.

More rain was predicted for the South, where serious aspects of the drought had already been removed. Mobile, Ala., reported nearly 7 inches of precipitation in 24 hours of the two-day spell.

FAIRFAX IS RAISING $5,000 FOR HIGHWAY

Town Will Share in Cost of Widening Road Which Is Its Main Street.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

H. G. Shirley, chairman of the State Highway Commission, has promised officials of Fairfax that the State will widen the Lee-Jackson highway through the town if $5,000 is raised by the local authorities to meet part of the expense. The present highway is only 16 feet wide, which takes care of the combined traffic of the Little River turnpike, the Lee highway and the Chain Bridge road.

The proposed plan for the widening of the main street calls for the addition of 18 feet in width from the junction of the Lee-Jackson and Lee highway through the business section of the town, and past the Fairfax County Jail. An additional 10 feet in width will be laid from the jail property to the western limits of the town. Engineers state that there is ample room to widen the roadway without much encroachment on the present sidewalk space and the buildings along the street will not be disturbed.

Efforts are being made to raise the necessary $5,000 by private subscriptions and it is stated by those who have been soliciting pledges that it is expected that the money will be raised within a short time. As soon as the money needed is pledged to be paid on the completion of the work it is stated that the State will send its forces to Fairfax to begin the work.

The annual Forestville day celebration and carnival will open this evening in the Great Falls Grange Hall, on the Old Georgetown-Leesburg pike at Forestville. This evening activities will consist of square dancing and an entertainment program.

The carnival will last all day tomorrow, with a baseball game between McLean and Colvin Run in the afternoon. Among other attractions will be a tug of war between the McLean and Forestville teams at 6 o'clock in the evening, a baby show, fat women's races, nail-driving contests and other sporting events.

The committees in charge of the arrangements include: L. B. Morris, general chairman; W. C. Walker, J. M. Sanders and Mark Turner, purchasing; Mrs. Marvin Sanders, Mrs. C. A. Pirkey and Mrs. A. C. Speight, A. G. Schmitz and O. K. Miller, ice cream; P. E. Goode, T. T. Utterback and H. E. Tavenner, soft drinks; William Winston, C. A. Pirkey, Paul Cornwell and Henry Powers, baseball throw; John W. Preston and A. G. Jackson, games; William Tavenner, Claude Jenkins and Oswald V. Carper, tug of war; A. G. Spieght, lighting arrangement; W. C. Walker, J. M. Sanders, aluminum ware; Lacy McCutcheon, darts; D. D. Cornwell, square dancing, and J. M. Sanders, music and orchestra. The celebration will be concluded with dancing in the Grange Hall tomorrow evening.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union of Herndon will hold a meeting this afternoon in the Congregational Church. Plans will be completed for the oratorical contest to be held during the latter part of the month.

The Fairfax Troop of Boy Scouts will go on a hike this afternoon and evening according to the plans announced by Scoutmaster Royal A. Rice. The troop members are requested to meet at the club house at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The first honors in the cake-baking contest staged at the Volunteer Firemen's carnival at Falls Church were won by two 14-year-old girls, Pauline Hall and Mary Thompson, of Falls Church, who baked the cake jointly and won the $2.50 gold piece. The girls were victorious over 24 of the most expert cake bakers in the neighborhood. Mrs. Howard P. Wreen, of Franklin Park, won the second prize. Mrs. Luther Elliott, of the Women's Auxiliary of the Falls Church Department, had charge of the contest. The judges were: Martin T. Webb, of Annandale; Mrs. Ernest Brown, of Princeton, W. Va., and Mrs. John Royston, of Hume, Va. The cakes were later sold for the benefit of the department. A second cake-baking contest will be held tomorrow night.

The first quarterly conference of the Oakton, Vienna and Wiehle Methodist Episcopal Churches will be held this evening in the Oakton church, on the Chain Bridge road. Dr. B. W. Meeks, of Washington, the district superintendent, will preside.

The Fairfax County Fireman's Association will meet this evening in Robey Hall, Fairfax. President J. H. Beattie and the chiefs of the five volunteer fire companies in Fairfax County have been notified by County Engineer F. N. Larkin that there is a balance on hand in the county treasury to the credit of the various departments for county fire protection, raised last year by the 3-cent levy.

Dr. A. L. Carson, jr., director of the Fairfax County health unit, announced yesterday that at a recent conference held in Washington between Dr. R. R. Ashworth, chief food inspector of the District of Columbia, and J. W. Smith, sanitation inspector of the State of Virginia, details were worked out regarding sanitation of dairies in Virginia shipping milk to Washington. Heretofore, the State and District regulations were at variance and a dairyman who complied with one violated the other.

The regulations now are: Approved box and can or flush toilets, are to be used at dairy barns shipping milk to Washington and must be located not less than 100 feet or more than 300 feet from the dairy house. Toilets on the dairy farm located more than 300 feet from the dairy building shall be either approved sanitary pit or flush toilets. Dairymen desiring information or specifications should apply to the Fairfax health department, at the Fairfax Courthouse, or to the District of Columbia health department in Washington. The regulations require, also, that the contents of the box and can toilet be buried at least 300 feet from the dairy barn and the dairy barn well and be buried at a depth of at least 18 inches.

The Fairfax county health department has requested all dairymen in the county who are shipping milk to Washington to comply with these regulations as promptly as possible.

The Lee District Improvement Association will meet this evening in the schoolhouse at Sydenstricker. The question to be considered is the attitude of Alexandria to the immediate improvement of the Pohick-Annandale road.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE GARBLE SISTERS—THEY DISCUSS THE DEBT SUSPENSION.

"WELL, what do you make out of this debt-suspension stuff?

"I think it's a good idea, but I was afraid it wouldn't go through at first. It's a good thing the United States had a man like Von Elm over there to handle things."

"Germany certainly was grateful to Uncle Sam for putting the idea across. Did you read that wonderful telegram President Schmeling sent to President Hoover?"

"Yes, it was splendid. I was afraid at first that the French wouldn't agree to the plan, weren't you?"

"I certainly was. Those French cabinet meetings were pretty rough, especially that one in which Briand fired some blank shots at Peter Arno."

"It wasn't Briand who fired those shots at Arno."

"Who was it?"

"A fellow named Billy Burke. It was some sort of a row over the beer - running business. There wasn't any shooting in the French cabinet meetings."

"I guess I was thinking of the German cabinet meeting. I remember reading about a hot fight between the supporters of Von Hindenburg and Young Stribling."

"This debt suspension will give Germany a chance to get on her feet."

"Wasn't it strange that the Pope should oppose the debt suspension so much with all those encyclicals?"

"Yes. Every time Mellon and Gatty would nearly reach an agreement the Pope would issue an encyclical. I don't see why the Pope should butt in on debt suspensions."

"All I remember about the issue was that it had something to do with something called stratosphere."

"I thought stratosphere was a kind of air discovered by those two balloonists, Wiley Post and Sir Hubert Wilkins, in that flight from Oklahoma over the Swiss Alps in a submersible that could cut through the ice in case they got lost under the Pole."

"There's so much happening these days it's awfully hard to keep everything straight. I missed some of the big news events because all I did was read about that golf tournament out in Toledo."

"Who won it?"

"A fellow named Stimson. He played Pierre Laval 144 holes before he could win. That golfer who won the British open a few weeks ago wasn't even in the finals. You know the one I mean?"

"Julius Curtius?"

"No."

"Walter Edge?"

"No."

"Ramsay MacDonald?"

"That's the one!"

SET 'EM UP IN THE OTHER ALLEY.

Up today and down tomorrow,
Wall street is a street of sorrow.

Two weeks after the match, Billy Burke still keeps looking around nervously wherever he goes. He thinks Von Elm may still be with him.

Prince Georges Woman Sues Mate for Children

Telling the court that Robert C. Morris' habit of shifting from job to job kept his family in constant poverty, Mrs. Elizabeth Morris yesterday sued for a limited divorce in Prince Georges County. She asks custody of three children and alimony.

Mrs. Morris, who lives in Riverdale, says that the children are now in the custody of her husband at Hyattsville. He was awarded them by the court after she had placed them in a nursery so she could work, she says.

Virginian Accused Of Slaying Cousin

Bennett Walden Admits Quarrel With Youth Killed by Train.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., July 16.—Bennett Walden, aged 26, was today held at Chatham for the action of the next grand jury charged with killing his cousin, Jerry Walden, 18, whose mangled remains were found on the tracks of the Virginian Railway near Hurt early Tuesday morning.

Walden was arrested yesterday in a house near the scene suffering from wounds and bruises and exhausted from lack of food. Last night he admitted he had been present when his cousin was murdered, but he named another relative as the slayer. His own injuries, he said, were due to attempting to board a freight train, but later he said that he had been attacked by a second man. Formally charged with the offense, Walden, at a preliminary hearing held this morning, repudiated all previous statements and admitted that he had quarreled with his cousin while walking along the tracks.

He admits attacking Jerry Walden, who fell on the tracks, and leaving the scene immediately. Authorities believe that Jerry Walden was stunned by the blow and lay on the tracks until a train passed over him.

Recluse Releases Pets Before Taking Own Life

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., July 16.—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for John Easley, 75, recluse, found dead in his home near Ringgold yesterday by a rural mail carrier. The man was slumped on the floor, a rifle beside him and a bullet through his head.

A note asked authorities to notify relatives. No reason was assigned. Before dying, Easley had released his pet rabbits, a flock of chickens and his horse.

Man, 36, Registered As Born This Year

Frederick, Md., July 16 (A.P.).—The Frederick County health department recently had the experience of arguing with a 36-year-old man that he was born in 1931 instead of 1895.

The man was Paul Roscoe Holtz, born June 11, 1895. His family, however, failed to have the birth certificate recorded until last month, when it was sent to the health department. Having been received in the correct month, the certificate was entered as of June 11, 1931.

When the lists of births for June were published, Holtz was shown to be a month or so old. He vehemently maintained he was 36, and the records were straightened.

CIVIC LEADER HELD ON LARCENY CHARGE

Steele Is Freed on Bond in Case Involving $21,564 at Harrisonburg.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., July 16.—Edgar Steele, past commander of Rockingham Post, American Legion, prominent in church work and one of the best known young business men of Harrisonburg, was charged with larceny from the City Produce Exchange, Inc., of which he was cashier, in a warrant issued tonight for his arrest.

Steele was discharged by the City Produce Exchange, Inc., one of the largest egg and chicken commission houses in the South, about a week ago after auditors began checking his accounts. He remained here.

Owing to Steele's prominence, the affair has created a sensation. The warrant charged larceny of $21,564 from July 11, 1929, to June 27, 1931.

The warrant, sworn out by Emmanuel Blosser, president of the produce exchange, was issued by Magistrate K. C. Moore. After the warrant was served on Steele tonight he gave bond for $7,500 for the preliminary hearing before Magistrate K. C. Moore on August 14. J. Holmes Moore, his father-in-law, was Steele's bondsman.

S. S. Warnick, 86, Dead in Maryland

Commander of G. A. Post Also Was Once Sheriff of Allegany.

Special to The Washington Post.

Mr. Warnick narrated an experience which put him in touch with Gen. Sheridan. At Halltown, Va., where Mosby's men were stationed, Mr. Warnick captured a fine horse and bridle. He said, "This capture aided me greatly in what was to come later, for on September 19, I carried a dispatch from Cedar Creek to Sheridan and this dispatch brought Sheridan to the front. From that time on I was with Sheridan on special detail duty."

While a resident of Barton he was elected sheriff. He also served a term as superintendent of the county home. Tyler Post will ask the American Legion to officiate at their comrade's funeral Saturday. Mr. Warnick is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Grace E. Crutchley, with whom he resided, and two sons, Charles A. Warnick, Kewburg, W. V., and Henry Harrison Warnick, Duquesne, Pa.
